

World in Brief
Panelists Named
For First Debate

WASHINGTON — Television network executives still object to the ground rules, but the first presidential debate since 1960 will be carried on four national channels Thursday night as scheduled.

Edwin Newman of NBC News will moderate the first confrontation between President Ford and Jimmy Carter, and questioners will be James P. Gannon of the Wall Street Journal, Elizabeth Drew of the New Yorker and Frank Reynolds of ABC News.

The panelists will serve only for the first debate. A League of Women Voters spokesman said there has been no decision whether Newman will act as moderator for all three.

Ted's Suspects
Are Out of Jail

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — All three suspects in an alleged plot to assassinate Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., have been released on personal recognizance pending a trial for the trio Sept. 30.

Robert E. White, 42, of Springfield, who had been held on $25,000 bail as the alleged ringleader of the plot to kill Kennedy during a campaign appearance two weeks ago, was released Monday after an appearance in Springfield District Court.

Codefendants David J. King, 31, of Springfield and Sandra R. Rondeau, 37, of nearby Westfield had been released on personal recognizance shortly after their arrests Sept. 11.

NASA'S SPACE SHUTTLE orbiter "Enterprise" was put on display for the public this week at the Rockwell Palmdale facility in California and more than 35,000 persons jammed the plant to get a look at the craft. The "Enterprise" has the capability of making 100 round trips into earth orbit and return. Plans call for the first space flight in the early 1980s.

Beirut Deadlock
Caused by Fighting

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Clashes between rightists and leftists broke out in Beirut 48 hours before President-elect Elias Sarkis was to be inaugurated. At least a dozen persons reportedly were killed.

The fighting caused a deadlock in peace talks and raised doubts today that parliament will be able to meet to swear Sarkis in. One Western diplomat said, right now, it "looks like we may not even get a short-term truce to allow Sarkis to take office."

Ave and Brezhnev
Discuss Campaign

MOSCOW — Former Ambassador to Moscow W. Averell Harriman and now a foreign policy adviser to Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter met with Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev in the Kremlin Monday. Harriman said, "I thought he might be upset by the campaign rhetoric and I found he knew all about it and he was."

Harriman said he told Brezhnev that much of it was for domestic consumption and should not be considered binding foreign policy. But, he added, "Mr. Brezhnev made it very plain ... he is going to have to deal with the next president and he is willing to."

Tax Votes, Tax Returns Issues in Debate

Maurice Hinchey

By CAZY DOWALIBY
Freeman staff

ELLENVILLE — Amid occasional catcalls, shouts, boos and hisses from the 160 or so spectators, the two candidates for the 101st Assembly district seat met head on last night in the first of a series of debates scheduled between now and election day. Neither man scored a clear victory.

The arguments presented to a standing-room-only crowd in the Christ Lutheran Church hall here echoed the basic campaign lines already presented by both incumbent Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey, D-101st Dist., and his opponent, local Republican businessman Maurice Rosenstock.

The major issue, as it has been throughout the campaign, was a difference of opinion about Hinchey's voting record on taxes.

Rosenstock charged, again, that the incumbent had voted for $1,880,000,000 in new taxes for the state during his first two years in office.

Hinchey doesn't really deny it, but points out that several of the bills in question were never enacted.

The spectators
booed and shouted periodically.

The spectators — many carrying Hinchey bags or sporting Rosenstock buttons — booed and shouted periodically during the two and a half hour debate, which skimmed over stock issues like aid to education, youth programs, developing business incentives in the state, tax reform and mass transportation.

The participants were limited to five minutes each in their answers — a time limit which, at alternate times, they indicated was not to their liking.

Apologizing for a laryngitis-stricken voice, Rosenstock, in his opening and closing remarks, called for a change in philosophy concerning the current tax system, bringing new jobs into the state and welfare reform.

Hinchey continued to hammer away at what has become the main theme of his re-election bid: his availability and effectiveness as an Assemblyman. He pointed to his work against Central Hudson rate increases and in favor of expanded-area calling service for northern Ulster residents from N.Y. Telephone.

The Saugerties resident also called up images of his days as a labor union member and organizer and portrayed himself as a friend of the working man.

Asked whether or not he felt the evening had been a profitable one, Rosenstock remarked that he felt "generally

Disappointment for Ford

Costs Up .5%

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The cost of living rose 0.5 per cent for the third straight month in August, reflecting higher prices for clothing, gasoline, fruits and vegetables, the Labor Department reported today.

The consumer price increase translates into an annual inflation rate of 6 per cent, larger than administration economists had expected. President Ford has projected an inflation rate of 5 per cent for 1976.

Combined with a slight decline in pay, the August price increase cut into the average worker's real spendable earnings by 0.3 per cent. Real earnings have declined 0.6 per cent over the past year.

Although food prices rose only a slight 0.3 per cent during August, the figures indicated consumers were not fully benefiting from recent declines in food prices on the wholesale market.

Service prices rose 0.6 per cent for the third consecutive month and the prices of goods other than food also climbed 0.6 per cent for the second straight month.

Administration economists were anticipating that lower food prices would bring some moderation in the nation's inflation rate prior to the Nov. 2 election. Most public opinion polls have identified inflation as the voters' No. 1 concern.

A decline in meat prices during August, however, failed to offset rising prices for fruits, vegetables, apparel, automobiles, gasoline, motor oil, fuel oil and coal.

The Consumer Price Index stood at 171.9 in August, an increase of 5.6 per cent over a year ago. This means that goods and services costing $100 in 1967, now sell for $171.9.

Inflation began to heat up last May after a virtual lull in the early months of the year. Consumer prices rose 0.6 per cent in May, followed by three consecutive monthly increases of 0.5 per cent.

Clothing and fuel prices accounted for most of the increase in non-food commodities. Gasoline and motor oil prices, which normally decline in August, instead rose 1.5 per cent. Fuel oil and coal prices were up 1.8 per cent.

Boys Are Arrested In Bogus $10 Bill Scheme

KINGSTON — A bogus bill operation, admittedly engineered by a 30-year-old Kingston man, using the services of three youths, 16 years of age and under, was uncovered Monday by Kingston City Detective Division.

Police said four bogus $10 bills were passed by the youths at the Sept. 11 bazaar and fireworks celebration held by St. Mary's Benevolent Association on North Street and deposited in Rondout National Bank. Two more of the bogus bills are still sought.

Bank officials discovered the altered bills to be of $1 denomination with the ends of a $10 bill taped on.

Arrested and charged with forgery in the first degree, eight counts, was Peter Perry, 30, of 263 East Union St., who was released on $1,000 bail.

Also, Vincent Palladino, 16, of 23 Abruyn St., charged with criminal possession of a forged instrument, four counts and Patrick Dempsey, 16, of 56 Sycamore St., arrested on the same charges as was an unnamed juvenile under 16 years of age. All were released in the custody of their parents.

The recent passing of similar bogus bills in the Town of Ulster prompted Ulster Police Chief Meyer Levy to join Lt. Det. Charles McCullough and Thomas Scarey in questioning Perry and the four youths Monday night. Levy reported the passing of similar bills at Caldor's, Wallace's and Big Scot recently.

Under interrogation, the four allegedly implicated each other in the city operation but not in the passing of bills in Ulster, Levy said.

Town of Ulster Police Officer James Freer, who is investigating the scheme in Ulster, explained that the person who passes the bogus bill makes his illicit profit by taking the center part of the original $10 bill to a bank for a new bill. Since he still has more than half of the original $10 bill, the bank will give him a trade-in.

Perry, Palladino and Dempsey are scheduled for reappearance in Kingston City Court, Sept. 25.

CONTROVERSY DIES

Harold VanAllen made his points on gambling, but his remarks were brief, and so was Monday night's hearing.

Few Object to Gambling

KINGSTON — A public hearing on a proposed local gaming law took only three minutes Monday night, and, as expected, Mayor Francis R. Koenig said he would send the measure on to city voters for a Nov. 2 referendum.

Koenig said he was "sort of surprised" that only four persons turned out, a sharp contrast to the strong and articulate opposition that off-track betting engendered over the years before it was finally approved in Ulster County only a few months ago.

The latest gambling measure would permit charitable organizations such as churches and social groups to run games of chance for fund raising purposes, and the only speaker at the mayor's public hearing identified himself as against the idea.

"What is life without beliefs and principles?" asked Harold VanAllen of

Hurley Heights, a member of the First Baptist Church of Kingston. "Are our legislators, city councilmen and government officials big enough to look deeper under the surface of so-called easy money?"

VanAllen was publicity chairman for the Kingston Area Council of Churches in the recent drive against OTB. After OTB was approved by the Ulster County Legislature, a mass petition campaign to put the question to a general referendum failed to get the necessary percentage of voter signatures.

The proposed local law on games of chance for charitable purposes will be put on the Nov. 2 ballot for local ratification after Koenig signs the measure, probably today.

"It should be on the November ballot so that the people of Kingston can make the decision," the mayor said. Majority approval at the polls is required for ratification.

Permitted by state enabling legislation approved last year, the games of chance law essentially would legitimize the wheels of chance, dice tables and other fund raising games run for years at local charity bazaars and carnivals while benevolent officials looked the other way.

The measure was approved unanimously by the Kingston Common Council earlier this month, although one member was absent and at least two of those voting made the point that they weren't necessarily in favor of gambling, just of allowing the local citizenry to decide the issue at the polls.

Carter Told It All to 'Playboy'

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Jimmy Carter says his campaign for president won't be hurt by his earthy comments in Playboy magazine, where he said he has "looked at a lot of women with lust ... committed adultery in my heart ... this is something that God recognizes ... and God forgives ..."

"I don't think it will hurt me," Carter said Monday as his campaign train rolled toward Pittsburgh from New York City. At another point he was asked if he had used the term "screw" and he said: "I don't recall saying that."

"I haven't read the interview," Carter said. And then he said with a big grin, "I read the other parts first"—an apparent reference to the nude pictures featured in the magazine.

As Carter walked the length of the 13-car campaign train, he was asked time and time again about the interview, but didn't expand on his statement.

Carter's comments on sex came in a lengthy explanation of the Southern Baptist Church, his fervent religious upbringing and beliefs. At one point he said:

"I try not to commit a deliberate sin. I recognize I'm going to do it anyway, because I'm human and I'm tempted. And Christ set some almost impossible standards for us. Christ said 'I tell you that anyone who looks on a woman with lust has in his heart already committed adultery.'"

"I've looked on a lot of women with lust. I've committed adultery in my heart many times. This is something that God recognizes I will do—and I have done it —and God forgives me for it. But that doesn't mean that I condemn someone who not only looks on a woman with lust, but who leaves his wife and shacks up with somebody out of wedlock.

"Christ says, don't consider yourself better than someone else because one guy screws a whole bunch of women while the other guy is loyal to his wife. The guy who is loyal to his wife ought not to be condescending or proud because of the relative degree of sinfulness."

A further explanation of Carter's statements was given later by his press secretary, Jody Powell.

"The point that he was trying to make was that he believed you ought to be very

Onteora Teachers March

WEST HURLEY — Members of the Onteora Teachers Association demonstrated outside the doors Monday night prior to the school board meeting in the West Hurley school, charging the board with dragging its feet in contract negotiations.

Talks began early this year on a new contract to replace the one that expired June 30. Both sides are now waiting for the report of a fact finder appointed by the Public Employment Relations Board.

"We are demonstrating to call attention to the fact that we do not have a contract and we are not happy about it," said OTA president Robert Barrette. "We want to educate the public on the true situation."

An OTA newsletter distributed at the meeting said teacher negotiations were being sidetracked by other issues, saying the board was first preoccupied with the hearing to remove Dr. Frank Marlow as superintendent, and later became involved in budget preparation.

"As they (the board) became preoccupied with the budget, their only real concern seemed to be our money proposals," OTA said. "We wanted to discuss money last, not first."

Noting that the fact finder's report is overdue, OTA expressed hope that negotiations could resume when it is received. "Our good will is being strained by the lack of action," OTA official Ralph Wesselmann told the board when the meeting began. "The teachers, through their good will, have worked without a contract above and beyond the call of duty."

"You have painted a situation with good guys and bad guys," board member John Spratt responded. "We are ready to negotiate at any time."

OTA negotiator Bernard Lapo said teachers refused to meet Saturday because negotiators were out of town and unavailable on short notice.

Democrats Pick Aaron
Klein for Court Seat

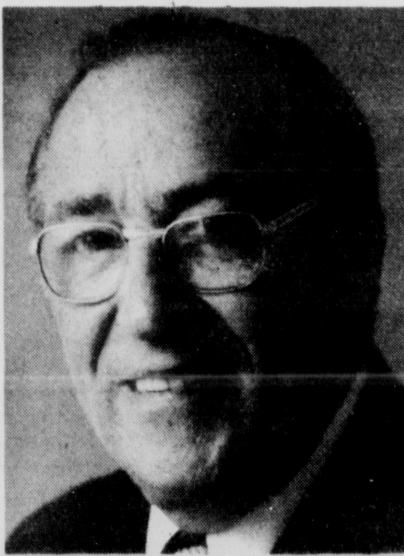

KINGSTON — Democratic delegates from seven counties Monday chose Kingston attorney Aaron E. Klein as their candidate for the Third Judicial District Supreme Court seat being vacated by retiring Judge DeForest Pitt.

In a unanimous decision representatives from Ulster, Sullivan, Green, Albany, Rensselaer, Columbia, and Schoharie counties picked the 64-year-old City Judge to run in what may be a three-way race for the 14 year term.

Conservative and Republican party delegates meet later this week to name their candidates, and it appears that the political tide will continue to flow in Ulster county's direction when Republicans select their man.

The frontrunners in that race are assistant county attorney John Lynch, former City Judge Joseph Saccoman and John Shick, who today was named as the local Conservative party choice.

Only Survivor Recalls Drop From Bridge

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—In 1936, Evan "Slim" Lambert and 11 other Golden Gate Bridge construction workers were tossed from the span's scaffolding into the icy waters of San Francisco Bay. Lambert, now 66, was the only survivor. "I hit the water feet first," Lambert recalled Monday when he arrived in town to be presented with a gold-plated section of the bridge cable that had supported the span for the past 40 years.

The Feb. 17, 1936, accident occurred nine months before completion of the bridge when scaffolding broke and crashed through a safety net. Ten of the men leaped into the safety net, but were crushed by the heavy timbers as they tumbled downward. Lambert and another worker were able to jump clear of the wood, but the other man died after they hit the water. "Heights have never bothered me," said Lambert, who was back on the job two months after the accident despite broken bones in the neck, shoulder and ribs.

It's the Bank Now For Man and Money

CHICAGO (UPI)—Anthony Kantowski, 64, who two months ago lost all the money he had saved for his retirement to four con men, says he has learned his lesson and will put what is left of his $40,000 into a bank.

Kantowski, a retired paint maker, said he kept the money in a strong box until July 12, when four gypsies, posing as city workers, came to his home. While two distracted him by offering him a free garbage can in his back yard, another got into the office and took the money, he said. Four days later, John Zeko, a gypsy community leader, brought police an attache case containing $20,020 in $10 and $20 bills. He told police he had collected the money from gypsy businessmen and was offering it to Kantowski "so he wouldn't have a total loss and give the gypsies a bad name."

Straight talk about pre-planning a funeral.
It costs you nothing to pre-plan a funeral. You don't have to sign a contract and no payment must be made. And pre-planning can save you more than money. Because, by making your wishes known to a relative, a matter of record before the need arises, you spare someone from having to make last-minute decisions about matters with which most people are unfamiliar. And that makes a difficult time a little less trying.
The facts you need to know about pre-planning a funeral are in an important booklet prepared by National Selected Morticians. Mail the coupon or visit us for your free copy.

Tie Vote Quashes Special School Bd. Election

By CARL GRAHAM
Freeman Staff

WEST HURLEY — The Ontario Board of Education, by the narrowest of margins, failed last night to set a special election to consider at-large voting for school board members.

With Board President Charles Weidner IV away on business, the board split 4-4 on the question and Sam Mercer's motion for a special election failed for lack of a majority.

In response to a petition earlier this year, the board tried to put the issue on the ballot at the annual district election but had to remove it because the required seven week legal notice in advance of the meeting had not been met. Mercer said the board was legally obligated to respond to the petition, but opponents argued that the matter was not urgent enough to warrant a special election at an estimated cost of $800 to $1,000.

Voting with Mercer were Donald Lawson, James Darrow and Beverly Britting. Opposed were John Spratt, Dexter Olsen, Edna Hoyt and Irene Motrie. Darrow suggested volunteer workers who signed the petition could serve as election clerks without cost to the district for a special election and several members said informational meetings should be held to acquaint voters with the facts.

The district now elects Board members to specific seats. A change would make all seats at-large throughout the district.

An 850-signature petition was given the board asking it to restore a driver education class that fell victim to budget cutting this year. A man in the audience said the board had violated its 1973 policy to give all graduating students a chance to take driver education.

"Policies are guidelines, they are not law," Lawson responded.

Dr. John Keough, district business manager, said restoring the class would involve one school health education.

Mrs. Britting said the question could be added to the ballot for a special election on the at-large voting proposition. Lawson, who chaired the meeting in the West Hurley cially concerned with the question of field trips by bus. The question came up when the board was asked to approve transfer of $7,160 into the bus contract fund, a move Keough said was necessary because bus bids came in higher than anticipated this year.

Mrs. Britting first proposed to make field trips available at 1974-75 levels, but after a lengthy discussion involving several members of the audience, she amended it to call for field trip buses to have priority over spectator buses to athletic events and over additional late bus runs. The motion was approved 5-3, with Spratt, Olsen and Mrs. Hoyt opposed.

"This is a slap in the face of the administration," said Mrs. Hoyt after the vote was taken. Lawson noted that he had proposed a budget that would have included a full complement of field trips.

The board, again after a lengthy discussion with the audience, voted to raise the price of milk in the school cafeteria whenever the purchase price goes up, to do the same with the price of adult lunches when costs exceed State Education Department guidelines, and to raise the price of ice cream products to 20 cents, effective Oct. 4. Keough said the move would wipe out a cafeteria budget deficit incurred during the past two school years.

The board heard the first reading of a policy change that would have the district charge tuition to postgraduate students attending BOCES classes who have dishonorable discharges from the armed services. The district was required to pay such costs in the past, but a new law gives them the option to charge tuition in such case. Veterans with other than dishonorable discharges are exempted from the tuition charge.

additional teacher salary that it was possible to finance it with an additional tax warrant. Thomas Kizis, the former driver education teachers, has already been re-assigned to teach junior high school in Weidner's absence, said the board would consider the matter and report back later.

The large crowd, which took an active part in almost every item on the agenda, was espe-

SMILES

Jeannine Benson (l) and Cheryl Veracca have good reason to smile. They are being told by Theodore Benson, chairman of the fund raising drive of the 41 Club of Kingston that the club is donating $1,000 to the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation of Ulster County. Both children have diabetes and are members of JDF. The donation will help support research projects relating to diabetes. Anyone interested in joining JDF or requiring information about diabetes may write to JDF, PO Box 24, Lake Katrine NY 12449.

Ford-UAW Talks Fail to Solve Differences on the Key Issue

DETROIT (UPI) — The first bargaining session in the week-old strike by 170,000 workers against the Ford Motor Co. produced no sign that the key issue — less time on the job — is any closer to being solved.

The negotiating session Monday lasted less than two hours and spokesman refused to talk about it in anything other than general terms.

It was the first time the full bargaining committees had met since before the strike began at 11:59 p.m. last Tuesday.

"The first session was really one of re-establishing contacts," a union spokesman said. "The bargainers discussed a number of issues and then broke off to hold internal meetings."

One source close to the bargaining table said Ford and the UAW were still far apart on the working time issue, though they had discussed it in top-level private sessions several times since the strike began. Neither UAW President Leonard Woodcock nor Ford Labor Vice President Sidney McKenna met with newsmen following Monday's session.

Another "main table" meeting at Ford World Headquarters in suburban Dearborn was planned for today, a spokesman said.

With the strike in its seventh day there was more worry voiced about the possible economic impact if it lasts more than the three or four weeks most observers say is the minimum length.

The rippling effects of a shutdown of Ford's 102 plants in 22 states was being felt both inside and outside the auto industry.

Ford has already idled 1,600 Canadian workers, who are not on strike, and probably will lay off the remainder of the 14,000 Ford of Canada workers by the weekend.

Caterpillar Corp. in Peoria, Ill. has idled 160 workers who build diesel engines for Ford; Bendix Corp. has warned that upwards of 4,000 workers face layoff if the strike drags on; Budd Co. said it is considering layoffs; and thousands more of Ford's 25,000 supplier firms may soon begin cutbacks.

Other industries already feeling the pinch are railroads and trucking companies, particularly in Michigan and Ohio where Ford plants are concentrated; steel companies; and food and vending service firms that supply Ford plants.

The effects during the first week were minimal, and most economists agree there would be no economic disruptions if the walkout lasts less than one month.

Ford's Tab Picked Up When Congressman

Lobbyist Tells of Golf Trips

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Steel's chief lobbyist said today his firm paid "room and board" for at least two visits by President Ford to the company's country club lodge in New Jersey when Ford was a congressman.

On three previous occasions, U.S. Steel's Washington-based vice president, William Whyte, told UPI he had personally taken care of all expenses incurred by Ford on golfing trips to the lodge between 1964 and 1971.

In a telephone interview today, Whyte said he had refreshed his memory and now recalled that U.S. Steel picked up the tab for Ford at the Pine Valley Golf Club near Clemen-ton, N.J.

"I picked up caddy fees on the greens and things like that," Whyte said.

Whyte also confirmed a report that U.S. Steel has a complete listing of guests who have stayed at the lodge since 1969. Those records, he said, are kept in a limestone mine in Annandale, Pa.

Whyte said Ford had not vacationed at the lodge since he left Congress and that U.S. Steel no longer uses it for VIP purposes. Ford was nominated by Richard Nixon to be Vice President, succeeding Spiro T. Agnew, in October, 1973, and became President when Nixon resigned Aug. 9, 1974.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen, asked for a response to Whyte's remarks, quoted Ford as saying: "I've been a friend of Bill Whyte for 28 years. I've been there twice as his friend to play golf."

Nessen said Ford recalled playing there in 1964 and about five years ago.

"He feels Bill Whyte is a personal friend who asked him to go up and play golf," Nessen said, noting also that Ford and Whyte are frequent golf partners at the Burning Tree Country Club in suburban Maryland.

Whyte said Ford's first visit to the lodge was in the fall of 1964. At that time, there was no law or congressional rule against a member of Congress accepting gifts or favors from lobbyists.

In 1968, the House adopted a code of ethics stating that "a member, officer or employee of the House of Representatives shall accept no gift of substantial value, directly or indirectly, from any person or organization or corporation having a direct interest in legislation before the Congress."

The Internal Revenue Service said it is not against the law for a congressman to accept a gift, but that the giver must file an income tax report for gifts of substantial value.

"If there is any problem, it would be with the tax return of the giver," an IRS spokesman said.

Buckley Loses Jake, Gains Abe

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sen. James L. Buckley, R-N.Y., has lost the support of Republican Sen. Jacob Javits, but he has gained the backing of defeated Democrat Abraham Hirschfeld.

At a news conference Monday, Javits said he would not campaign for Buckley's reelection. He left it an "open question" whether he would vote for him in preference to Democratic challenger Daniel Patrick Moynihan.

Javits, who did not have Buckley's support when he won his third term in 1974, cited Buckley's ties to the Conservative party which, he said, is being used as a "stick" to force the GOP into right-wing positions.

New York's senior senator said he informed Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller and GOP State Chairman Richard Rosenbaum of his decision — and added that there no efforts were made to dissuade him.

Asked about Javits' non-support, Buckley said, "I respect his decision," but added, "I would like to think these things are not built in concrete."

A state GOP spokesman said Javits' move would not hurt Buckley and might help him.

"Any pragmatic politician looks for all the endorsements he can get ..." the spokesman said. "But frankly, he just doesn't want Javits' backing because it could heat up some of his Conservative friends."

Buckley was elected to the Senate as a Conservative, but he usually votes with the Republicans in the upper house.

The loss of Javits' support was counterbalanced in some degree by the endorsement of Hirschfeld, former Democratic state treasurer and one of four contenders who lost the Democratic Senate primary to Moynihan.

Hirschfeld delivered his statement of support for the Republican-Conservative Buckley in the lobby of the Robert F. Kennedy School, in front of a mural of the late New York senator.

Killing of Fish in Esopus Charged

By ROB BORSELLINO
Freeman staff

ELLENVILLE — New York City officials are making "what appears to be a deliberate attempt" to kill all life in the Esopus Creek, charged Maurice Rosenstock, Republican Assembly candidate in the 101st District, this week.

Rosenstock says a month long surge of silt-laden water released from a reservoir in Schoharie County is killing the fish that live in the Esopus and "it seems that no one in the state government can or will do anything about it."

The Ellenville Republican says he learned from New York State's Commissioner of Environmental Conservation, Peter Berle, that state officials are not convinced of a New York City claim that the waters released from the Schoharie Reservoir are the result of flooding.

Quoting DEC regional director Norman Van Valkenburgh as saying that the silt in the Esopus "is the worst I've ever seen," Rosenstock observed that the food upon which the fish in the Esopus feed, insects, are dying, thereby threatening the fish with extinction.

According to DEC spokesman Michael Gann, the silt problem has been in existence since the Schoharie Reservoir was connected to the Esopus Creek through the Shandaken Portal in the 1920's. However, Gann says the problem is particularly bad this year due to the water disturbance created by Hurricane Belle in early August.

"There is an eight to ten foot deposit of silt on the bottom of the Schoharie Reservoir," said Gann, "and since we use a deep water intake, much of that silt is carried through to the Esopus."

Gann noted that the deepwater intake benefits fishing in the Esopus Creek since trout live best in cold water. He said that no study has been made to determine the comparative value of the cold water with regard to the silt that is washed into the creek.

In April New York State is expected to begin releasing recommendations for up state reservoir water releases. Rosenstock says he anticipates that once the state gains control of the water releases from the New York City-owned reservoirs, "the Schoharie should be cleaned of silt so that this tragedy can never be repeated."

Saugerties Teachers Give Views

SAUGERTIES — The Saugerties Teachers Association, which has filed unfair labor practice charges against the Saugerties Board of Education, says it has tried to abide by correct negotiation procedures and has kept negotiations confidential.

An association spokesman said: "The negotiating team feels that to be fair to its fellow teachers, the following points should be made:"

- The board of education has bypassed the negotiating team during active negotiations.
- The board has not made any counter-proposals to the STA proposals.
- The board has reneged on the only item the board and STA have agreed on—the calendar.
- All of the terms and conditions of employment have not been extended to this year.

- There was a unilateral reduction in pay of the guidance counselors.
- This board has refused to negotiate any non-monetary articles in the contract until monetary issues are settled.
- Under the board's proposal presented to the team and the fact-finder, the average teacher would lose approximately $1,500.

"Negotiations have been reinstated and in light of the fact that sessions are currently in progress, the STA does not wish to discuss specifics outside its membership at this time," the spokesman said.

He said the fact-finder's report is expected by the end of this week.

Police Beat

Ellenville Man on Trial Again

KINGSTON — Exactly a year after an Ulster County jury failed to reach a verdict in the drug trial of Corey Bell, 21, of Ellenville, Bell is going on trial once again, facing a one year to life sentence, if convicted.

Bell was one of five Ellenville residents indicted on felony drug sale charges following 1975 drug raids which cut into about 50 per cent of the hard drug traffic in that area, police said.

Bell was indicted for third degree sale and possession of a controlled substance. The arrests were made by an undercover agent following the alleged sale and eventual confiscation of 50 decks of heroin, 40 'hits' of cocaine and a quantity of marijuana.

Jury selection in Bell's new trial began Monday with Assistant District Attorney Robert Francello as prosecutor and Barry Lippman representing Bell. County Judge Raymond J. Mino is presiding.

Property Recovered

About $800 worth of stolen property was recovered in Ellenville Monday with the arrest of four juveniles.

The village youths ranged in age from 11 to 15 and reportedly had hidden the stolen goods in their own homes.

The arrests by Officers Norman Greene and Peter Williams followed an investigation into a burglary Sept. 18 at the residence of Alan Tresser at 67 Church St. between 7 p.m. and midnight.

Taken in the Tresser burglary was a tape player, clock, record player, records and about $40 in change.

The property owner said he remembered seeing juveniles in the area around his house earlier in the day.

The youths were brought in for questioning and petitioned to Family Court. Tresser's possessions were recovered.

Nothing Routine In This Selection

WEST HURLEY — A teacher appointment, normally a routine matter for a school board, was anything but that at Monday night's meeting of the Ontario Board of Education.

A motion to appoint Janice Browning as a junior high school remedial math teacher for one semester was called a "stopgap measure" by board member Sam Mercer.

Asked from the audience why she was only being appointed for one semester, Donald Lawson, board vice president, said federal funding for the remedial program comes in two parts and only one has been received.

A man in the audience commented: "I've been going to board meetings for years and I never heard of a teacher being appointed for only one semester."

"Under the circumstances, better half a teacher than none at all," Mercer said, joining the rest of the board in a unanimous appointment of

Mrs. Browning.

Dr. Frank Marlow, superintendent of schools, said enrollment at the opening of school was 3,478, up 15 from last year.

Saugerties Increases the Police Foot Patrol

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA (Freeman Staff)

SAUGERTIES — It took the Saugerties Village Board less than a week to respond to complaints by local residents and businessmen that loitering, trespassing and disorderly conduct were becoming major problems on Main Street. Mayor James Gage verified at Monday night's board meeting that foot patrol on the street has been increased. Constant patrol by two policemen will be maintained whenever practical, he said.

"Things are looking up a little bit," said Gage, "and many people think it will make a difference."

Trustee Robert Lehmann applauded the action. "Our most serious problem is the kids on that street between sunset and 11 o'clock," he said. "Our citizens have the right to walk up that street without that continuous problem of kids congregating and misbehaving."

Businessmen last week had also complained that some shop owners were contributing to the unattractiveness of the village by violating the sign ordinance. Enforcement officer Michael Schovel said, however, that he had found only four signs in violation. Trustee Joan Feldmann was skeptical. "There must be at least a dozen," she said, "and others that are in compliance did not get the required permits."

Feldmann will work with Schovel on a more accurate list of violations, including signs left hanging by businesses that have moved. Schovel will then issue violation notices, advising that signs must be removed, and applications filed for a permit within 10 days. Those who fail to comply face a $50 fine and can also be determined "a disorderly person."

An argument between board members and representatives of the C. A. Lynch Fire Company Truck Committee ended on a conciliatory note after a full hour of bitter debate. Disagreement centered on the acceptance of bids for repainting the fire truck.

Trustee Charles Steele, who serves as fire commissioner, and the Lynch committee recommended accepting the high bid of $3,900 from Anthor Welding Service of Walden. Gage, Lehmann, and trustees Erika Hinchey and George Turner felt compelled to honor the low bid of $2,980.90 from Dynamic Auto Body Shop of Saugerties.

Gage faulted firemen for "not writing the specifications tight enough." He pointed out that both firms were bidding "on the exact same thing," but that one bid was 50 per cent higher than the other. "We are spending taxpayers' money," he said. "Both bids are on the same specifications, with no difference, but there's a big difference in money."

The men from Lynch were adamant, insisting the high bidder would do a superior job well worth the money. Asked one driver of Gage, "Would you buy a steak for 59 cents you can't eat, or one for $1.09 you could eat?" Said Gage, "I'd buy the highest priced one, but it would be my money and not the town's."

The firemen argued in vain that the high bidder could be counted on to dismantle and sandblast the truck, and apply seven coats of paint and gold lettering. The low bidder had advised them previously, they said, that he wouldn't touch the glass, or welding, or gold paint. Gage insisted both bids met all specifications, and all work would have to be done as called for by either bidder before receipt of payment.

"Our budget is already down to skin and bones," one fireman insisted. "You want to run a fire department or a honky tonk railroad?" he demanded, walking out of the meeting with another fireman at his heels.

Part of the argument had centered on the uncertainty of whether, once the truck's body, chassis, and fire body had been dismantled and removed, the possibility of a rust condition would lead to the necessity for more repairs and new specifications at higher cost figures by the bidders. The board voted to table the bids, and instructed the men of C. A. Lynch to take the truck apart and assure themselves of exactly what has to be done underneath. Whether rust is discovered will determine any new specifications or final action on the bids.

In other action, the board agreed to investigate the necessity for insurance on the Grist Mill Restoration Project in Seamon Park. The mill is progressing rapidly and will eventually be turned over to the village. Its value, when completed, is expected to be between $80,000 and $100,000. The board will also discuss the possibility of an alarm system for theft proofing the mill.

The feasibility of leasing village police cars instead of buying patrol vehicles will be considered by the board, in the knowledge that some large businesses lease security cars as one way of locking their cost into their budget.

Trustees also are working to resolve the problem of a water break on Main Street, and a sewer backup problem in the village municipal building. The Village Youth Committee is working with the Ulster County Youth Bureau on new youth programs, as opposed to continuing programs, that would entitle Saugerties to available funding on a matching basis.

The board awarded a contract for a utility pickup truck for the water department to Berzal Chevrolet of Saugerties. The Berzal bid was $5,460 for a 1977, three-quarter-ton truck. In other business, the board set Oct. 18 at 8 p.m. as the date for a public hearing to amend the local ordinance regulating parking in the municipal parking lot.

No action was taken on a request by Cafaldo Park residents that the Glasco Water District be extended to include their area. Thirty families there had requested the extension, but Gage said the matter would have to be discussed further between representatives of the village and town boards. Another discussion meeting planned shortly will involve the Business Association and the planning board. The association has formed a committee to improve the business district and wants to present those ideas to the planners.

Still another joint meeting will involve the town and village boards and the Saugerties Ambulance Service. Ambulance owners, noting that inflation has taken its toll of their small business, and that they have doubled their rates over the past decade and expanded service to other areas, making their availability to Saugerties sometimes limited, said they have service ideas to suggest.

Said Gage, agreeing that the matter required a meeting. "They obviously want some assistance...probably financial."

Praise For FBI Statement

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y. (UPI) — Limousine operator Dominic Byrne praised the quality of a statement FBI agents prepared for his signature saying he was involved in the kidnaping of whiskey heir Samuel Bronfman II, an agent said Monday.

"He said he couldn't have said it better himself," Special Agent Myron Fuller testified in State Supreme Court.

Byrne wants the statement withheld from evidence at his coming trial with co-defendant Mel Patrick Lynch on charges of kidnaping Bronfman last year from his mother's home in Purchase.

Fuller said Byrne was cooperative during most of the 15 hours of questioning he underwent after leading FBI men and police to Lynch's Brooklyn apartment, where Bronfman was allegedly held as a hostage for $2.3 million in ransom.

Bronfman, son of Seagram Chairman Edgar Bronfman, was found bound and blindfolded but unhurt at 4 a.m. Sunday, Aug. 17, 1975, after nine days of captivity.

Another agent said he watched as Byrne, with shaking hands and watery eyes, "made the sign of the cross" before calling his wife from the FBI's New York Office at 5 p.m. that Sunday.

"Why did I let them talk me into it? I should have gone to Ireland," Agent Thomas McShane quoted Byrne as telling his wife, Elizabeth, on the phone.

"I asked him what he meant by 'them' and he said, 'Mel and me,'" McShane said.

The two defendants have claimed that Bronfman was involved in his own kidnaping.

Fuller told defense counsel Peter DeBlasio that he asked Byrne during the questioning about his "social hangouts" and that Byrne told him he went to "Clancey's Bar on Third Avenue and 38th Street and Uncle Charley's gay bar" a block away.

The lawyer asked the agent, "Did you ask him if Samuel Bronfman was gay?" Fuller replied, "No, we didn't ask him that."

Fuller said Byrne told him he did not know Samuel Bronfman before the kidnaping.

DeBlasio has established that he telephoned the FBI building while Byrne was being questioned by Assistant U.S. Attorneys Lawrence Pedowitz and Gerald Feffer.

Ore-Ida introduces french fries so crisp, they snap.

If you want french fries that are extra crisp, try new Ore-Ida Crispers. Regular french fries merely bend. But new Ore-Ida Crispers are so crisp, you can actually snap them. That's because they're specially made for oven heating. They have little ridges that lift them off your cooking sheet and let the heat circulate around them evenly. So you get french fries that are probably crisper than any others you've eaten. New Ore-Ida Crispers! Snap 'em up.

Loser Who Talks Like a Winner

By MARIAN CHRISTY

WASHINGTON — Sen. Frank Church's fleshy face is grinning broadly as he offers a cigar. "You don't want it?" he smiles as the offer is declined. "Well, in these days of liberation you just don't know. If I didn't make the offer, I'd be accused of chauvinism."

The spunky Idaho Democrat, whose tardy presidential campaign failed and who was bypassed by Jimmy Carter as a running mate, isn't acting like a loser.

Seated in his Senate office, his feet propped up on a coffee table, the shirt-sleeved Church lights up and reminisces pleasantly about recent political events.

About the race for the presidency:

"I really didn't expect to win. I didn't know if the chance to throw my hat in the ring would ever occur again. I took my chances. I am not disappointed at the results."

About the vice presidency: "I'm very independent. The vice president must play a purely supportive role. It would have been difficult for me to make the adjustment. In my heart of hearts, I never expected to be chosen. I reconciled myself to that likelihood."

Church, who is much handsomer than his photographs indicate, headed investigations into the CIA to determine if American officials had, as some alleged, authorized assassination attempts against foreign leaders. The fact that he chaired the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence Operations cost him dearly, he says.

"I've got enemies in high

Sen. Frank Church... "I'm a loner."

places." His tone of voice as he says that suggests pride rather than regret.

"I was on a committee that exposed corruption and wrongdoing. There are certain powerful board and conference rooms where I am friendless. I have played inquisitor and inquisitors become critics. Do you know any wildly popular critics?"

He talks at length about going against the grain of popular belief, about the self-satisfaction in not sidestepping "sensitive" areas.

"When I was 12 years old," says the 52-year-old Church, "I had a tremendous interest in Republican Sen. William Borah. He was the only senator of either party who had courageously advocated the establishment of diplomatic relations between the United States and the Soviet Union. It was an idea that met with sharp resistance.

"I admired Borah. I watched him. I listened to him. And I loved the staunchness of his independence. Then, one day, a popular governor ran against Borah and he made the Russian issue THE issue. But Borah stuck to his guns, spent little on his campaign. Borah won. I have never forgotten the fact that Borah bucked the tide and won."

Church sees a parallel in his own 20-year senatorial career.

In 1965, when he came out against the war in Vietnam, he says, a Los Angeles-based cosmetic millionaire who deeply resented Church's dove-like stance distributed anti-Church literature in Idaho.

"The attack on me was scurrilous," he says. "I was black-balled. There were petitions to be signed. Of 350,000 eligible voters, only 165 signatures were garnered. Not only did my constituency resist the onslaught — they elected me again. It was then that I felt like my hero."

Church and his father, a Boise sporting goods store operator, often argued politics. "He hated Roosevelt. I loved Roosevelt. We had some hot debates. Our differences weren't aired with rancor. When I converted to the Democratic party, my dad accepted the decision. But he was puzzled by it."

Church was operated on for cancer when he was 25 and had, as a student at Harvard Law School, what he calls "a terrible brush with death." The experience left him with a sense of adventure and a fatalistic optimism.

"I'm not really all that cautious," he says. "I do things today because who knows about tomorrow? I'm alive, and I take chances."

Detractors say that Church, a graduate of Stanford Law School and political "boy wonder" who became the youngest senator in 1956 at age 32, has never fitted into the Washington scene.

"I'm a loner," he admits. "I've never been part of the Washington Establishment."

Church believes that 1976 will go down in history as the year the non-Washington personality conquered Washington. He talks about the trauma of Watergate, recent sex scandals, the arrogance of big government, corruption in high places. Most Americans look at the federal bureaucracy as remote and faceless, he says.

"The time is ripe for the non-Washington politician to emerge into power in Washington," he says. "This is definitely the year of the outsider."

Church's wife, Bethine, daughter of Idaho governor, Chase Clark, is consistently at his side and is often referred to as "the other senator."

"We work as a team," says Church about the mother of his two sons, Forest, 26, and Chase, 19. "My wife is not at all interested in carving out a separate career—so we share mine. She is a full partner."

Washingtonians say that the Churchs, who have been married 26 years, are among the capital's happiest couples.

On the success of the marriage: "We never put anything else above our marriage," he says. "Nothing is allowed to intrude. Marriage is our first priority. But I consider myself a lucky man. Many wives of politicians aren't interested in politics. This creates problems. I've been spared all of that."

Julia Child, TV's Witty 'French Chef,' Claims Chef's Career Is Never 'Boring'

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

Freeman staff

HYDE PARK — It rained, and it rained hard, on the immense, green-and-blue tent under which the 175 men and women of the Class of September 1976 graduated from The Culinary Institute of America on Friday afternoon. But the driving rain failed to dampen the celebratory spirits of the graduates, or the encouraging words of Julia Child, television's witty "French Chef," who gave the commencement address.

Ms. Child, who recently assisted in preparing a steak dinner at the White House for Queen Elizabeth, told the graduates, who will enter all areas of the food service industry, "You have chosen to follow an absolutely marvelous profession—one that is stimulating, creative, and endlessly rewarding."

A chef's career, she said, "can be glamorous and lucrative." And it is work, she insisted, that is never "boring."

Said the woman who is credited with stimulating nationwide interest in fine cooking, "There is hardly a day that goes by that I haven't learned something new in the culinary arts. You're never through learning new ways with old ingredients. There are always new products and new machines to experiment with. How can one ever become bored or tired of cooking, when there are over 1,000 ways to do eggs, and over 200 ways to do potatoes?"

Ms. Child called the Institute, a fully-accredited vocational facility on a 75-acre campus overlooking the Hudson River, "tremendously impressive." The school, she said, has taught its 8,000 graduates the need for quality in the public food business. "You cannot beat good quality," she said. "You have tasted quality here, and know how to achieve it. And you have learned what gastronomy is all about. It is about people who love good food and the good life."

The master of French cooking arts, who has taught millions of TV viewers her secrets, had a word of advice for graduates of the Institute, who will find employment with independent restaurants, chains, catering firms, inns, lodges, hotels, bakeries, and large corporations. "Pick the best chef you can find to work under," she urged. "The European apprenticeship system of working under somebody is the best way to learn, after you have the fundamentals. Copy them and then establish your own style and confidence."

Ms. Child, who is also a well-known cookbook authoress, singled out the women graduates of the class for special words of praise. Her love of French cooking, she said, did not allow her to ignore the fact that the great French chefs "allow women in the bedroom, but not a step into the kitchen." She observed that, "There wasn't a woman to be seen anywhere the last time I visited here." She was happy to see, she said, that women "have made new inroads in the culinary profession."

(While women were very much outnumbered in the Institute's 1976 graduating class, they shared many of the top awards, among them: those for highest scholarship, outstanding grades, excellence in operational procedure, and the table service award.)

While student awards and presentation of degrees ranked high on the program, the biggest ovation of the day went to Joseph Baum, who had been singled out to receive the Institute's Master of the Aesthetics of Gastronomy award. Baum is the creator of the outstanding food facilities at the World Trade Center in New York City, including "Windows on the World," the spectacular and highly praised gourmet restaurant on the 107th floor of the world's tallest building.

Ms. Child called Baum "a genius," and said, "Any restaurant of his is the best of its class."

The commencement was marked with little of the pomp and ceremony of most graduations. The traditional gowns and tasseled mortarboards were missing, and graduates accepted their degrees in spotless, white chef's pants and jackets. Cheers, laughter, and a triple standing ovation followed the Address of Welcome by graduating student Richard Reynolds, chief justice of the judiciary board and a resident of Stamford, Conn. Reynolds thanked "the fathers, mothers, sisters, brothers, husbands, wives, girlfriends, boyfriends, and 'lovers,' who stood behind us and encouraged us when we needed it, and 'brought us up when we were down.'"

The reaction to his words caused one faculty member to note, "We called them 'sweethearts,' not 'lovers,' in my day."

Even the reception that followed the graduation was unusual. Class members and guests by the hundreds filed through the Institute's kitchens on a tasting tour.

Later, in the school's board room which had been temporarily converted into a VIP dining area, Ms. Child told The Freeman that, after more than 200 "French Chef" shows on television, she wants to turn to American cooking on the home screen. She'd prefer to do only an occasional special, she said (like one coming up on which she'll cook a meal for James Beard, who's on a diet).

But, for the most part, she wants to "get back to personal teaching and to working with well-motivated students." And she has a strong, personal desire to encourage and teach young, deaf people to seek careers in the food industry. "The deaf are really cut off from so much of the world," she said, "but not from this profession. You don't need to hear the chicken roasting, as long as you can see it."

She had few kind words for the hotel food she has eaten all too often on her many travels. "Much public food is absolutely shocking," she groaned. "The salad always sounds lovely as described on the menu, but it's ghastly. The vegetables are limp, and there's always that awful potato baked in foil. Why can't they bake them naked in their own skin?"

Still, she'd had some "extremely good meals on rare occasions," she said, and insisted that, "Excellent food can be cooked for large amounts of people." The Waldorf-Astoria chefs are expert at cooking for a banquet for a thousand people, she said, and the White House chef does an excellent job of serving several hundred diners from what is "a very, very small kitchen."

She even had a kind word for McDonald's. "Very good fried potatoes, and very good quality of meat. But, large or small, if you don't have quality, you won't last long...and I won't eat in your restaurant."

Over a glass of wine and a plate of rare roast beef, Bernaise sauce, and anything-but-limp green beans (prepared by graduating seniors), the man who created Windows on the World agreed. Said Baum, whose 30 years in this business has made him one of the most admired men in the profession, "Restaurants are theatre, product, and experience that express service."

Would a skyhigh restaurant succeed in the Hudson Valley or the Catskills? "Why not, but then why do it?" queried Baum. "A restaurant should be a natural expression of the landscape, and of all its beauty and goodness. The fact that this valley and its mountains give pleasure is the area's own aesthetic. This is what's natural, and what always has been for a York Stater."

"A restaurant here doesn't need a theme. It needs only to be natural, to use the products of the area, and to offer good cooking. What could be more worthy of the natural aesthetic of the area than the truth that exists here?"

For Baum, "Everything is really a World Trade Center, and good cooking from everywhere is responsible for the sweet taste of success in any restaurant."

Well, then, where does he dine when he comes north from Manhattan to his country home in North Salem? Where does the man who created the restaurant, where the world's richest and most famous have to wait two months for a reservation, take his own family to eat?

"It's midwifery time now at Windows on the World," he said, "and I find it difficult to spend as much time as I'd like at my house in the Catskills. But when the child grows, I'll be spending much, much more time here."

But where does he eat when he does come? Where does the man who oversees the feeding of the people who inhabit 16 acres of New York City real estate, with a density population of 2 million people per square mile, feed himself, when he's not dining on the 107th floor of the World Trade Center?

Pressed for an answer, he capitulated. In Ulster County, for him, he said, the restaurant of restaurants is Rudi's Country Kitchen, that haven of natural aesthetic and good food from everywhere in the hills at Big Indian.

Mrs. Willford Robinson, regent of Wiltwyck Chapter, DAR, accepts historical items from Fred J. Johnston.

Local Authority on Antiques Presents DAR with Valuable Historical Items

Wiltwyck Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution was the recipient of two valuable and historical items last week when Fred J. Johnston, authority on early American furniture and paintings of 63 Main St., presented the local chapter with a John Vanderlyn engraved portrait and a Federal mirror, circa 1790 to 1800, which belonged to Robert Fulton, inventor of the steamboat.

The engraved portrait, by Vanderlyn, circa 1830, is one of three known in existence today according to Johnston. The subject of the picture, the Rev. John Gosman was installed as pastor of the Old Dutch Church in 1808. The famous artist left it to his nephew, John Vanderlyn, a minor painter; and it descended to Kate Vanderlyn; thence to Judge Schoonmaker, attorney for the Kate Vanderlyn estate, and to his daughter, Mrs. Lawton who lived on the corner of John and Crown Streets. It had been on loan exhibition at the Senate House for the past 16 years.

The Federal mirror, originally hung at Robert Fulton's home, "Teviotdale" at Linlithgow, Columbia County, and was acquired from an early Saugerties collector.

Both items were from Johnston's private collection. The gesture is part of an on-going plan to place important local objects in the care of those who will keep these pieces in the Kingston area. "I've been impressed with what the DAR has done over a period of years," Johnston explained, "And I want these placed so they will stay in Kingston."

Johnston in the past has presented original Vanderlyn drawings, furniture and patent models of the ice industry to the Senate House; an original Vanderlyn drawing to Vanderlyn

Hall at Ulster County Community College; and last year he gave a rare family Bible to the New Paltz Huguenot Historical Society. The Bible contained the genealogy of the Bruyn Family.

Having a sense of pride and sentiment for Kingston and the Stockade area, Johnston was probably the instigator in preserving much of the uptown area. He sees the creating of parking areas by the various banks as putting the area back into an open-space perspective that might have been here 200 years ago before all of the building of the 19th Century.

As a matter of fact preservation started early in his life when as a young man of 20, starting in business at 42 Main St., he became aware that his present home, corner of Main and Wall Streets, was to be sold and demolished for a gas station. So disturbed by the possibility of Kingston losing the fine Federal type house, he inquired from business people and was told that the only sure way to save the house was to buy it himself. This he did and built his business from there.

He enjoys discussing the historical background of the Stockade area and tries to visualize his block 200 years ago, teeming with people as plans were made to form the state government. "In April 1777, the new governor was inaugurated, everyone felt safe, but within six months, in October 1777, the entire town was burned."

Johnston was founder and chairman of the Landmarks Commission in the city for a number of years. He is on the board of trustees at the Senate House and was head of the beautification commission which was responsible for the planting of the young trees in the city.

Veteran River Man W.O. Benson Will Pilot Yankee on its Hudson River Excursion

SLEIGHTSBURG—When the 150-foot excursion vessel M.V. Yankee plows up the Hudson River Oct. 9, veteran river man William O. Benson of Sleightsburg will be piloting the craft.

It will be the first New York to Albany and return cruise of a passenger ship since 1962, and previously since Dayliner service terminated in 1948.

Benson told the Freeman that he was asked to pilot the three-deck Yankee in connection with his association with the Steamship Historical Society of America, the organization sponsoring this cruise. Retired three years after spending 40 years on the Hudson, Benson said he has not piloted this craft but "I still have my license in effect."

Although the Yankee will dwarf other passenger ships in the river, it is not large by former excursion boat standards on the Hudson, said

Benson. "The big day boats were 300 to 400 feet long," he claimed.

Benson's father was a ship's carpenter on the famous Mary Powell, known as the "Queen of the Hudson River," and he followed the currents himself as captain of the Peter Callanan and, following the economic depression of the 1930s, on numerous towboats that hauled the freight.

The excursion ship Yankee began its career in 1907 as a steamer off the coast of Maine, working further south off Boston for several years and in New York harbor between stints in both world wars. The steam engine was replaced by a diesel in 1948, and she has served off Block Island, R.I.

The trip is billed as a profit making venture with a portion of the proceeds to benefit the Steamer NOBSKA society to form the first operating steamship museum in this country.

St. Peter's Couples Club will hold the first dance of the season Saturday, Oct. 9 at St. Peter's School Hall, Adams Street. The theme will be "The Circus." Music for dancing will be provided by Dick Elliot Bertling and Katch-up from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m. Reservations should be made with Florence Baker Boice of 24 Presidents Place.

DEAR ABBY

Don't Punish the Children for The Sins of Their Mother

DEAR ABBY: I was recently granted a divorce after being married for 30 years. I had a lot of suspicions about my wife, but I had only a second grade education and was pretty dumb then. I didn't begin to add things up until after she had two children who couldn't possibly have been mine. Even so, I was always a good father to them, and they never had any idea they were illegitimate.

My question: I'm making out my will and have brothers and sisters who could sure use some money. I own my own home plus some stocks and savings, and I don't see why I should leave anything to my illegitimate children, do you? Who should be punished?—A PROBLEM OUT EAST children born during your marriage are legally your children. You say you've been a "good father," and I believe you. But how can you write off all the years during which they grew up loving you and being loved in return?

DEAR PROBLEM: Any

To leave them nothing would be punishing them for the "sins" of their mother. Unfair. Please reconsider.

DEAR ABBY: I graduated from high school last June and received some very nice gifts from friends and relatives.

Since I've had a very busy summer and hate to write letters, I decided to telephone all those who sent me gifts to thank them personally. I even called long-distance to thank those who live out of town, and I intend to pay for the calls myself.

My parents aren't satisfied. They think a written thank-you note is necessary. I think a telephone call is enough. What do you think?—PHONED MY THANKS

DEAR PHONED: Phoning one's thanks strikes me as the lazy man's way. It's adequate; but those who do it right write!

DEAR ABBY: I received an invitation to a golden wedding anniversary party. I am only an acquaintance, not a dear friend or relative, but I was told by a relative of the celebrating couple to bring money rather than a gift because the golden wedding couple are having a money tree. With the money collected, they plan to take a cruise.

I asked how much I would be expected to contribute and was told, "At least a dollar for every year the couple have been married."

Abby, that's a minimum of $50—as much as I gave my own niece for a wedding present!

What do you think?—PASADENA READER

DEAR PASADENA: I think you should give whatever you feel is appropriate and no more.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Saugerties Mum Festival Offers Autumn at its Best

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA
Freeman staff

SAUGERTIES — Brought to you by Mother Nature, Seamon Park's spectacular production with a shimmering cast of millions... chrysanthemum blossoms and brilliant scarlet and gold autumn leaves.

It's a popular classic, revived every year to rave reviews and standing ovations. Admittance free.

If you've never attended, you've never known the meaning of "brightly colored." Your concept of red and yellow is but a pale version of what Seamon Park, on Malden Avenue in the Village of Saugerties, has to show you for this year's 11th Annual Chrysanthemum Festival. You've never experienced autumn at its best, brightest and most beautiful, if you've never attended.

And thousands will come to enjoy this outdoor theater, bringing along their paints and their cameras, when the yearly festival is held again from Oct. 3 to 24.

Arrive with your eyes open, because there's lots to see at this classic event that guarantees a great show year after year.

Every day over the three weeks of the festival, visitors will be greeted with hillside and pathways decorated in rainbow colors. Photography buffs and sightseers will find the Saugerties foliage and blossoms at their loveliest. It's an annual pilgrimage made by countless admirers, as summer's greenery gives way to peak brilliancy of leaves and that fall-blooming perennial known fondly as the "mum." Seamon Park contains one of the largest collections of chrysanthemums to be seen in New York. For more than a decade, the Village of Saugerties, with the assistance of community organizations and clubs, has been staging a Chrysanthemum Festival in October.

This year's program gets underway with the Mum Bowl at the local high school on Saturday, Oct. 2. The game of the day will pit the Sawyers against John Jay, and a "Mum" Queen will be crowned.

The official opening ceremony of the festival is set for Sunday, Oct. 3 at 2 p.m. in the park. The program that day, beginning at 11 a.m., will include a Chrysanthemum Flower Show, and a display and talk on the local Grist Mill Restoration project. Both will run from late morning through late afternoon. A special attraction on this first Sunday of the festival will be a music concert, combining glee club voices and a wind ensemble, from 2 to 4 p.m.

Through the three October weeks, when visitors are welcome any time from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., trees and flowers and wide expanses of well-manicured parkland and lawns will greet the eyes at every turn. Tree-shaded walks, ornamental fountains and the spectacular chrysanthemum show should be lure enough. But, if you have only one day free to attend, make it Sunday, Oct. 10, when any number of other attractions will be added to the riot of fall colors.

An Outdoor Art Show will

line the park's paths, the bouncy music of Papa Bear's Band will echo through the Seamon air, Early American Crafts will be exhibited. The Lefooters will be on hand to perform their sprightly square dances, and the Grist Mill Restoration display and talk will be repeated.

A gala fete for all is this festival of thousands of mums in bloom. And one lodged in the spirit of that day in 1909 when people by the thousands turned out at the park to hear John Seamon present the floral woodland to Saugerties as a gift. There was band music that day, too, and a performance by vaudeville entertainers appearing that week at the local Orpheum Theatre.

This year, the emphasis will be more on the flowers that bloom in the fall, and the intriguing historical past rooted in the Old Sawyer grist mill site, a mill built before 1663.

Any day of the festival, then, would be a good day to plan a family picnic under the aromatic conifers and towering maple trees. And, for professional and amateur botanists, and just plain lovers of flowers, few of nature's festivals can compare to the chrysanthemums of Saugerties in full bloom. In gay profusion, they blanket Seamon

Park by the thousands—and they'll share their spectacular beauty with visitors in equal numbers through most of October.

Quite literally, a colorful experience.

Tigers, Sawyers Suffer Losses In DCSL Soccer

KINGSTON—Kingston High and Saugerties High exchanged opponents Monday afternoon, but the results were not nearly as successful as last weekend.

Both teams had done well against two of the Dutchess County Scholastic League's top teams in their season openers, Kingston tying Arlington, 1-1, in a rain-shortened game Friday and Saugerties upsetting Spackenkill, 2-1 Saturday.

It was a different story Monday as Spackenkill put away Kingston, 2-0, and Arlington edged Saugerties, 2-1. The Tigers are now 0-1-1 and play host to Roosevelt at 4 p.m. Wednesday at Loughran Park. The Sawyers are 1-1 and play host to Ketcham at 4 p.m. Wednesday.

Kingston was a victim of its own "lethargic play," according to coach Ron Chiasson. "Spackenkill dominated the game, no doubt about it. They took it right to us. They were all fired up after that loss to Saugerties on Friday. They controlled the midfield against us. Once we got the ball there, they just put it right back at us. They beat us to everything."

After a scoreless first half, Spackenkill's Tim Wallin scored in the forty-fifth minute unassisted, then scored again three minutes later with an assist from Jeff Waldman. The winners outshot Kingston, 18-11 and showed their offensive dominance by taking nine corner kicks to Kingston's one.

"The corner kicks tell the story," said Chiasson. "They kept us in our own end. Malcolm Schick had a fantastic game in the goal for us."

"They were the better team yesterday but I won't concede the second game to them at all."

Saugerties made its own bad luck, twice doing favors for Arlington by putting the ball into its own net for Arlington goals. The first came in the sixth minute and the final one came in the thirty-sixth minute as both times Sawyer defenders, in attempting a clearing crossing pass across the goal mouth, instead sent the ball into the goal past keeper Jim Hackett.

Sawyer Bobby Benzenhoefer scored on a penalty kick in the 20th minute. Saugerties was awarded a penalty kick when Arlington goalie Greg Schlegel was called for kicking a Sawyer in the penalty area.

Steve Southworth and Mark Rodl received credit for the Arlington goals.

"It's the same old story," said Saugerties coach Tony Elia. "We're smaller and slower. But I'm proud of my boys. They showed they're competitive with the best. Arlington did not score against us yesterday—we did twice. And Spackenkill only scored once on a penalty kick against us."

The stats:
 Spackenkill.....0 2-2
 Kingston.....0 0-0
 Scoring—Spack. Wallin unassisted, 9:17; 2 Spack. Wallin (Waldman), 12:39
 Shots on Goal—Spack 18, King 11; Saves—Spack 10, King 12; Corner Kicks—Spack 9, King 1; Goalkeepers—McAlister, Spack; Schick, King
 ***
 Arlington.....11-2
 Saugerties.....1 0-1
 Scoring—Arl. Rodl, 4:00; 2 Saug. Benzenhoefer (penalty kick) 20:00; 3 Arl. Southworth, 36:00
 Shots on Goal—Arl. 21, Saug 10; Saves—Arl. 8, Saug 20; Corner Kicks—Arl. 3, Saug 3; Goalkeepers—Arl. Schlegel; Saug. Hackett.

Elia: No Conflicts Between Soccer, FB

SAUGERTIES — Saugerties High School varsity soccer coach Tony Elia is sorry participation in Sawyer football is down this year but he doesn't want soccer to take the blame.

"I think there's a misconception that there's conflict between the two sports," Elia said. "There's a feeling among some people that the reason the football team hasn't done well is due to soccer. I've always held there is no conflict between the two."

Elia was responding to a column by sports editor Ira Fusfeld in Sunday's Freeman which was centered on the revelation that Saugerties had to cancel its opening junior varsity football game last week because its roster had dipped below the minimum required by the state.

In the column, Saugerties athletic director and football coach Fred Seither said he couldn't pinpoint the reason for the decline in participation but surmised last year's winless season and the growth of soccer at the school were two possibilities.

Elia said there was no way any of his soccer players could participate in football: "We don't have any boys big enough physically to play football. The average boy is about 5-4, 120 pounds."

Elia pointed to the coexistence of soccer and football at both Arlington and Roosevelt High Schools as examples of success. Each won titles in soccer and football the same year Roosevelt in 1974, Arlington in 1975.

"I also point to the successful coexistence here of three sports — baseball, tennis and track — in the spring," he said. "The objective of the program is to increase the number of participants in interscholastic athletics, not in one sport over another."

Elia also took note of the example of Marlboro High, which has football but not soccer because of the size of its student body. He added Rhinebeck High, which does not have football, and said both schools were doing their students an "injustice" by not offering the other sport.

"Not every boy is a football player and not every boy is a soccer player," he said.

Asked why he thought participation in football at Saugerties was down Elia said he could not comment. "I haven't made football my concern."

Stabler Proves Point

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Oakland Raider Ken Stabler says being a quarterback is an easy job when your receivers are working against a couple of rookie defensive backs.

Stabler proved his point Monday night. He hit 22 of 28 passes, including one interception, for 224 yards and three touchdowns as the Raiders beat the Kansas City Chiefs 24-21 in a nationally televised game that was more lopsided than the score indicated.

"You are supposed to do things like that when you have all the advantages I have," said Stabler, who left the game with 12:51 to play when his right knee was hurt after being tackled by Chief defensive end Wilbur Young. "Any time you have rookie backs covering guys the caliber of our receivers you have to take advantage of it."

Stabler hit his first nine passes of the game. He also hit Dave Casper with a 15-yard first quarter touchdown pass, Cliff Branch with a 10-yard scoring toss and Mike Siani with a 24-yard touchdown pass — the play on which he was hurt — to give the Raiders a 24-7 lead.

The Chiefs, held to 10 yards rushing and 37 yards total offense in the first half, scored on a one-yard MacArthur Lane run in the third quarter and then came up with a one-yard Mike Livingston scoring run with 4:36 to play. Less than two minutes later Livingston hit a 25-yard scoring pass to Billy Masters, set up when Raider Pete Banaszak fumbled the ball away on his own 25.

But the Chiefs had to use their final timeout of the game in setting up Livingston's run so they had to watch and hope as Oakland, directed by reserve quarterback Mike Rae, ran off the final 2:53.

Stabler used seven different receivers — including veteran Fred Biletnikoff, who caught four passes to give him 501 in his career — in taking advantage of Chief rookie safety Gary Barbaro and first-year cornerback Tim Collier.

"I have confidence I can throw against anybody we play and I know there is no way a rookie is going to cover someone like Casper or (Cliff) Branch or Fred (Biletnikoff) or Mike (Siani)," said

Ken Stabler scrambles

Stabler, who said he could have come back into the game after being hurt if the Raiders had needed him.

The second time the Raiders had the ball, Stabler hit six of seven passes for 49 yards and drove Oakland 67 yards in an effort which ended with Casper's touchdown.

After Oakland held Kansas City on three plays, Stabler directed the Raiders on a 72-yard scoring march, hitting three of four passes for 31 yards including the pass to Branch. And when Oakland got the ball on its own 14 with just minutes left in the half, he took the Raiders to the Kansas City 20 to set up a 37-yard Fred Steinfeld field goal.

Chiefs Coach Paul Wiggins said he was glad to see his young team — 15 first-year players — come back in the final half.

"They have a great quarterback, great receivers, a great line and great plan," Wiggins said. "It is going to be very difficult for any team to really hold them down unless they have a real downer day, but I was just glad we fought back. I think we grew a lot."

Reds, Yanks on Brink of Clinching

By UPI

The summer-long quest for pennants can end for the Cincinnati Reds tonight and be all but over for the New York Yankees, Kansas City Royals and Philadelphia Phillies.

The Reds, whose magic number is down to one, will clinch the National League's Western Division title if they beat the San Diego Padres or the Los Angeles Dodgers lose to the San Francisco Giants.

The Yankees will clinch a tie for the American League's Eastern title by beating the Baltimore Orioles while the Royals and Phillies could take virtually insurmountable leads in the AL West and NL East, respectively.

The Royals face the second-place Oakland A's and a victory will give them a seven-game lead. The Phillies play a single game against the St. Louis Cardinals and could lead by six games if they win and the Pirates drop an afternoon doubleheader to the Chicago Cubs.

The Reds, idle Monday after clinching a tie for the NL Eastern title Sunday, are sending Pat Zachry (13-5) against San Diego's Brent Strom (11-15) at Cincinnati. They're planning to be drinking champagne even before the Dodgers take the field against the Giants in a San Francisco night game that starts at 10:15 PM, EDT.

The Yankees, who missed a chance to reduce their magic number to two by losing to the Milwaukee Brewers 4-2 Monday night, face the second-place Orioles with Doyle Alexander (12-9) on the mound against Ross Grimsley (8-6). A New York victory will clinch the tie and reduce the magic number to one.

The Royals, who have won five of their last six games, open a three-game series with the second-place A's. The two teams have a total of six games remaining against each other but a victory tonight would give the Royals a seven-game lead and a stranglehold on the AL Western title.

Doug Bird (11-9) is slated to pitch for the Royals while Stan Bahnsen (8-6) is scheduled to go for the A's.

The Phillies, who picked up a half-game Monday when the New York Mets defeated the Pirates 5-4, will send Tom Underwood (9-5) against the Cardinals' John Denny (10-7). The Pirates, having lost three out of four to the Mets, will be attempting to reverse their downward momentum in their afternoon doubleheader in Chicago.

The Boston Red Sox defeated the Detroit Tigers 12-6 and the California Angels beat the Texas Rangers 1-0 in Monday's only other scheduled games.

Dan Thomas' fourth-inning homer stood up as the winning run for the Brewers as Gary Beare won his second game with the ninth-inning relief help of Ray Sadecki and Bill Castro. Ken Holtzman was tagged for four runs and seven hits in eight innings and saw his record drop to 13-10. Graig Nettles hit his 29th homer for the Yankees.

The Pirates had a one-run lead with two out and none on in the last of the ninth inning when pinch-hitter John Milner singled and rookie Lee Mazzilli homered to give the Mets their victory. The Pirates had battled back from a 3-0 deficit to lead 4-3 in the eighth on Willie Stargell's 19th homer of the season.

Mazzilli's homer, his second since being recalled from Jackson, Tex., of the Texas League, came off reliever Kent Tekulve. The youngster shrugged off the impact his homer had on the Pirates' chances with the comment, "it doesn't bother me...it's just one of those things."

Jim Rice hit two homers and Cecil Cooper and Dwight Evans one each to lead a 13-hit Boston attack which brought Rick Jones his fifth win of the season. Rusty Staub hit his 13th homer for the Tigers.

Nolan Ryan pitched a threehitter for his fifth consecutive victory for the Angels, raising his record to 15-17. Batterymate Terry Humphrey doubled in the only run of the game off Bert Blyleven. It was the fifth shutout of the year for Ryan, who struck out four batters, raising his major league leading total to 289 and leaving him 11 short of a record fourth 300-strikeout season.

Brewers Sidetrack New York

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The Milwaukee Brewers had just beaten the New York Yankees 4-2 Monday night for only their second win in the last 14 games. So it wasn't very hard to figure out the mood of Manager Alex Grammas — happy.

"We won a game," Grammas said almost in wonderment. "It always feels good to win for a change. I just hope this is the start of a little streak so we can get presentable again."

For the Brewers, who are 64-85 on the season and mired deep in last place in the Eastern Division, that would take some doing. In fact, even playing a small spoiler role in keeping the Yankees from clinching the divisional pennant for at least another game wasn't much satisfaction.

"Whether we postpone their champagne a while is the last thing I'm worried about," Grammas said of the Yankees, who should take the flag over Baltimore.

For the Brewers the win was doubly satisfying because of two rookies who could help make their future brighter.

Outfielder Dan Thomas hit a fourth-inning home to win the game and pitcher Gary Beare had a fine eight innings before giving way in the ninth to Ray Sadecki and Bill Castro after giving up a leadoff double.

The Brewers jumped on loser and starter Ken Holtzman for two quick runs in the first inning on a single by third baseman Don Money. But New York's Graig Nettles increased his American League-leading home run total to 29 in the second inning to cut the Brewer lead to 2-1 and drove in another run in the fourth inning to tie the game at 2-2.

Then Thomas hit his solo shot in the Brewer fourth to win the game and Milwaukee scored another run in the eighth inning.

The loss dropped Holtzman to a 13-10 record and was only his second in 12 lifetime decisions against Milwaukee.

The Yankees return home to face Baltimore as they try to end the pennant race and Milwaukee today goes to Boston for a double-header with Jim Colborn and rookie Moose Haas on the mound for Milwaukee.

Beare, now 2-1, has been impressive and Grammas likes what he sees.

"The way he's pitched the three games he's started there's no doubt he's confident," Grammas said. "He's shown he's going to be a winning pitcher."

Beare was 10-10 at Pittsfield in the Eastern League and 1-4 with Spokane in the Pacific Coast circuit before joining the club last month.

Thomas, though, may turn out to be the bigger jewel. He was the player of the year in the Eastern League at Pittsfield, where he led the league with 28 homers, 80 RBIs and a .330 average. In 20 games with the Brewers he has three homers, 10 RBIs and is batting about .290.

"He swings the bat well," Grammas said of Thomas. "He's not being embarrassed at all at the plate — he's really got a swing."

Lee May Have Dealt KO Punch

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lee Mazzilli called it "one of those things," but to the Pittsburgh Pirates it may have been a death blow.

What "it" was was Mazzilli's two-out, two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth inning Monday which lifted the New York Mets to a 5-4 victory over Pittsburgh and dropped the Pirates 4-½ games behind the idle Philadelphia Phillies in the National League East pennant race with only 13 games left to play.

Mazzilli, a major leaguer all of two weeks, wasn't concerned about destroying the Pirates' chances of catching the Phillies.

"It doesn't bother me," the 21-year-old switch-hitting outfielder said. "It's just one of those things."

The Pirates had rallied in dramatic fashion from a 3-0 deficit to take a 4-3 lead in the eighth inning on Willie Stargell's 19th homer.

When Pittsburgh's ace reliever Kent Tekulve retired the first two batters of the ninth inning, it appeared the Pirates were going to gain a split of their four-game series with the pitching-rich Mets.

But John Milner, batting for winning pitcher Bob Apodaca, slapped a pinch-single to set the stage for Mazzilli, who knew what pitch to anticipate in that situation.

"When I went up there, I wasn't going to go after anything but a fastball," Mazzilli said. "It (the pitch) was a belt-high fastball, the home run, and I just went after it. I knew it was gone as soon as I hit it and it felt fantastic."

Unfortunately, it didn't feel too good to Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh, who still managed to find some consolation in the fact that his club no longer has to play the Mets while the Phillies must.

"I'm no more upset than about any other loss, but obviously it gets tougher with each loss," he said. "The Mets performed well wherever they've played and I just hope they can do to the Phillies what they've done against us."

What the Mets have done against Pittsburgh is win four games in the last week and 10-of-18 during the season. Murtaugh can only hope that his club is still in the race when the Mets play the Phillies in the last three games of the regular season.

KHS, SHS Harriers Look Good

By BRUCE COLDBERG
 Freeman Staff

KINGSTON—Coaches are usually the last people on earth to give too favorable a prospectus to the fortunes of their team as their particular season approaches. After all, why give the opposition a motivating clipping that goes up on the locker room bulletin board?

But two county high school cross country coaches are feeling rather good about their teams and aren't shy about it.

"I really can't expect to finish lower than third in the Dutchess County Scholastic League," said Kingston High coach Dean Short about his Tiger harriers.

"We should have the best club of my three years here," said Saugerties coach Ron Buzon.

Both teams were to have begun their varsity seasons today with Poughkeepsie at Kingston and Beacon at Saugerties in DCSL meets.

Short, whose Tigers finished third in the DCSL meet last season, has three senior letter winners who finished in the top 25 of that meet, including Charlie Bevier (tenth), Bill Wilson and Vic Nip-pert Jr. Other experienced runners include junior Brian Wootan and senior Morey Katz.

The Tigers also boast the Section One girls meet champion, junior Eileen Casey. She not only beat out a field of 90 female runners in last year's Section One meet, she will also "probably be in the top five Geoff Megargee, Herb Petersen, Guy Smalt and Phil Brown.

"I expect us to be in the top three again," said Short. "We've got our top three back. We should do a lot better. I figure Arlington has the edge in the league, and much depends on the morale of the Ketcham and John Jay runners due to the budget problems."

Buzon can call upon seven veterans among his 12 runners, including junior Tommy Miller, who finished in the top 25. With only one loss to graduation, Buzon looks for a better year with the return of seniors Ron Sickler, John Vander Poel, Steve Schaeffer and Kevin Curl, junior Alan Gardeski, and last year's No. 5 man, soph Bob Lachman.

Sophs Chris Gilmartin, Gary Kain and Brian Terpening and freshmen Kevin Sweeney and Maurice Cormier round out the squad.

Previewing DCSL Cross Country

on the boys' team," said Short.

Rams Scoff at Namath Rumor

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A Los Angeles Rams spokesman said today it was "an impossibility" in denying a newspaper report that his team was about to engineer a trade with the New York Jets for superstar quarterback Joe Namath.

"I've never heard of such a thing," said Rams public relations director Jerry Wilcox early Tuesday morning, in a state of high good humor upon learning of the story published by the Washington Post. "There's no such deal in the works that I know of. Everything else aside, it's against the rules, an impossibility. Good night."

The Post quoted sources as saying the Rams have been discussing the trade since quarterback Ron Jaworski was sidelined by a broken throwing shoulder in the Rams' opening game victory over Atlanta. The Post also said the Jets are ready to deal, but it would be a difficult transaction since the interconference trading deadline has passed.

Namath, who is earning $450,000 in the second season of a two-year contract and has previously expressed an interest in joining the Rams, would have to clear waivers in the American Football Conference and through those clubs in the National Conference with 1975 records worse than the Rams' 12-2 mark.

The Post said Namath's no-trade contract might help in deterring other teams from putting in a claim for him. But the paper quoted a source close to those who would be involved in the negotiations as saying the chances for a trade are "well below 50 per cent" because of the difficulties involved.

The Jets could put Namath on the waiver list and withdraw him only once more this season. If he was put on the list a second time, the most eligible team to claim him would be assigned his contract.

Namath had said last winter he was tired of playing for a losing team and it has been widely speculated this will be his last season with the Jets. The Post said the trade also would mean closer access for Namath to a film career he aspires to.

Dr. J., Nets At Odds

UNIONDALE (UPI) — New York Nets' owner Roy Boe issued a terse "no comment" Tuesday morning when questioned about published reports that three-time ABA most valuable player Julius Erving would not be present at the opening of training camp Friday because of "broken promises" by management.

Erving, who has four years remaining on a seven-year, $1.9 million contract, said that he had been promised several bonuses but had not received them.

In a letter to Boe, notifying the Nets of his decision not to come to training camp, Erving indicated he had several unresolved business matters to deal with and that his frame of mind could not be programmed 100 percent on the game as long as those matters were not settled.

Reportedly, Erving wants the final four years of his contract to be renegotiated. The Nets are reported to have offered him a new seven-year contract in order to make sure he concludes his career in New York.

Erving's attorney, Irwin Weiner, said Erving agreed to negotiate a new seven-year contract, but that Boe then reneged on his promise.

The Nets, who have had financial difficulties, recently acquired Nate Archibald in a trade with Kansas City. Archibald's contract, the highest in the game, earns him $450,000 a year.

Nets Acquire Larry McNeil

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Larry McNeil, who began the 1975-76 NBA season as a starter for the Kansas City Kings but wound up sitting on the bench, was traded to the New York Nets Monday for a 1977 third round draft choice and an undisclosed amount of cash.

McNeil, from Marquette, the Kings' second round draft choice in 1973, enjoyed his best season during the Kings' 1974-75 playoff effort when he averaged 9.8 points and ranked third on the team in rebounds. During his three years at Kansas City he averaged 8.7 points and 5.3 rebounds.

The Nets won the ABA championship last year and, along with three other ABA teams, will join the NBA this season.

It was the second trade this month between the two teams. Last week, the Kings sent guard Nate Archibald to the Nets for guard Brian Taylor, backup center Jim Eakins and first round draft choice the next two years.

Jets Waive Two More

HEMPSTEAD (UPI) — The New York Jets, their pass defense decimated by Denver in a 46-3 rout Sunday, waived cornerback Roscoe Word and safety Clifford Brooks and signed John Roman, a free agent tackle.

Word, a third-year man from Jackson State, was called for three penalties and was beaten consistently by Bronco receivers Sunday. He started in 1974 and was named to the NFL's All Rookie team but lost his job last season after several poor performances.

Brooks, a high draft choice by Cleveland three years ago, was picked up just last Saturday after being dropped by Philadelphia.

Roman, 6-4 and 230 pounds, was impressive in a one-day tryout last Wednesday. He played with Philadelphia of the World Football league last season and was dropped by Baltimore on the final cut two weeks ago.

Tommy Davis to Royals

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — Tommy Davis, a well-traveled major league veteran of 17 seasons who twice won the National League batting title with the Los Angeles Dodgers, was sold by the California Angels Monday to the Kansas City Royals.

Entering this season with a .295 lifetime batting average, the 37-year-old Davis was used by the Angels as a designated hitter and batted .265 in 72 games with three home runs and 26 RBIs.

The Royals will be Davis' 10th major league club.

Report Rigney Will Resign

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — San Francisco Giants manager Bill Rigney will announce his resignation today, according to the San Francisco Chronicle.

A 5 p.m. (PDT) news conference was scheduled at Candlestick Park prior to the Giants-Los Angeles Dodgers game. Rigney will disclose his plans at that time, the Chronicle said.

Surgery for Wilbur Wood

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chicago White Sox pitcher Wilbur Wood underwent exploratory surgery on his ailing left knee Monday at suburban Skokie Valley Community Hospital.

A White Sox spokesman said Wood was running at his home in Lexington, Mass., Sunday as part of his rehabilitation program when he hit a soft spot and fell, reinjuring the same knee that was damaged earlier this year. A shot off the bat of Detroit's Ron LeFlore broke Wood's kneecap last May 9.

Ali Is Bearing Down

KIAMESHA LAKE (UPI) — Under the watchful eye of Angelo Dundee, Muhammad Ali returned to the gym Monday after a one-day rest and opened the final week of his pre-fight preparations for Ken Norton with a 15-round workout.

The title bout is set for Sept. 28 at Yankee Stadium and the champion knows that better than anyone in camp.

"He's starting to feel his oats," Dundee said. "Muhammad will be all concentration from here on in," Dundee continued. "He's got but one thing in mind now, to destroy Norton. That's the battle cry from now to next Tuesday when the opening bell sounds. Destroy Norton."

The champion skipped his usual ringside public press conference with the capacity crowd of more than 500. After his final round on the speed bag, he donned his robe and headed straight for his room.

When pressed for a quote later by newsmen, Ali said, "Tell all the people to remember one thing. I have never been defeated as heavy-weight champion of the world. Norton is no different from all those other suckers that tried to take my title. He will fail, and early."

GROSSINGER (UPI) — Ken Norton goes to the movies every day. In fact he sits through the feature three or four times. And it's all in a day's work.

Norton is hard at work in his last week of training for the heavyweight championship fight with Muhammad Ali Sept. 28 in New York.

"There's only one week to go so there's no time to relax," the 31-year-old ex-marine said Monday. "When I'm not running, training, or sleeping, I'm in front of the projector going over the films."

The film is the second Norton-Ali fight in September 1973. Norton lost that fight on a controversial decision, but that doesn't keep him from playing it over and over.

"In my mind I won both fights with Ali, so it doesn't bother me when they announce him as the winner. One way or another, it was a very close fight and Ali was in great shape. He was at his best for me in that fight and it was close. I'm a much improved boxer now, and I'm in the best condition of my career, so it should be no contest," he said.

"Every time I look at the film, I get more and more confident about what I can do. I watch him when I'm studying the films. I watch his moves before he throws a punch and how he follows his punches up."

"I'll fight him predominantly the same way this time with some variation. I've learned a lot in three years about countering and I certainly think a great deal more in the ring."

"Right now the only thing I think about is beating Ali."

Baseball Faces Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) —

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and the presidents of the American and National Leagues stepped up against some high and hard pitching from members of Congress today over the unique antitrust exemption professional baseball has enjoyed for more than half a century.

"The burden of proof is on them," Rep. Gillis Long, D-La., a member of a special House Committee on Professional Sports, said in advance of a hearing at which Kuhn, American League President Lee MacPhail and his National League counterpart Charles S. Feeney were to appear.

Also in the line-up were two team executives, W. Donald Grant of the New York Mets and Edmund B. Fitzgerald of the Milwaukee Brewers.

Long and three colleagues on the 13-member House panel, Reps. Fred Rooney, D-Pa., Edward Derwinski, R-Ill., and Gilbert Gude, R-Md., have suggested the possibility of a bill which would strip baseball of its immunity from federal antitrust laws.

The special committee has no authority to write legislation but it will submit a report to the next Congress in which such a step could be recommended.

Kuhn on two previous appearances on the witness stand has fervently urged retention of the special antitrust status for baseball on grounds the sport needs the protection to maintain competitive balance and a way of developing young players through the minors.

The Supreme Court ruled in 1923 that baseball was a sport rather than a business and conferred legal antitrust protection.

Dog Racing At Green Mt.

POWNAL, Vt. (UPI) —

Vermont's first greyhound racing season is expected to open at Green Mountain Park Friday despite an ongoing dispute between the track's management and the dog owners association. A similar disagreement last year halted the dog racing season even before it started.

Track owners have refused to recognize the New England Greyhound Association and plan to run the races using independent dog owners. The association has charged the track itself owns most of the 750 greyhounds which will take part in the meet.

Association officials said they have appealed in vain for intercession from the state Racing Commission and the governor's office. They said they do not plan to try to block the meet again this year.

The owners of the state's only pari-mutuel race track, meanwhile, are hoping the three months of dog racing can help them recoup from a poor season.

They said attendance has been off about 16 per cent this year.

tion in an opinion by the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes.

In two subsequent cases, the high court turned down challenges of the exemption but in the most recent one dealing with former St. Louis Cardinal star Curt Flood rejected the "sport rather than a business" argument.

The justices said, however, it was the responsibility of Congress to take steps in the antitrust field concerning baseball rather than the judiciary.

The special House committee was created under the chairmanship of Rep. B.F. Sisk, D-Calif., earlier this year when the baseball owners refused to vote for a return of a franchise to Washington, D.C.

Sisk and Long, who is interested in seeing a major league team in New Orleans, have shown impatience with organized baseball for putting teams in Canada while U.S. cities are still unable to obtain teams.

The special House committee was created under the chairmanship of Rep. B.F. Sisk, D-Calif., earlier this year when the baseball owners refused to vote for a return of a franchise to Washington, D.C.

Sisk and Long, who is interested in seeing a major league team in New Orleans, have shown impatience with organized baseball for putting teams in Canada while U.S. cities are still unable to obtain teams.

Junior Football Opners

Titans, Mercurys, Apollos Win

KINGSTON — The Exchange Club Junior Football League's 1976 season is off to a soggy, but auspicious start, with the three debut games producing tight grid encounters.

Noreika Hits 665

Brandt Unloads 278

KINGSTON — Ron Brandt and Bill Noreika were the headlines in recent arsa bowling action.

Brandt fired a career-high 278 to move into the No. 1 singles position on the area top ten enroute to a 647 in the Friday Nite Mixers League. Brandt opened the game with nine straight strikes and is off to a sizzling start this season with a 215 average.

Noreika was Mr. Consistent in Mid-City Four-Man Classic bowling as he put together games of 206-234-225 for a 665 triple, No. 2 high of the season behind Paul Saulpaugh's 709. Also in the Four-Man Classic, Ernie Cozza decked a 632 set with a 236 single the big game.

In other area bowling, Betty Shalightner turned in the No. 4 women's triple of the season as she hit a 575 in the Hoe Bowl Women's Major.

Vince Dingman topped 623 in the Friday Nite Hustlers loop and Cliff Hotaling tallied 614 in the Friday Night Commercial.

WOMEN'S CLASSIC B — Henriette Purhamus 184-473, Cheryl Buonfiglio 450, Dolores Carlson 440, Chris Noble 417, Marge Ferguson 417, James Noble Plumbing 701-2007.

FRIDAY NIGHT COMMERCIAL — Cliff Hotaling 227-614, Arnold Bukey 597, Bill Hart 597, Don Marallo 596, Dick's Window Cleaners 930, MiJo's Market 2572.

KHS JV Ties Jay

WICCOPEE — The Kingston High School junior varsity football team unveiled a strong rushing attack in its 1976 opener against John Jay Saturday, but a tenacious Patriot defense staved off repeated Tiger efforts to force a 6-6 deadlock.

Kingston's lone score came on a 20 yard return with a pass interception by Dan Langton in the second period. On five occasions the Tigers penetrated to within ten yards of another TD, but each time the John Jay defense stopped KHS short of a score.

The locals suffered just one major defensive breakdown, but that cost the victory when the Patriot quarterback swept the end for 12 yards and the tying TD. The two-point conversion attempts by both clubs failed.

Johns Out

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Freeman Johns, the Los Angeles Rams' rookie wide receiver injured in Sunday's game against the Minnesota Vikings, underwent knee surgery Monday to repair torn ligaments and will be lost to the club for the remainder of the season, the club announced.

Johns, a 6-foot-1, 175-pounder from Southern Methodist, suffered the injury to his right knee after he was tackled trying to return a punt in the 10-10 overtime standoff between the two clubs. A Rams' spokesman said no decision has been made on who will be added to the roster to fill the vacancy.

Michigan On Top In UPI Grid Poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — Michigan's convincing victory over Stanford Saturday coupled with Ohio State's narrow win over stubborn Penn State has earned the Wolverines the distinction of being the No. 1 ranked major college football team in UPI's Board of Coaches poll.

Michigan's 51-0 victory over Stanford earned the Wolverines 31 first place votes as they steamrolled past the Buckeyes with 405 points by virtue of their impressive performance. Ohio State, ranked No. 1 last week, narrowly defeated Penn State, 12-7, and registered only five first place votes and a total of 335 overall in Monday's balloting.

Michigan was second to Ohio State in last week's voting, trailing the Buckeyes by a mere six points.

Pittsburgh moved up a notch to third place on the strength of a 42-14 triumph over Georgia Tech. The Panthers drew four first place votes and a 304 point total.

UCLA, with a single first place vote, dropped one rung to fourth place with 295 votes, while Oklahoma remained fifth with 262. Nebraska, with the only other first place vote from the 42 coaches, moved up two spaces to sixth place based on 151 votes, Georgia advanced two steps to seventh on 129 points, Maryland returned to the top 10 with a No. 8 rating on 95 points, Texas A&M moved from the 10th to ninth position with 86 and Penn State dropped three notches from seventh to 10th with 58 points.

Arkansas headed the second 10, up one spot from last week to 11th, followed in order by Kansas, Alabama and Illinois. Southern California and Louisiana State shared 15th place with Boston College 17th and North Carolina 18th. Florida and Texas Tech were tied for 19th place.

Missouri, upset by Illinois 31-6, dropped out of the top 20 after being named to sixth place last week. Oklahoma State also failed to make the elite group.

Last week, Ohio State grabbed 16 first place votes and collected 349 points. Michigan had 17 first place ballots with 343 points.

Nip of Autumn Is in the Air

(By UPI)
Widely scattered rains dotted the nation and an autumnal nip was in the air in many areas today — the last full day of summer.
Showers and thunderstorms stretched from the Eastern Seaboard to Texas.
Heavy rains soaked the central Gulf Coast states and a flash flood watch was posted for portions of southeastern Texas.
Other rains soaked the upper Mississippi Valley and the Great Lakes areas and lingering showers dampened portions of the Appalachians and the Ohio Valley.

Rain also swept over the West and thundershowers were reported in Oregon, Nevada, California and New Mexico.
Rainfall accumulations generally were less than an inch.
Cool weather settled over the nation's midlands early today, with temperatures in the 40s and 50s from the middle Mississippi Valley through the Central Plains and the Northern Rockies.

Florida Sea Cruises Still Pack Them Aboard

MIAMI (UPI) — Tourism may be sagging in Florida, but the cruise ship business is booming in Miami and this year's one-millionth passenger has set sail for a Caribbean cruise.
Dade County officials joined the Port of Miami Monday in celebrating Miami's continued dominance of the market. Miami has been the leading cruise port in the world since 1973, when there were 851,000 boardings, but has never before broken the one million mark.
"I think there is a big market of people who haven't been on a cruise yet but would like to go," port director Robert Waldron said.

Selected as the millionth passenger Monday was Deborah Keyser, 21, of Park Ridge, Ill., who was with her husband, Quenton, on a honeymoon cruise. The Keyseers are taking a four-day, five-night trip to Nassau and Freeport aboard the Monarch Sun.
Fifteen cruise ships, which run three-day to two-week tours of Caribbean ports, now use Miami as their home port. Three more ships will be added in January.

Island for Sale

If you want to buy an island paradise, a tropical rain forest or other exotic retreat, you might try the Rare Earth Real Estate Co., which operates from this lavish houseboat in Sausalito, Calif. Shelley Belinkoff, an agent for the firm founded in 1974 says one of the firm's listings in paradise is a coconut island—30 acres in the Fiji group for $225,000. "It typifies the true fantasy that people have about the islands," he said.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 22

Your Birthday Today: The Sun changes from Virgo to Libra at 5:48 p.m. EDT. For your main effort this year, pick a course of action you really want and don't just settle for circumstances. Material success isn't the chief factor in success at this stage. Today's Virgo natives often amass items sustaining scientific research; Librans center on themselves, are natural politicians.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Take nothing for granted, assume anything is possible and ask questions. Make up your mind you're going to get there okay, then get to work.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): At this turning point, it's natural if you don't know what factors are at work. Use common sense. If you're at all near the right track, unexpected help comes in.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Wait until you can be heard then state plainly what you hope to get. Correspondence and official petitions bring benefits if properly pursued.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Routine travel becomes a voyage of discovery if you accept new ideas. Invite friends to join an experiment based on childhood impressions.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): There's little point in explanations. Hang onto your cash and promises. If you're a target for a practical joke, be big about it.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Go outside your regular round of contacts to share details of current news or hobbies with somebody of similar interests. An old worry quietly lapses.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Curiosity leads to odd, intriguing truths. Secret maneuvering defeats itself. Speak up for what you are sure you deserve.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Discount most things you hear as wishful thinking; work on what you have faith in. Picking up the tab for friends is okay on occasion.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Optimism distorts your viewpoint. Later you wonder how you got involved in today's schemes. Your ability to sell is high, so take the initiative.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Decisions made now work out well, but must be based on deeper intuition rather than ordinary logic or available information. Take a trip to break an old habit.

By Jeane Dixon

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Don't fall for a sob story, as there's certain to be a part you won't hear. Checking it out yourself takes time and travel.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): You have everything settled; suit yourself. Somebody else has a slightly different plan. You have to sell your ideas all over again.

TEEN FORUM

By JEAN ADAMS, Ph.D.

ARGUMENTS: (Q.) Walt and I have been going together for almost two years. I love him very much, but I'm scared that I'm going to lose him.

He wants to start running around more with his friends, and I don't want him to. Sometimes we argue about it. We have talked some about getting married. I want to, but I am not sure of him anymore. How can I make him care for me and love me the way I love him? — Worried in Texas.

(A.) You can't make Walt love you. But you can make him NOT love you by hanging onto him too tightly or by arguing with him all the time.

BOTCHED: (Q.) I am a girl and my problem is my face. I have pimples!

I am not ugly, but I do have a lot of blotches. I am self-conscious about them and stay in my room and cry and don't do anything. Can you please give me some advice? — Disfigured in New York.

(A.) Don't stay in your room and don't cry! Get out, go see your doctor, and get a cure for your pimples. They can be whipped, and when they are, your confidence will return. Problems must be dealt with — not ignored.

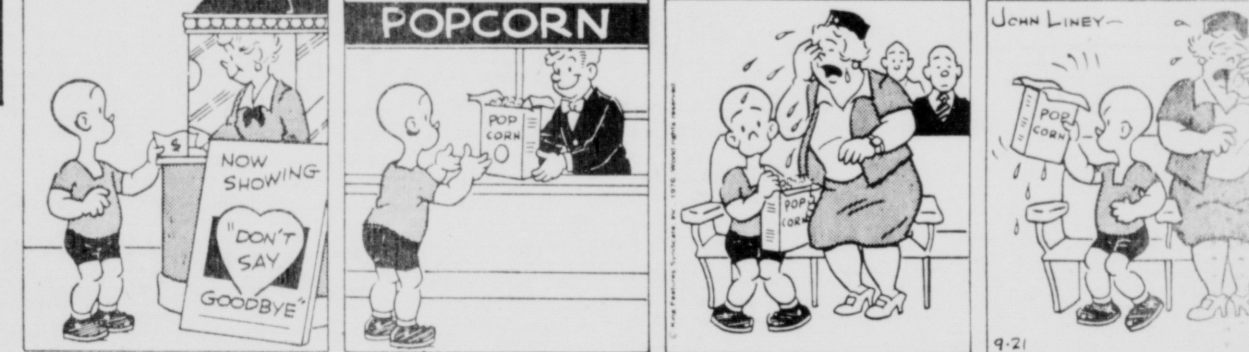

(Have a problem? Write to Dr. Jean Adams, care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Every letter is read, but because of the great number received, Dr. Adams cannot send personal replies.)

KEEP CONCENTRATION BY COUNTING TRICKS

by Alfred Sheinwold

Most bridge players are wrong when they blame loss of concentration for their disasters. They don't really lose their concentration; they just don't know what to concentrate on.

South took the king of hearts and led the jack of spades for a finesse around to East's queen. East returned a heart to the ace, and South led another round of trumps.

Declarer then ran the diamonds and managed to get rid of all three clubs before West managed to ruff. Game, rubber and an overtrick to North-South.

EXPLANATION
East explained that a fly buzzing in the room caused him to lose his concentration. Now let's look at the truth. The first trick and the sight of the dummy should warn

East that he can expect no tricks in the red suits. He must concentrate on winning four tricks in the black suits.

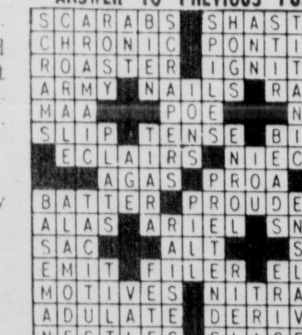

The first trump trick indicates that South's trumps are headed by J-10 since South would hardly take a first-round finesse if he held K-J-10. If West has a trump trick, the defenders need two clubs. East should lead the king of clubs and continue with a low club to concentrate on getting those two tricks.

If South has the ace of clubs he cannot be beaten; and East has merely made matters slightly easier for declarer. If West had the ace of clubs, East has made matters much easier for the defense.

DAILY QUESTION
Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes. You hold: ♦Q3 ♥865 432 ♦8 ♣K642. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four hearts, promising strong trump support, not more than 9 points in high cards, and a singleton or void suit.

Church Sued For Hymn Hijack

CHICAGO (UPI) — A composer-publisher filed a federal court suit against Archbishop Cardinal John Cody of Chicago and five Chicago area Roman Catholic churches, charging them with using pirated songs in their hymnals.

Dennis J. Fitzpatrick, president of F.E.L. Publications Ltd., a Los Angeles-based firm that publishes interfaith folk worship music, said Catholic churches are cheating music publishers out of millions of dollars a year by "pirating" copyrighted hymns.

"Over the last 10 years, we've lost $29.4 million due to unauthorized copying of our materials," Fitzpatrick said after filing the $180,000 damage suit in U.S. District Court.

Fitzpatrick said the parishes have been making mimeograph copies of his company's hymnals rather than buying additional copies or paying a license fee.

"The loss in royalties to our 65 composer-authors for just last year is estimated to be $507,000 or an average of $7,800 per composer-author," he said.

Fitzpatrick, 37, who wrote the first Roman Catholic mass entirely in English in 1963, said his company last summer made a nationwide survey and found more than half of the 10,000 Catholic parishes were using hymnals that were mimeographed.

In the Chicago area, evidence of such pirating allegedly was found in 103 parishes, he said. All of the parishes were mailed certified letters asking for a $500 payment to cover all past copyright infringements. None of the churches responded, Fitzpatrick said.

Named in the suit as "representative" church defendants were Holy Name Cathedral, Chicago; Queen of All Saints Basilica, Chicago; St. Ferdinand's Church, Chicago; St. Paul of the Cross Church, Park Ridge; and St. Athanasius Church, Evanston.

The suit also seeks an injunction barring the churches from making illegal copies of the firm's copyrighted music in the future.

Responding to the charges, Msgr. Francis Brackin of the Chicago Archdiocese's chancery office said, "If there is any infringement on his copyright, we'll do whatever is necessary to correct it."

PSC OKs Power Co. Purchase

ALBANY (UPI) — The Public Service Commission has approved sale of the Sherrill-Kenwood Power and Light Co. to the city of Sherrill, meaning a major local industry and residents of the area could benefit from the low-cost of hydro-electric power.

The proposal was approved over the objections of Niagara Mohawk Power Corp., which had supplied power to Oneida Ltd., which in turn sold it to Sherrill-Kenwood, the commission said Monday.

Niagara Mohawk did not object to the proposal that the city supply the approximately 1,250 customers in the city and nearby parts of the city of Oneida and the town of Vernon with power purchased from the State Power Authority.

But, Niagara Mohawk questioned the sale of 7,500 kilowatts of the low-cost power to serve a manufacturer.

The company's objections "do not raise any questions that are directly related to the transfer," the commission said in a 3-1 decision.

"Instead they relate to the propriety of taking that power from the residential customers of the three major upstate electric companies in order to serve a manufacturer, Oneida, Ltd.," the commission said.

The legislature, in creating the Power Authority, delegated exclusively to the governor and the authority the power to determine the allocation of hydro-electric power.

Sherrill has negotiated a contract with the authority to buy 11,000 kilowatts of power to supply Oneida Ltd and the other customers now served by Sherrill-Kenwood.

As an industrial customer, Oneida Ltd. had a higher fuel adjustment charge than Niagara Mohawk's residential customers and did not receive FASNY credit on its purchases. Therefore, these charges were passed on to Sherrill-Kenwood and its residential customers.

The city of Sherrill adopted a local law in January authorizing the establishment of a municipal utility and the issuance of up to $1.5 million in bonds to finance the venture, including $285,000 to buy the Sherrill-Kenwood system.

Coal Now, Solar Later

DENVER (UPI) — Federal Energy Administrator Frank Zarb said Monday the nation must use low sulphur Western coal while alternative energy sources are being developed.

Speaking to the Public Coal Forum, Zarb said the United States has more coal energy than the oil energy in all the Arab states.

He said coal can be mined without adverse environmental effects, and without the "boom and bust" cycles that created the Western ghost towns of gold and silver mining days.

"Coal can be mined and burned without undue harm to the environment," he said. "No one is advocating unrestrained development, and just because it has been done wrong in the past does not mean it will be done wrong in the future."

Zarb told government officials and members of the public the Clean Air Act and tough reclamation standards would protect the environment from effects of coal development.

Gene Calls Ballot Blitz Below Belt

ALBANY (UPI) — An attempt by the state Democratic party to knock Eugene McCarthy off the presidential ballot in November has brought charges from the McCarthy organization that Jimmy Carter is now willing to use a political "machine" he once charged was corrupt.

McCarthy, the nominee of the Independence party, is seen as a possible spoiler in the November general election contest between Carter and President Ford.

McCarthy has filed petitions in 32 states and is on the ballot in two others by court order as part of what he described as an effort to break the hold of a two-party system on American politics. His supporters are collecting petitions in five other states and involved in court challenges in two others.

Notice of the challenge to McCarthy's Independence party petitions was filed Monday with the State Board of Elections by Gordon Contessa of Brooklyn and Irving Schlein of Queens, both registered and enrolled Democrats.

The petitions carried 28,236 signatures, 8,236 more than the minimum needed to get on the ballot.

"They are really concerned about this," an informed Democratic party source said. "It could hurt Carter if he stays on the ballot."

A McCarthy spokesman said, "In the spring, Jimmy Carter referred to the corrupt New York machine that was trying to keep him off the ballot. Now, Mr. Carter turns to the same people in an attempt to keep Mr. McCarthy off the ballot."

The McCarthy aide said the challenge was "a hypocritical travesty of Mr. Carter's 'Boy Scout' oath at the Democratic national convention." Carter vowed then he would work "to translate love into simple justice."

A spokesman for the State Democratic party said the challenge was filed "with the knowledge" of the Carter organization, "although Carter people are not involved."

The challenge, which must be backed up by "specifications of objections" within six days, was made "on the recommendation of the State Democratic party" and was prepared by Melvin Schweitzer, chief counsel for the state committee, a party spokesman said.

McCarthy, who lost the Democratic nomination to Hubert Humphrey in 1968, had predicted he would get at least 5 per cent of the vote in November. Recent polls have shown Ford drawing to within 5 to 6 per cent of Carter in a two-way race.

careful about judging people's morality," Powell said.

"Carter was dealing with a larger issue of public morality in private life. He was saying 'Judge not lest you be judged,'" Powell said. "Jimmy recognizes everyone has faults and strengths."

Powell charged that the Republicans will "probably take the quote out of context" and use it against Carter in the campaign.

"Some (GOP) committeewoman somewhere will probably say anyone who says 'screw' should not be president," Powell said.

San Francisco has the cable car, New York has the double-deck bus and Detroit now has its trolley. As the conductor pulled the cord, "clang, clang went the bell" and Detroit went back into the trolley business after an absence of 20 years. It is also exactly 81 years ago that the Motor City started the first electric trolley service. The route is only nine blocks long from Grand Circus Park to Cobo Hall.

The two will meet again at a candidates night in Kingston October 19 and at several other such forums before the November election.

The local Democrat also expressed his opinion that political winds have been shifting in recent years and, despite the heavy concentration of registered Republicans in the seven county district, he felt that voters would not be "slate-ish in their election preferences."

Crown Jewels Go Begging

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The jewels that adorned a queen of Egypt flashed and sparkled in a federal courtroom and drew curious stares — but could not be auctioned for enough money to pay the debts of the once-royal commoners who put them on the block.

Fathia Ghali, former princess of Egypt and sister of the late King Farouk, looked on impassively Monday as a Bankruptcy Court judge tried to auction off the jewels of her mother — former Queen Nazli Fouad — to pay $310,000 in debts.

Although the family had valued them at $500,000, jewel dealers would not bid more than $180,000.

Judge James Moriarty and the attorney for businessmen holding the jewels as collateral rejected the offers as too low. The lenders can retain the jewels, or search for a purchaser who will pay more.

Mrs. Ghali, 45, wearing costume jewelry and rings, leaned forward tight-lipped when, aided by a woman television reporter who displayed them, the judge offered for sale a set of diamond and ruby necklace, pendant and earrings.

It drew a high bid of $140,000.

"Those are pigeon-blood rubies," she whispered. "My father chose them one by one for my mother. They are beautiful pieces and worth much more than that."

Her father was King Fouad I, who ruled Egypt from 1922 until he died in 1936.

A necklace of emeralds as big as pullet eggs set in platinum drew a bid of $50,000. By stages, bidding for the whole collection rose to $180,000 and went no higher.

"The rubies and diamonds were purchased by my father more than 40 years ago. They were never part of the crown jewels. They were just in the family."

The Egyptian crown jewels remained in Egypt when King Farouk was deposed by an Army officers revolt in 1952.

Farouk stripped the former princess and the queen mother of their titles and royal allowances in 1950 because the princess, then 19, insisted on marrying a Christian commoner, an Egyptian diplomat, and the queen gave her approval.

For awhile, they lived lavishly, in a 28-room Beverly Hills Mansion and a Hawaiian

Tax Votes, Tax Returns Issues in Debate

Maurice Hinchey

By CAZY DOWALIBY
Freeman staff

ELLENVILLE — Amid occasional catcalls, shouts, boos and hisses from the 160 or so spectators, the two candidates for the 101st Assembly district seat met head on last night in the first of a series of debates scheduled between now and election day. Neither man scored a clear victory.

The arguments presented to a standing-room-only crowd in the Christ Lutheran Church hall here echoed the basic campaign lines already presented by both incumbent Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey, D-101st Dist., and his opponent, local Republican businessman Maurice Rosenstock.

The major issue, as it has been throughout the campaign, was a difference of opinion about Hinchey's voting record on taxes.

Rosenstock charged, again, that the incumbent had voted for $1,880,000,000 in new taxes for the state during his first two years in office. Hinchey doesn't really deny it, but points out that several of the bills in question were never enacted.

The spectators booted and shouted periodically.

The spectators — many carrying Hinchey bags or sporting Rosenstock buttons — booed and shouted periodically during the two and a half hour debate, which skimmed over stock issues like aid to education, youth programs, developing business incentives in the state, tax reform and mass transportation.

The participants were limited to five minutes each in their answers to a time limit which, at alternate times, they indicated was not to their liking.

Apologizing for a laryngitis-stricken voice, Rosenstock, in his opening and closing remarks, called for a change in philosophy concerning the current tax system, bringing new jobs into the state and welfare reform.

Hinchey continued to hammer away at what has become the main theme of his re-election bid: his availability and effectiveness as an Assemblyman. He pointed to his work against Central Hudson rate increases and in favor of expanded area calling service for northern Ulster residents from N.Y. Telephone.

The Saugerties resident also called up images of his days as a labor union member and organizer and portrayed himself as a friend of the working man.

Asked whether or not he felt the evening had been a profitable one, Rosenstock remarked that he felt "generally

August Living Costs Up .5%

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The cost of living rose 0.5 per cent for the third straight month in August, reflecting higher prices for clothing, gasoline, fruits and vegetables, the Labor Department reported today.

The consumer price increase translates into an annual inflation rate of 6 per cent, larger than administration economists had expected. President Ford has projected an inflation rate of 5 per cent for 1976.

Combined with a slight decline in pay, the August price increase cut into the average worker's real spendable earnings by 0.3 per cent. Real earnings have declined 0.6 per cent over the past year.

Although food prices rose only a slight 0.1 per cent during August, the figures indicated consumers were not fully benefiting from recent declines in food prices on the wholesale market.

Service prices rose 0.6 per cent for the third consecutive month and the prices of goods other than food also climbed 0.6 per cent for the second straight month.

Administration economists were anticipating that lower food prices would bring some moderation in the nation's inflation rate prior to the Nov. 2 election. Most public opinion polls have identified inflation as the voters' No. 1 concern.

A decline in meat prices during August, however, failed to offset rising prices for fruits, vegetables, apparel, automobiles, gasoline, motor oil, fuel oil and coal.

The Consumer Price Index stood at 171.9 in August, an increase of 5.6 per cent over a year ago. This means that goods and services costing $100 in 1967, now sell for $171.9.

Inflation began to heat up last May after a virtual lull in the early months of the year. Consumer prices rose 0.6 per cent in May, followed by three consecutive monthly increases of 0.5 per cent.

Clothing and fuel prices accounted for most of the increase in non-food commodities. Gasoline and motor oil prices, which normally decline in August, instead rose 1.5 per cent. Fuel oil and coal prices were up 1.8 per cent.

Boys Are Arrested In Bogus $10 Bill Scheme

KINGSTON — A bogus bill operation, admittedly engineered by a 30-year-old Kingston man, using the services of three youths, 16 years of age and under, was uncovered Monday by Kingston City Detective Division.

Police said four bogus $10 bills were passed by the youths at the Sept. 11 bazaar and fireworks celebration held by St. Mary's Benevolent Association on North Street and deposited in Rondout National Bank. Two more of the bogus bills are still sought.

Bank officials discovered the altered bills to be of $1 denomination with the ends of a $10 bill taped on.

Arrested and charged with forgery in the first degree, eight counts, was Peter Perry, 30, of 263 East Union St., who was released on $1,000 bail.

Also, Vincent Palladino, 16, of 23 Avrayn St., charged with criminal possession of a forged instrument, four counts and Patrick Dempsey, 16, of 56 Sycamore St., arrested on the same charges as was an unnamed juvenile under 16 years of age. All were released in the custody of their parents.

The recent passing of similar bogus bills in the Town of Ulster prompted Ulster Police Chief Meyer Levy to join Lt. Det. Charles McCullough and Thomas Scarey in questioning Perry and the four youths Monday night. Levy reported the passing of similar bills at Caldor's, Wallace's and Big Scot recently.

Under interrogation, the four allegedly implicated each other in the city operation but not in the passing of bills in Ulster, Levy said.

Town of Ulster Police Officer James Freer, who is investigating the scheme in Ulster, explained that the person who passes the bogus bill makes his illicit profit by taking the center part of the original $10 bill to a bank for a new bill. Since he still has more than half of the original $10 bill, the bank will give him a trade-in.

Perry, Palladino and Dempsey are scheduled for reappearance in Kingston City Court, Sept. 25.

Democrats Pick Aaron Klein for Court Seat

KINGSTON — Democratic delegates from seven counties Monday chose Kingston attorney Aaron E. Klein as their candidate for the Third Judicial District Supreme Court seat being vacated by retiring Judge DeForest Pitt.

In a unanimous decision representatives from Ulster, Sullivan, Green, Albany, Rensselaer, Columbia, and Schoharie counties picked the 64-year-old City Judge to run in what may be a three-way race for the 14 year term.

Conservative and Republican party delegates meet later this week to name their candidates, and it appears that the political tide will continue to flow in Ulster county's direction when Republicans select their man.

The frontrunners in that race are assistant county attorney John Lynch, former City Judge Joseph Saccamone and John Shick, who today was named as the local Conservative party choice.

CONTROVERSY DIES

Harold VanAllen made his points on gambling, but his remarks were brief, and so was Monday night's hearing.

Few Object to Gambling

KINGSTON — A public hearing on a proposed local gaming law took only three minutes Monday night, and, as expected, Mayor Francis R. Koenig said he would send the measure on to city voters for a Nov. 2 referendum.

Koenig said he was "sort of surprised" that only four persons turned out, a sharp contrast to the strong and articulate opposition that off-track betting engendered over the years before it was finally approved in Ulster County only a few months ago.

The latest gambling measure would permit charitable organizations such as churches and social groups to run games of chance for fund raising purposes, and the only speaker at the mayor's public hearing identified himself as against the idea.

"What is life without beliefs and principles?" asked Harold VanAllen of Hurley Heights, a member of the First Baptist Church of Kingston. "Are our legislators, city councilmen and government officials big enough to look deeper under the surface of so-called easy money?"

VanAllen was publicity chairman for the Kingston Area Council of Churches in the recent drive against OTB. After OTB was approved by the Ulster County Legislature, a mass petition campaign to put the question to a general referendum failed to get the necessary percentage of voter signatures.

The proposed local law on games of chance for charitable purposes will be put on the Nov. 2 ballot for local ratification after Koenig signs the measure, probably today.

"It should be on the November ballot so that the people of Kingston can make the decision," the mayor said. Majority approval at the polls is required for ratification.

Permitted by state enabling legislation approved last year, the games of chance law essentially would legitimize the wheels of chance, dice tables and other fund raising games run for years at local charity bazaars and carnivals while benevolent officials looked the other way.

The measure was approved unanimously by the Kingston Common Council earlier this month, although one member was absent and at least two of those voting made the point that they weren't necessarily in favor of gambling, just of allowing the local citizenry to decide the issue at the polls.

Carter Told It All to 'Playboy'

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Jimmy Carter says his campaign for president won't be hurt by his earthy comments in Playboy magazine, where he said he has "looked at a lot of women with lust ... committed adultery in my heart ... this is something that God recognizes ... and God forgives ..."

"I don't think it will hurt me," Carter said Monday as his campaign train rolled toward Pittsburgh from New York City. At another point he was asked if he had used the term "screw" and he said: "I don't recall saying that."

"I haven't read the interview," Carter said. And then he said with a big grin, "I read the other parts first"—an apparent reference to the nude pictures featured in the magazine.

As Carter walked the length of the 13-car campaign train, he was asked time and time again about the interview, but didn't expand on his statement.

Carter's comments on sex came in a lengthy explanation of the Southern Baptist Church, his fervent religious upbringing and beliefs. At one point he said:

"I try not to commit a deliberate sin. I recognize I'm going to do it anyhow, because I'm human and I'm tempted. And Christ set some almost impossible standards for us. Christ said 'I tell you that anyone who looks on a woman with lust has in his heart already committed adultery.'"

"I've looked on a lot of women with lust. I've committed adultery in my heart many times. This is something that God recognizes I will do—and I have done it —and God forgives me for it. But that doesn't mean that I condemn someone who not only looks on a woman with lust, but who leaves his wife and shacks up with somebody out of wedlock.

"Christ says, don't consider yourself better than someone else because one guy screws a whole bunch of women while the other guy is loyal to his wife. The guy who is loyal to his wife ought not to be condescending or proud because of the relative degree of sinfulness."

A further explanation of Carter's statements was given later by his press secretary, Jody Powell.

"The point that he was trying to make was that he believed you ought to be very

Onteora Teachers March

WEST HURLEY — Members of the Onteora Teachers Association demonstrated outside the doors Monday night prior to the school board meeting in the West Hurley school, charging the board with dragging its feet in contract negotiations.

Talks began early this year on a new contract to replace the one that expired June 30. Both sides are now waiting for the report of a fact finder appointed by the Public Employment Relations Board.

"We are demonstrating to call attention to the fact that we do not have a contract and we are not happy about it," said OTA president Robert Barrette. "We want to educate the public on the true situation."

"As they (the board) became preoccupied with the budget, their only real concern seemed to be our money proposals," OTA said. "We wanted to discuss money last, not first."

Noting that the fact finder's report is overdue, OTA expressed hope that negotiations could resume when it is received. "Our good will is being strained by the lack of action," OTA official Ralph Weselmann told the board when the meeting began. "The teachers, through their good will, have worked without a contract above and beyond the call of duty."

"You have painted a situation with good guys and bad guys," board member John Spratt responded. "We are ready to negotiate at any time."

OTA negotiator Bernard Lapo said teachers refused to meet Saturday because negotiators were out of town and unavailable on short notice.

Survivor Recalls Drop From Bridge

DESCO (UPI)—"Nim" Lambert, a former Golden Gate Bridge construction worker, today recalled the scene's "freaky water" and "freaky" sky.

The Feb. 17, 1936, accident occurred nine months before completion of the bridge when scaffolding broke and crashed through a safety net. Ten of the men leaped into the safety net, but were crushed by the heavy timbers as they tumbled downward. Lambert and another worker were able to jump clear of the wood, but the other man died after they hit the water.

Months after the accident despite broken bones in the neck, shoulder and ribs.

Tie Vote Quashes Special School Bd. Election

By CARL GRAHAM
Freeman Staff

WEST HURLEY — The Ontario Board of Education, by the narrowest of margins, failed last night to set a special election to consider at-large voting for school board members.

With Board President Charles Weidner IV away on business, the board split 4-4 on the question and Sam Mercer's motion for a special election failed for lack of a majority.

In response to a petition earlier this year, the board tried to put the issue on the ballot at the annual district election but had to remove it because the required seven week legal notice in advance of the meeting had not been met. Mercer said the board was legally obligated to respond to the petition, but opponents argued that the matter was not urgent enough to warrant a special election at an estimated cost of $800 to $1,000.

Voting with Mercer were Donald Lawson, James Darrow and Beverly Britting. Opposed were John Spratt, Dexter Olsen, Edna Hoyt and Irene Motrie. Darrow suggested volunteer workers who signed the petition could serve as election clerks without cost to the district for a special election and several members said informational meetings should be held to acquaint voters with the facts.

The district now elects Board members to specific seats. A change would make all seats at-large throughout the district.

An 850-signature petition was given the board asking it to restore a driver education class that fell victim to budget cutting this year. A man in the audience said the board had violated its 1973 policy to give all graduating students a chance to take driver education. "Policies are guidelines, they are not law," Lawson responded. Dr. John Keough, district business manager, said restoring the class would involve one school health education. Mrs. Britting said the question could be added to the ballot for a special election on the at-large voting proposition. Lawson, who chaired the meeting in the West Hurley additional teacher salary that it was possible to finance it with an additional tax warrant. Thomas Kizis, the former driver education teachers, has already been re-assigned to teach junior high school in Weidner's absence, said the board would consider the matter and report back later.

The large crowd, which took an active part in almost every item on the agenda, was especially concerned with the question of field trips by bus. The question came up when the board was asked to approve transfer of $7,160 into the bus contract fund, a move Keough said was necessary because bus bids came in higher than anticipated this year.

Mrs. Britting first proposed to make field trips available at 1974-75 levels, but after a lengthy discussion involving several members of the audience, she amended it to call for field trip buses to have priority over spectator buses to athletic events and over additional late bus runs. The motion was approved 5-3, with Spratt, Olsen and Mrs. Hoyt opposed.

"This is a slap in the face of the administration," said Mrs. Hoyt after the vote was taken. Lawson noted that he had proposed a budget that would have included a full complement of field trips.

The board, again after a lengthy discussion with the audience, voted to raise the price of milk in the school cafeteria whenever the purchase price goes up, to do the same with the price of adult lunches when costs exceed State Education Department guidelines, and to raise the price of ice cream products to 20 cents, effective Oct. 4. Keough said the move would wipe out a cafeteria budget deficit incurred during the past two school years.

The board heard the first reading of a policy change that would have the district charge tuition to postgraduate students attending BOCES classes who have dishonorable discharges from the armed services. The district was required to pay such costs in the past, but a new law gives them the option to charge tuition in such case. Veterans with other than dishonorable discharges are excepted from the tuition charge.

Ford-UAW Talks Fail to Solve Differences on the Key Issue

DETROIT (UPI) — The first bargaining session in the week-old strike by 170,000 workers against the Ford Motor Co. produced no sign that the key issue — less time on the job — is any closer to being solved.

The negotiating session Monday lasted less than two hours and spokesman refused to talk about it in anything other than general terms.

It was the first time the full bargaining committees had met since before the strike began at 11:59 p.m. last Tuesday.

"The first session was really one of re-establishing contacts," a union spokesman said. "The bargainers discussed a number of issues and then broke off to hold internal meetings."

One source close to the bargaining table said Ford and the UAW were still far apart on the working time issue, though they had discussed it in top-level private sessions several times since the strike began. Neither UAW President Leonard Woodcock nor Ford Labor Vice President Sidney McKenna met with newsmen following Monday's session.

Another "main table" meeting at Ford World Headquarters in suburban Dearborn was planned for today, a spokesman said.

With the strike in its seventh day there was more worry voiced about the possible economic impact if it lasts more than the three or four weeks most observers say is the minimum length.

The rippling effects of a shutdown of Ford's 102 plants in 22 states was being felt both inside and outside the auto industry.

Ford has already idled 1,600 Canadian workers, who are not on strike, and probably will lay off the remainder of the 14,000 Ford of Canada workers by the weekend.

Caterpillar Corp. in Peoria, Ill. has idled 160 workers who build diesel engines for Ford; Bendix Corp. has warned that upwards of 4,000 workers face layoff if the strike drags on; Budd Co. said it is considering layoffs; and thousands more of Ford's 25,000 supplier firm's may soon begin cutbacks.

Other industries already feeling the pinch are railroads and trucking companies, particularly in Michigan and Ohio where Ford plants are concentrated; steel companies; and food and vending service firms that supply Ford plants.

The effects during the first week were minimal, and most economists agree there would be no economic disruptions if the walkout lasts less than one month.

Ford's Tab Picked Up When Congressman

Lobbyist Tells of Golf Trips

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Steel's chief lobbyist said today his firm paid "room and board" for at least two visits by President Ford to the company's country club lodge in New Jersey when Ford was a congressman.

On three previous occasions, U.S. Steel's Washington-based vice president, William Whyte, told UPI he had personally taken care of all expenses incurred by Ford on golfing trips to the lodge between 1964 and 1971.

In a telephone interview today, Whyte said he had refreshed his memory and now recalled that U.S. Steel picked up the tab for Ford at the Pine Valley Golf Club near Clemen-ton, N.J. "I picked up caddy fees on the greens and things like that," Whyte said.

Whyte also confirmed a report that U.S. Steel has a complete listing of guests who have stayed at the lodge since 1969. Those records, he said, are kept in a limestone mine in Annandale, Pa.

Whyte said Ford had not vacationed at the lodge since he left Congress and that U.S. Steel no longer uses it for VIP purposes. Ford was nominated by Richard Nixon to be Vice President, succeeding Spiro T. Agnew, in October, 1973, and became President when Nixon resigned Aug. 9, 1974.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen, asked for a response to Whyte's remarks, quoted Ford as saying: "I've been a friend of Bill Whyte for 23 years. I've been there twice as his friend to play golf."

Nessen said Ford recalled playing there in 1964 and about five years ago.

"He feels Bill Whyte is a personal friend who asked him to go up and play golf," Nessen said, noting also that Ford and Whyte are frequent golf partners at the Burning Tree Country Club in suburban Maryland.

Whyte said Ford's first visit to the lodge was in the fall of 1964. At that time, there was no law or congressional rule against a member of Congress accepting gifts or favors from lobbyists.

In 1968, the House adopted a code of ethics stating that "a member, officer or employee of the House of Representatives shall accept no gift of substantial value, directly or indirectly, from any person organization or corporation having a direct interest in legislation before the Congress."

The Internal Revenue Service said it is not against the law for a congressman to accept a gift, but that the giver must file an income tax report for gifts of substantial value.

"If there is any problem, it would be with the tax return of the giver," an IRS spokesman said.

Nothing Routine In This Selection

WEST HURLEY — A teacher appointment, normally a routine matter for a school board, was anything but that at Monday night's meeting of the Ontario Board of Education.

A motion to appoint Janice Browning as a junior high school remedial math teacher for one semester was called a "stopgap measure" by board member Sam Mercer.

Asked from the audience why she was only being appointed for one semester, Donald Lawson, board vice president, said federal funding for the remedial program comes in two parts and only one has been received.

A man in the audience commented: "I've been going to board meetings for years and I never heard of a teacher being appointed for only one semester."

"Under the circumstances, better half a teacher than none at all," Mercer said, joining the rest of the board in a unanimous appointment of Mrs. Browning. Dr. Frank Marlow, superintendent of schools, said enrollment at the opening of school was 3,478, up 15 from last year.

Ellenville Man on Trial Again

KINGSTON — Exactly a year after an Ulster County jury failed to reach a verdict in the drug trial of Corey Bell, 21, of Ellenville, Bell is going on trial once again, facing a one year to life sentence, if convicted.

Bell was one of five Ellenville residents indicted on felony drug sale charges following 1975 drug raids which cut into about 50 per cent of the hard drug traffic in that area, police said.

Bell was indicted for third degree sale and possession of a controlled substance. The arrests were made by an undercover agent following the alleged sale and eventual confiscation of 50 decks of heroin, 40 'hits' of cocaine and a quantity of marijuana.

Jury selection in Bell's new trial began Monday with Assistant District Attorney Robert Francello as prosecutor and Barry Lippman representing Bell. County Judge Raymond J. Mino is presiding.

Property Recovered

About $800 worth of stolen property was recovered in Ellenville Monday with the arrest of four juveniles.

The village youths ranged in age from 11 to 15 and reportedly had hidden the stolen goods in their own homes.

The arrests by Officers Norman Greene and Peter Williams followed an investigation into a burglary Sept. 18 at the residence of Alan Tresser at 67 Church St. between 7 p.m. and midnight.

Taken in the Tresser burglary was a tape player, clock, record player, records and about $40 in change.

The property owner said he remembered seeing juveniles in the area around his house earlier in the day.

The youths were brought in for questioning and petitioned to Family Court. Tresser's possessions were recovered.

Truck Accident

A Saugerties man was injured at 6 p.m. Monday when the rented truck he was driving on Chapel Hill Road in Lloyd, skidded and hit a tree.

Buckley Loses Jake, Gains Abe

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sen. James L. Buckley, R-N.Y., has lost the support of Republican Sen. Jacob Javits, but he has gained the backing of defeated Democrat Abraham Hirschfeld.

At a news conference Monday, Javits said he would not campaign for Buckley's reelection. He left it an "open question" whether he would vote for him in preference to Democratic challenger Daniel Patrick Moynihan.

Javits, who did not have Buckley's support when he won his third term in 1974, cited Buckley's ties to the Conservative party which, he said, is being used as a "stick" to force the GOP into right-wing positions.

New York's senior senator said he informed Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller and GOP State Chairman Richard Rosenbaum of his decision — and added that there no efforts were made to dissuade him.

Asked about Javits' non-support, Buckley said, "I respect his decision," but added, "I would like to think these things are not built in concrete."

A state GOP spokesman said Javits' move would not hurt Buckley and might help him. "Any pragmatic politician looks for all the endorsements he can get..." the spokesman said. "But frankly, he just doesn't want Javits' backing because it could heat up some of his Conservative friends."

Buckley was elected to the Senate as a Conservative, but he usually votes with the Republicans in the upper house.

The loss of Javits' support was counterbalanced in some degree by the endorsement of Hirschfeld, former Democratic state treasurer and one of four contenders who lost the Democratic Senate primary to Moynihan.

Hirschfeld delivered his statement of support for the Republican-Conservative Buckley in the lobby of the Robert F. Kennedy School, in front of a mural of the late New York senator.

Saugerties Increases the Police Foot Patrol

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA (Freeman Staff)

SAUGERTIES — It took the Saugerties Village Board less than a week to respond to complaints by local residents and businessmen that loitering, trespassing and disorderly conduct were becoming major problems on Main Street. Mayor James Gage verified at Monday night's board meeting that foot patrol on the street has been increased. Constant patrol by two policemen will be maintained whenever practical, he said.

"Things are looking up a little bit," said Gage, "and many people think it will make a difference."

Trustee Robert Lehmann applauded the action. "Our most serious problem is the kids on that street between sunset and 11 o'clock," he said. "Our citizens have the right to walk up that street without that continuous problem of kids congregating and misbehaving."

Businessmen last week had also complained that some shop owners were contributing to the unattractiveness of the village by violating the sign ordinance. Enforcement officer Michael Schovel said, however, that he had found only four signs in violation. Trustee Joan Feldmann was skeptical. "There must be at least a dozen," she said, "and others that are in compliance did not get the required permits."

Feldmann will work with Schovel on a more accurate list of violations, including signs left hanging by businesses that have moved. Schovel will then issue violation notices, advising that signs must be removed, and applications filed for a permit within 10 days. Those who fail to comply face a $50 fine and can also be deemed "a disorderly person."

An argument between board members and representatives of the C. A. Lynch Fire Company Truck Committee ended on a conciliatory note after a full hour of bitter debate. Disagreement centered on the acceptance of bids for repainting the fire truck.

Trustee Charles Steele, who serves as fire commissioner, and the Lynch committee recommended accepting the high bid of $3,900 from Amthor Welding Service of Walden. Gage, Lehmann, and trustees Erika Hinchey and George Turner felt compelled to honor the low bid of $2,980.90 from Dynamic Auto Body Shop of Saugerties.

Gage faulted firemen for "not writing the specifications tight enough." He pointed out that both firms were bidding "on the exact same thing," but that one bid was 50 per cent higher than the other. "We are spending taxpayers' money," he said. "Both bids are on the same specifications, with no difference, but there's a big difference in money."

The men from Lynch were adamant, insisting the high bidder would do a superior job well worth the money. Asked one driver of Gage, "Would you buy a steak for 59 cents you can't eat, or one for $1.09 you could eat?" Said Gage, "I'd buy the highest priced one, but it would be my money and not the town's."

The firemen argued in vain that the high bidder could be counted on to dismantle and sandblast the truck, and apply seven coats of paint and gold lettering. The low bidder had advised them previously, they said, that he wouldn't touch the glass, or welding, or gold paint. Gage insisted both bids met all specifications, and all work would have to be done as called for by either bidder before receipt of payment.

"Our budget is already down to skin and bones," one fireman insisted. "You want to run a fire department or a honky tonk railroad?" he demanded, walking out of the meeting with another fireman at his heels.

Part of the argument had centered on the uncertainty of whether, once the truck's body, chassis, and fire body had been dismantled and removed, the possibility of a rust condition would lead to the necessity for more repairs and new specifications at higher cost figures by the bidders. The board voted to table the bids, and instructed the men of C. A. Lynch to take the truck apart and assure themselves of exactly what has to be done underneath. Whether rust is discovered will determine any new specifications or final action on the bids. In other action, the board agreed to investigate the necessity for insurance on the Grist Mill Restoration Project in Seamon Park. The mill is progressing rapidly and will eventually be turned over to the village. Its value, when completed, is expected to be between $80,000 and $100,000. The board will also discuss the possibility of an alarm system for theft proofing the mill.

The feasibility of leasing village police cars instead of buying patrol vehicles will be considered by the board, in the knowledge that some large businesses lease security cars as one way of locking their cost into their budget.

Trustees also are working to resolve the problem of a water break on Main Street, and a sewer backup problem in the village municipal building. The Village Youth Committee is working with the Ulster County Youth Bureau on new youth programs, as opposed to continuing programs, that would entitle Saugerties to available funding on a matching basis.

The board awarded a contract for a utility pickup truck for the water department to Berzal Chevrolet of Saugerties. The Berzal bid was $5,460 for a 1977, three-quarter-ton truck. In other business, the board set Oct. 18 at 8 p.m. as the date for a public hearing to amend the local ordinance regulating parking in the municipal parking lot.

No action was taken on a request by Cafaldo Park residents that the Glasco Water District be extended to include their area. Thirty families there had requested the extension, but Gage said the matter would have to be discussed further between representatives of the village and town boards. Another discussion meeting planned shortly will involve the Business Association and the planning board. The association has formed a committee to improve the business district and wants to present those ideas to the planners.

Still another joint meeting will involve the town and village boards and the Saugerties Ambulance Service. Ambulance owners, noting that inflation has taken its toll of their small business, and that they have doubled their rates over the past decade and expanded service to other areas, making their availability to Saugerties sometimes limited, said they have service ideas to suggest.

Said Gage, agreeing that the matter required a meeting. "They obviously want some assistance...probably financial."

Ore-Ida introduces french fries so crisp, they snap.

If you want french fries that are extra crisp, try new Ore-Ida Crispers. Regular french fries merely bend. But new Ore-Ida Crispers are so crisp, you can actually snap them. That's because they're specially made for oven heating. They have little ridges that lift them off your cooking sheet and let the heat circulate around them evenly. So you get french fries that are probably crispier than any others you've eaten. New Ore-Ida Crispers! Snap 'em up.

Praise For FBI Statement

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y. (UPI) — Limousine operator Dominic Byrne praised the quality of a statement FBI agents prepared for his signature saying he was involved in the kidnapping of whiskey heir Samuel Bronfman II, an agent said Monday.

"He said he couldn't have said it better himself," Special Agent Myron Fuller testified in State Supreme Court.

Byrne wants the statement withheld from evidence at his coming trial with co-defendant Mel Patrick Lynch on charges of kidnapping Bronfman last year from his mother's home in Purchase.

Fuller said Byrne was cooperative during most of the 15 hours of questioning he underwent after leading FBI men and police to Lynch's Brooklyn apartment, where Bronfman was allegedly held as a hostage for $2.3 million in ransom.

Bronfman, son of Seagram Chairman Edgar Bronfman, was found bound and blindfolded but unhurt at 4 a.m. Sunday, Aug. 17, 1975, after nine days of captivity.

Another agent said he watched as Byrne, with shaking hands and watery eyes, "made the sign of the cross" before calling his wife from the FBI's New York Office at 5 p.m. that Sunday.

"Why did I let them talk me into it? I should have gone to Ireland," Agent Thomas McShane quoted Byrne as telling his wife, Elizabeth, on the phone.

"I asked him what he meant by 'them' and he said, 'Mel and me,'" McShane said.

The two defendants have claimed that Bronfman was involved in his own kidnapping. Fuller told defense counsel Peter DeBlasio that he asked Byrne during the questioning about his "social hangouts" and that Byrne told him he went to "Clancey's Bar on Third Avenue and 38th Street and Uncle Charley's gay bar" a block away.

The lawyer asked the agent, "Did you ask him if Samuel Bronfman was gay?" Fuller replied, "No, we didn't ask him that."

Fuller said Byrne told him he did not know Samuel Bronfman before the kidnapping.

DeBlasio has established that he telephoned the FBI building while Byrne was being questioned by Assistant U.S. Attorneys Lawrence Pedowitz and Gerald Feffer.

Loser Who Talks Like a Winner

By MARIAN CHRISTY
WASHINGTON — Sen. Frank Church's fleshy face is grinning broadly as he offers a cigar. "You don't want it?" he smiles as the offer is declined. "Well, in these days of liberation you just don't know. If I didn't make the offer, I'd be accused of chauvinism."

The spunky Idaho Democrat, whose tardy presidential campaign failed and who was bypassed by Jimmy Carter as a running mate, isn't acting like a loser.

Seated in his Senate office, his feet propped up on a coffee table, the shirt-sleeved Church lights up and reminisces pleasantly about recent political events.

About the race for the presidency:

"I really didn't expect to win. I didn't know if the chance to throw my hat in the ring would ever occur again. I took my chances. I am not disappointed at the results."

About the vice presidency:

"I'm very independent. The vice president must play a purely supportive role. It would have been difficult for me to make the adjustment. In my heart of hearts, I never expected to be chosen. I reconciled myself to that likelihood."

Church, who is much handsomer than his photographs indicate, headed investigations into the CIA to determine if American officials had, as some alleged, authorized assassination attempts against foreign leaders. The fact that he chaired the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence Operations cost him dearly, he says.

"I've got enemies in high

Sen. Frank Church... "I'm a loner."

places." His tone of voice as he says that suggests pride rather than regret.

"I was on a committee that exposed corruption and wrongdoing. There are certain powerful board and conference rooms where I am friendly. I have played inquisitor and inquisitors become critics. Do you know any wildly popular critics?"

He talks at length about going against the grain of popular belief, about the self-satisfaction in not sidestepping "sensitive" areas.

"When I was 12 years old," says the 52-year-old Church, "I had a tremendous interest in Republican Sen. William Borah. He was the only senator of either party who had courageously advocated the establishment of diplomatic relations between the United States and the Soviet Union. It was an idea that met with sharp resistance.

"I admired Borah. I watched him. I listened to him. And I loved the staunchness of his independence. Then, one day, a popular governor ran against Borah and he made the Russian issue THE issue. But Borah stuck to his guns, spent little on his campaign. Borah won. I have never forgotten the fact that Borah bucked the tide and won."

erator, often argued politics. "He hated Roosevelt. I loved Roosevelt. We had some hot debates. Our differences weren't aired with rancor. When I converted to the Democratic party, my dad accepted the decision. But he was puzzled by it."

Church was operated on for cancer when he was 25 and had, as a student at Harvard Law School, what he calls "a terrible brush with death." The experience left him with a sense of adventure and a fatalistic optimism.

"I'm not really all that cautious," he says. "I do things today because who knows about tomorrow? I'm alive, and I take chances."

Detractors say that Church, a graduate of Stanford Law School and political "boy wonder" who became the youngest senator in 1956 at age 32, has never fitted into the Washington scene.

"I'm a loner," he admits. "I've never been part of the Washington Establishment."

Church believes that 1976 will go down in history as the year the non-Washington personality conquered Washington. He talks about the trauma of Watergate, recent sex scandals, the arrogance of big government, corruption in high places. Most Americans look at the federal bureaucracy as remote and faceless, he says.

"The time is ripe for the non-Washington politician to emerge into power in Washington," he says. "This is definitely the year of the outsider."

Church's wife, Bethine, daughter of Idaho governor, Chase Clark, is consistently at his side and is often referred to as "the other senator."

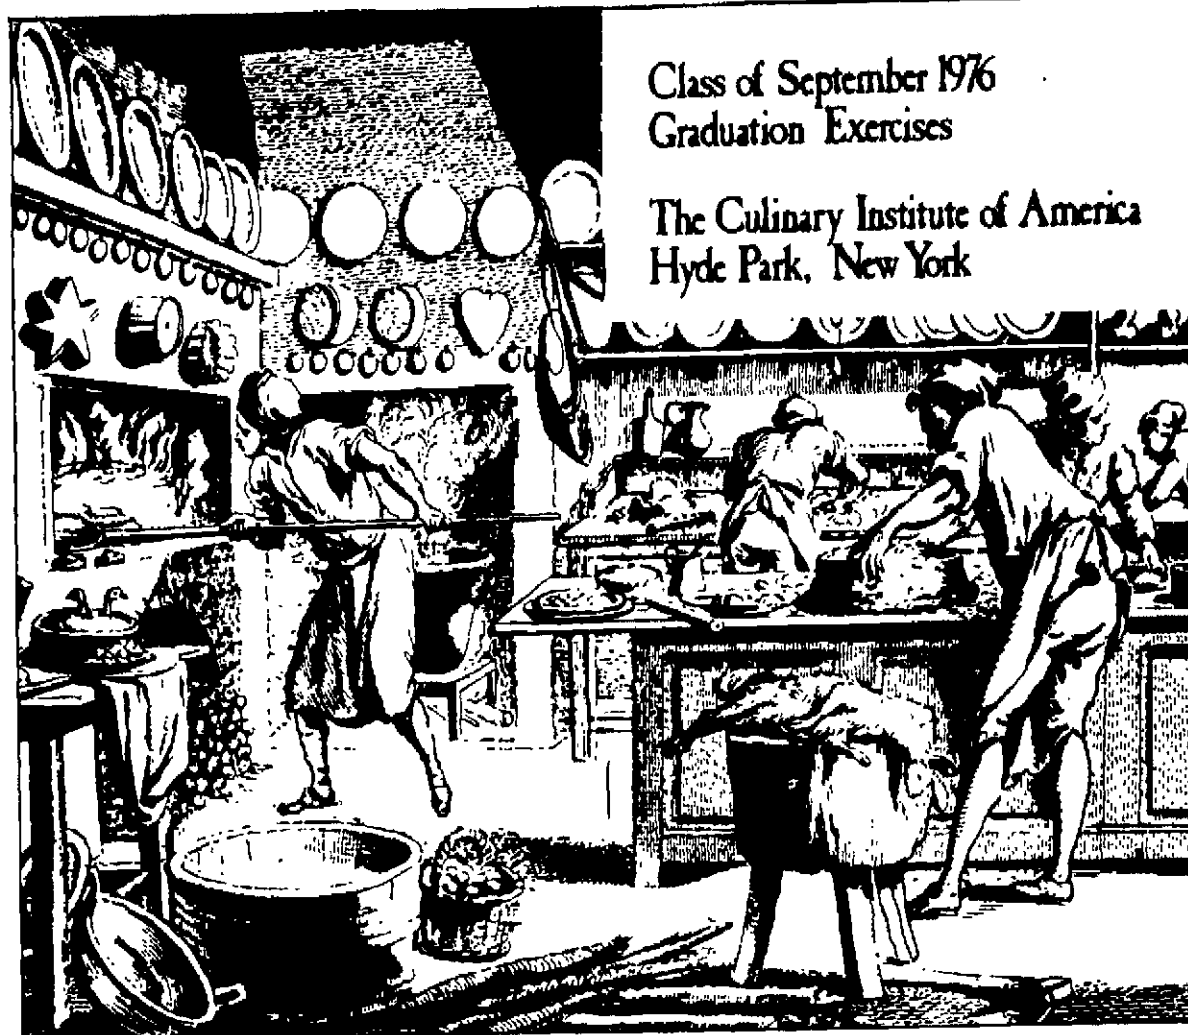

"We work as a team," says Church about the mother of his two sons, Forest, 26, and Chase, 19. "My wife is not at all interested in carving out a separate career—so we share mine. She is a full partner."

Washingtonians say that the Churchs, who have been married 26 years, are among the capital's happiest couples. On the success of the marriage: "We never put anything else above our marriage," he says. "Nothing is allowed to intrude. Marriage is our first priority. But I consider myself a lucky man. Many wives of politicians aren't interested in politics. This creates problems. I've been spared all of that."

Church sees a parallel in his own 20-year senatorial career.

In 1956, when he came out against the war in Vietnam, he says, a Los Angeles-based cosmetic millionaire who deeply resented Church's dove-like stance distributed anti-Church literature in Idaho. "The attack on me was scurrilous," he says. "I was blackballed. There were petitions to be signed. Of 350,000 eligible voters, only 165 signatures were garnered. Not only did my constituency resist the onslaught — they elected me again. It was then that I felt like my hero."

Julia Child, TV's Witty 'French Chef,' Claims Chef's Career Is Never 'Boring'

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA
Freeman staff

HYDE PARK — It rained, and it rained hard, on the immense, green-and-blue tent under which the 175 men and women of the Class of September 1976 graduated from The Culinary Institute of America on Friday afternoon. But the driving rain failed to dampen the celebratory spirits of the graduates, or the encouraging words of Julia Child, television's witty "French Chef," who gave the commencement address.

Ms. Child, who recently assisted in preparing a steak dinner at the White House for Queen Elizabeth, told the graduates, who will enter all areas of the food service industry, "You have chosen to follow an absolutely marvelous profession—one that is stimulating, creative, and endlessly rewarding."

A chef's career, she said, "can be glamorous and lucrative."

And it is work, she insisted, that is never "boring." Said the woman who is credited with attracting nationwide interest in fine cooking, "There is hardly a day that goes by that I haven't learned something new in the culinary arts. You're never through learning new ways with old ingredients. There are always new products and new machines to experiment with. How can one ever become bored or tired of cooking, when there are over 1,000 ways to do eggs, and over 200 ways to do potatoes?"

Ms. Child called the Institute, a fully-accredited vocational facility on a 75-acre campus overlooking the Hudson River, "tremendously impressive." The school, she said, has taught its 8,000 graduates the need for quality in the public food business. "You cannot beat good quality," she said. "You have tasted quality here, and know how to achieve it. And you have learned what gastronomy is all about. It is about people who love good food and the good life."

The master of French cooking arts, who has taught millions of TV viewers her secrets, had a word of advice for graduates of the Institute, who will find employment with independent restaurants, chains, catering firms, inns, lodges, hotels, bakeries, and large corporations. "Pick the best chef you can find to work under," she urged. "The European apprentice system of working under somebody is the best way to learn, after you have the fundamentals. Copy them and then establish your own style and confidence."

Ms. Child, who is also a well-known cookbook authoress, singled out the women graduates of the class for special words of praise. Her love of French cooking, she said, did not allow her to ignore the fact that the great French chefs "allow women in the bedroom, but not a step into the kitchen." She observed that, "There wasn't a woman to be seen anywhere the last time I visited here." She was happy to see, she said, that women "have made new inroads in the culinary profession."

(While women were very much outnumbered in the Institute's 1976 graduating class, they shared many of the top awards, among them: those for highest scholarship, outstanding grades, excellence in operational procedure, and the table service award.)

While student awards and presentation of degrees ranked high on the program, the biggest ovation of the day went to Joseph Baum, who had been singled out to receive the Institute's Master of the Aesthetics of Gastronomy award. Baum is the creator of the outstanding food facilities at the World Trade Center in New York City, including "Windows on the World," the spectacular and highly praised gourmet restaurant on the 107th floor of the world's tallest building.

Ms. Child called Baum "a genius," and said, "Any restaurant of his is the best of its class."

The commencement was marked with little of the pomp and ceremony of most graduations. The traditional gowns and tasseled mortarboards were missing, and graduates accepted their degrees in sportswear, white chef's pants and jackets. Cheers, laughter, and a triple standing ovation followed the Address of Welcome by graduating student Richard Reynolds, chief justice of the judiciary board and a resident of Stamford, Conn. Reynolds thanked "the fathers, mothers, sisters, brothers, husbands, wives, girlfriends, boyfriends, and 'lovers,' who stood behind us and encouraged us when we needed it, and 'brought us up when we were down.'"

The reaction to his words caused one faculty member to note, "We called them 'sweethearts,' not 'lovers,' in my day."

Even the reception that followed the graduation was unusual. Class members and guests by the hundreds filed through the Institute's kitchens on a tasting tour.

Later, in the school's board room which had been temporarily converted into a VIP dining area, Ms. Child told The Freeman that, after more than 200 "French Chef" shows on television, she wants to turn to American cooking on the home screen.

She'd prefer to do only an occasional special, she said (like one coming up on which she'll cook a meal for James Beard, who's on a diet).

But, for the most part, she wants to "get back to personal teaching and to working with well-motivated students."

And she has a strong, personal desire to encourage and teach young, deaf people to seek careers in the food industry. "The deaf are really cut off from so much of the world," she said, "but not from this profession. You don't need to hear the chicken roasting, as long as you can see it."

She had few kind words for the hotel food she has eaten all too often on her many travels. "Much public food is absolutely shocking," she groaned. "The salad always sounds lovely as described on the menu, but it's ghastly. The vegetables are limp, and there's always that awful potato baked in foil. Why can't they bake them naked in their own skin?"

Still, she'd had some "extremely good meals on rare occasions," she said, and insisted that, "Excellent food can be cooked for large amounts of people." The Waldorf-Astoria chefs are expert at cooking for a banquet for a thousand people, she said, and the White House chef does an excellent job of serving several hundred diners from what is "a very, very small kitchen."

She even had a kind word for McDonald's. "Very good fried potatoes, and very good quality of meat. But, large or small, if you don't have quality, you won't last long...and I won't eat in your restaurant."

Over a glass of wine and a plate of rare roast beef, Boursin sauce, and anything-but-limp green beans (prepared by graduating seniors), the man who created Windows on the World agreed. Said Baum, whose 30 years in the business has made him one of the most admired men in the profession, "Restaurants are theatre, product, and experience that express service."

Would a skyhigh restaurant succeed in the Hudson Valley or the Catskills? "Why not, but then why do it?" queried Baum. "A restaurant should be a natural expression of the landscape, and of all its beauty and goodness. The fact that this valley and its mountains give pleasure is the area's own aesthetic. This is what's natural, and what always has been for a York Stater."

"A restaurant here doesn't need a theme. It needs only to be natural, to use the products of the area, and to offer good cooking. What could be more worthy of the natural aesthetic of the area than the truth that exists here?"

For Baum, "Everything is really a World Trade Center, and good cooking from everywhere is responsible for the sweet taste of success in any restaurant."

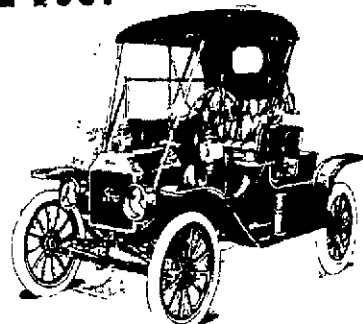

Well, then, where does he dine when he comes north from Manhattan to his country home in North Salem? Where does the man who created the restaurant, where the world's richest and most famous have to wait two months for a reservation, take his own family to eat?

"It's midwinter time now at Windows on the World," he said, "and I find it difficult to spend as much time as I'd like at my house in the Catskills. But when the child grows, I'll be spending much, much more time here."

But where does he eat when he does come? Where does the man who oversees the feeding of the people who inhabit 16 acres of New York City real estate, with a density population of 2 million people per square mile, feed himself, when he's not dining on the 107th floor of the World Trade Center?

Pressed for an answer, he capitulated. In Ulster County, for him, he said, the restaurant of restaurants is Rudi's Country Kitchen, that haven of natural aesthetic and good food from everywhere in the hills at Big Indian.

Mrs. Willford Robinson, regent of Wiltwyck Chapter, DAR, accepts historical items from Fred J. Johnston.

Local Authority on Antiques Presents DAR with Valuable Historical Items

Wiltwyck Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution was the recipient of two valuable and historical items last week when Fred J. Johnston, authority on early American furniture and paintings of 63 Main St., presented the local chapter with a John Vanderlyn engraved portrait and a Federal mirror, circa 1790 to 1800, which belonged to Robert Fulton, inventor of the steamboat.

The engraved portrait, by Vanderlyn, circa 1830, is one of three known in existence today according to Johnston. The subject of the picture, the Rev. John Gosman was installed as pastor of the Old Dutch Church in 1808. The famous artist left it to his nephew, John Vanderlyn, a minor painter; and it descended to Kate Vanderlyn; thence to Judge Schoonmaker, attorney for the Kate Vanderlyn estate, and to his daughter, Mrs. Lawton who lived on the corner of John and Crown Streets. It had been on loan exhibition at the Senate House for the past 16 years.

The Federal mirror, originally hung at Robert Fulton's home, "Teviotdale" at Linlithgow, Columbia County, and was acquired from an early Saugerties collector.

Both items were from Johnston's private collection. The gesture is part of an on-going plan to place important local objects in the care of those who will keep these pieces in the Kingston area. "I've been impressed with what the DAR has done over a period of years," Johnston explained, "and I want these placed so they will stay in Kingston."

Johnston in the past has presented original Vanderlyn drawings, furniture and patent models of the ice industry to the Senate House; an original Vanderlyn drawing to Vanderlyn

Hall at Ulster County Community College; and last year he gave a rare family Bible to the New Paltz Huguenot Historical Society. The Bible contained the genealogy of the Bruyn Family.

Having a sense of pride and sentiment for Kingston and the Stockade area, Johnston was probably the instigator in preserving much of the uptown area. He sees the creating of parking areas by the various banks as putting the area back into an open-space perspective that might have been here 200 years ago before all of the building of the 19th Century.

As a matter of fact preservation started early in his life when as a young man of 20, starting in business at 42 Main St., he became aware that his present home, corner of Main and Wall Streets, was to be sold and demolished for a gas station. So disturbed by the possibility of Kingston losing the fine Federal type house, he inquired from business people and was told that the only sure way to save the house was to buy it himself. This he did and built his business from there.

He enjoys discussing the historical background of the Stockade area and tries to visualize his block 200 years ago, teaming with people as plans were made to form the state government. "In April 1777, the new governor was inaugurated, everyone felt safe, but within six months, in October 1777, the entire town was burned."

Johnston was founder and chairman of the Landmarks Commission in the city for a number of years. He is on the board of trustees at the Senate House and was head of the beautification commission which was responsible for the planting of the young trees in the city.

Veteran River Man W.O. Benson Will Pilot Yankee on its Hudson River Excursion

SLEIGHTSBURG—When the 150-foot excursion vessel M.V. Yankee plows up the Hudson River Oct. 9, veteran river man William O. Benson of Sleightsburg will be piloting the craft.

It will be the first New York to Albany and return cruise of a passenger ship since 1962, and previously since Dayliner service terminated in 1948.

Benson told the Freeman that he was asked to pilot the three-deck Yankee in connection with his association with the Steamship Historical Society of America, the organization sponsoring this cruise. Retired three years after spending 40 years on the Hudson, Benson said he has not piloted this craft but "I still have my license in effect."

Although the Yankee will dwarf other passenger ships in the river, it is not large by former excursion boat standards on the Hudson, said

Benson. "The big day boats were 300 to 400 feet long," he claimed.

Benson's father was a ship's carpenter on the famous Mary Powell, known as the "Queen of the Hudson River," and he followed the currents himself as captain of the Peter Callanan and, following the economic depression of the 1930s, on numerous towboats that hauled the freight.

The excursion ship Yankee began its career in 1907 as a steamer off the coast of Maine, working further south off Boston for several years and in New York harbor between stints in both world wars. The steam engine was replaced by a diesel in 1948, and she has served off Block Island, R.I.

The trip is billed as a profit making venture with a portion of the proceeds to benefit the Steamer NOBSKA society to form the first operating steamship museum in this country.

DEAR ABBY

Don't Punish the Children for The Sins of Their Mother

DEAR ABBY: I was recently granted a divorce after being married for 30 years. I had a lot of suspicions about my wife, but I had only a second grade education and was pretty dumb then. I didn't begin to add things up until after she had two children who couldn't possibly have been mine. Even so, I was always a good father to them, and they never had any idea they were illegitimate.

My question: I'm making out my will and have brothers and sisters who could sure use some money. I own my own home plus some stocks and savings, and I don't see why I should leave anything to my illegitimate children, do you? Who should be punished?—A PROBLEM OUT EAST children born during your marriage are legally your children. You say you've been a "good father," and I believe you. But how can you write off all the years during which they grew up loving you and being loved in return?

To leave them nothing would be punishing them for the "sins" of their mother. Unfair. Please reconsider.

DEAR ABBY: I graduated from high school last June and received some very nice gifts from friends and relatives.

Since I've had a very busy summer and hate to write letters, I decided to telephone all those who sent me gifts to thank them personally. I even called long-distance to thank those who live out of town, and I intend to pay for the calls myself.

My parents aren't satisfied. They think a written thank-you note is necessary. I think a telephone call is enough. What do you think?—PHONED MY THANKS

DEAR PHONED: Phoning one's thanks strikes me as the lazy man's way. It's adequate; but those who do it right write!

DEAR ABBY: I received an invitation to a golden wedding anniversary party. I am only an acquaintance, not a dear friend or relative, but I was told by a relative of the celebrating couple to bring money rather than a gift because the golden wedding couple are having a money tree. With the money collected, they plan to take a cruise.

I asked how much I would be expected to contribute and was told, "At least a dollar for every year the couple have been married."

Abby, that's a minimum of $50—as much as I gave my own niece for a wedding present!

What do you think?—PASADENA READER

DEAR PASADENA: I think you should give whatever you feel is appropriate and no more.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif 90068. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please

Winners Announced In Hillside Acres Flower Show

KINGSTON—Hillside Acres Garden Club held its first Standard Flower Show last week at the Colonade Restaurant. With the theme, "American Parade," the club planned six sections in the artistic division and six in the horticultural division. General chairman was Mrs. John Vozdik.

Judges were Mrs. Everett Bennet, Mrs. H. Henry Staley and Mrs. Edward H. Bergles.

The horticultural division was entitled "Promise for the Future." First place winners were Mrs. Frank Delaney, two single petunia and potted plants; Mrs. Richard Petro, two, for marigolds, Mrs. John Vozdik, two, zinnia and Peace rose; Mrs. Alfred Ford, two, annuals and hybrid tea rose.

Mrs. William Stevens, two, herbaceous perennial and biennial and bulbous flower gladiolus; Mrs. George Antonietta, chrysanthemum, Beth Kuba, two, biennial and climber rose; Mrs. Bruce Davis, bulbous flower; Mrs. Roland Pampel, tuberous begonia and also horticultural excellence, Mary Berk, floribunda rose; Mrs. Jesus Floresca, potted plants grown for foliage, Mrs. Theodore Dietz, potted plant; Estelle Wisneski, hanging plants grown for bloom.

In the Artistic Design classes Mrs. Frank Race took three firsts; and firsts were won by Mrs. Joseph Qualtere, Jean Longergan, Mrs. George Brown, Mrs. Frank Delaney and Mrs. Harris Gally.

Saugerties Mum Festival Offers Autumn at its Best

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA
Freeman staff

SAUGERTIES — Brought to you by Mother Nature Seamon Park's spectacular production with a shimmering cast of millions of chrysanthemum blossoms and brilliant scarlet and gold autumn leaves.

It's a popular classic, revived every year to rave reviews and standing ovations. Admittance free.

If you've never attended, you've never known the meaning of "brightly colored." Your concept of red and yellow is but a pale version of what Seamon Park, on Malden Avenue in the Village of Saugerties, has to show you for this year's 11th Annual Chrysanthemum Festival. You've never experienced autumn at its best, brightest and most beautiful, if you've never attended.

And thousands will come to enjoy this outdoor theater, bringing along their paints and their cameras, when the yearly festival is held again from Oct. 3 to 24.

Arrive with your eyes open, because there's lots to see at this classic event that guarantees a great show year after year.

Every day over the three weeks of the festival, visitors will be greeted with hillside and pathways decorated in rainbow colors. Photography buffs and sightseers will find the Saugerties foliage and blossoms at their loveliest. It's an annual pilgrimage made by countless admirers: a summer's greenery gives way to peak brilliancy of leaves and that fall-blooming perennial known fondly as the "mum." Seamon Park contains one of the largest collections of chrysanthemums to be seen in New York. For more than a decade, the Village of Saugerties, with the assistance of community organizations and clubs, has been staging a Chrysanthemum Festival in October.

This year's program gets underway with the Mum Bowl at the local high school on Saturday, Oct. 2. The game of the day will pit the Sawyers against John Jay, and a "Mum" Queen will be crowned.

The official opening ceremony of the festival is set for Sunday, Oct. 3 at 2 p.m. in the park. The program that day, beginning at 11 a.m., will include a Chrysanthemum Flower Show, and a display and talk on the local Grist Mill Restoration project. Both will run from late morning through late afternoon. A special attraction on this first Sunday of the festival will be a music concert, combining glee club voices and a wind ensemble, from 2 to 4 p.m.

Through the three October weeks, when visitors are welcome any time from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., trees and flowers and wide expanses of well-manicured parkland and lawns will greet the eyes at every turn. Tree-shaded walks, ornamental fountains and the spectacular chrysanthemum show should be lure enough. But, if you have only one day free to attend, make it Sunday, Oct. 10, when any number of other attractions will be added to the riot of fall colors.

An Outdoor Art Show will

line the park's paths, the bouncy music of Papa Bear's Band will echo through the Seamon air, Early American Crafts will be exhibited, The Lefooters will be on hand to perform their sprightly square dances, and the Grist Mill Restoration display and talk will be repeated.

A gala fete for all is this festival of thousands of mums in bloom. And one lodged in the spirit of that day in 1909 when people by the thousands turned out at the park to hear John Seamon present the floral woodland to Saugerties as a gift. There was band music that day, too, and a performance by vaudeville entertainers appearing that week at the local Orpheum Theatre.

This year, the emphasis will be more on the flowers that bloom in the fall, and the intriguing historical past rooted in the Old Sawyer grist mill site, a mill built before 1663.

Any day of the festival, then, would be a good day to plan a family picnic under the aromatic conifers and towering maple trees. And, for professional and amateur botanists, and just plain lovers of flowers, few of nature's festivals can compare to the chrysanthemums of Saugerties in full bloom. In gay profusion, they blanket Seamon Park by the thousands—and they'll share their spectacular beauty with visitors in equal numbers through most of October.

Quite literally, a colorful experience.

John Pike Watercolor Awarded; Montessori School to Benefit

WOODSTOCK—Starting its seventh year of education, the Woodstock Montessori School began its school-year by the awarding of an original John Pike watercolor. The painting, "Overlook Mountain - Misty Morning," was donated by the artist to help the school expand its educational facility on Deming Street. As a result of his generosity, the school library will be expanded and new equipment will be introduced to the classroom.

The original watercolor was awarded to Rae Richards of Hurley.

Woodstock Montessori School first opened in 1970, is certified by the Association

Montessori International and has Montessori-trained teachers. Enrollment in the school is open to children aged two and a half to nine on a full day or half-day basis. Parents of prospective students are invited to observe the operation of the classroom. Further information may be obtained from the school.

Antique Auto Restoration Course Being Offered This Fall at UCCC

STONE RIDGE—A course in titled Antique Auto Restoration is among several available for area residents this fall through local organizations.

Ed Tanis of West Hurley, who has restored several trophy-winning antique autos, will teach the credit-free course at Ulster Community College. It will meet seven Tuesday nights.

Louise Cooper of Woodstock will teach a course in Gestalt Therapy through UCCC, scheduled to meet on eight Thursday nights at the Stone Ridge campus. Included will be dream work, role playing and psychodrama, body awareness and sensitivity, conflict resolution and forming a gestalt.

The Kingston and Ulster County YMCA will teach a beginning synchronized swimming class to begin Sept. 29, with instructors Patty Shields and Ann Roser. Those over eight years of age may learn water ballet, basic body positions, adaptation of strokes, sculling, floating, tuck somersaults, and more.

And dance instructors Estelle and Alfonso of Poughkeepsie have announced a new addition to their teaching staff in the drama department, Peggy Papanone, a member of Actors' Equity. She has planned a total school that encompasses all ages from one for 5-8 year olds through four levels of older children.

Tigers, Sawyers Suffer Losses In DCSL Soccer

KINGSTON—Kingston High and Saugerties High exchanged opponents Monday afternoon, but the results were not nearly as successful as last weekend.

Both teams had done well against two of the Dutchess County Scholastic League's top teams in their season openers, Kingston tying Arlington, 1-1, in a rain-shortened game Friday and Saugerties upsetting Spackenkill, 2-1 Saturday.

It was a different story Monday as Spackenkill put away Kingston, 2-0, and Arlington edged Saugerties, 2-1. The Tigers are now 0-1-1 and play host to Roosevelt at 4 p.m. Wednesday at Loughran Park. The Sawyers are 1-1 and play host to Ketcham at 4 p.m. Wednesday.

Kingston was a victim of its own "lethargic play," according to coach Ron Chiasson. "Spackenkill dominated the game, no doubt about it. They took it right to us. They were all fired up after that loss to Saugerties on Friday. They controlled the midfield against us. Once we got the ball there, they just put it right back at us. They beat us to everything."

After a scoreless first half, Spackenkill's Tim Wallin scored in the forty-fifth minute unassisted, then scored again three minutes later with an assist from Jeff Waldman. The winners outshot Kingston, 18-11 and showed their offensive dominance by taking nine corner kicks to Kingston's one.

"The corner kicks tell the story," said Chiasson. "They kept us in our own end. Malcolm Schick had a fantastic game in the goal for us.

"They were the better team yesterday but I won't concede the second game to them at all."

Saugerties made its own bad luck, twice doing favors for Arlington by putting the ball into its own net for Arlington goals. The first came in the sixth minute and the final one came in the thirty-sixth minute as both times Sawyer defenders, in attempting a clearing crossing pass across the goal mouth, instead sent the ball into the goal past keeper Jim Hackett.

Sawyer Bobby Benzenhoefer scored on a penalty kick in the 20th minute. Saugerties was awarded a penalty kick when Arlington goalie Greg Schlegel was called for kicking a Sawyer in the penalty area.

Steve Southworth and Mark Rodl received credit for the Arlington goals.

"It's the same old story," said Saugerties coach Tony Elia. "We're smaller and slower. But I'm proud of my boys. They showed they're competitive with the best. Arlington did not score against us yesterday—we did twice. And Spackenkill only scored once on a penalty kick against us."

Elia: No Conflicts Between Soccer, FB

SAUGERTIES — Saugerties High School varsity soccer coach Tony Elia is sorry participation in Sawyer football is down this year but he doesn't want soccer to take the blame.

"I think there's a misconception that there's conflict between the two sports," Elia said. "There's a feeling among some people that the reason the football team hasn't done well is due to soccer. I've always held there is no conflict between the two."

Elia was responding to a column by sports editor Ira Fusfeld in Sunday's Freeman which was centered on the revelation that Saugerties had to cancel its opening junior varsity football game last week because its roster had dipped below the minimum required by the state.

In the column, Saugerties athletic director and football coach Fred Seither said he couldn't pinpoint the reason for the decline in participation but surmised last year's winless season and the growth of soccer at the school were two possibilities.

Elia said there was no way any of his soccer players could participate in football: "We don't have any boys big enough physically to play football. The average boy is about 5-4, 120 pounds."

Elia pointed to the coexistence of soccer and football at both Arlington and Roosevelt High Schools as examples of success. Each won titles in soccer and football the same year, Roosevelt in 1974, Arlington in 1975.

"I also point to the successful coexistence here of three sports — baseball, tennis and track — in the spring," he said. "The objective of the program is to increase the number of participants in interscholastic athletics, not in one sport over another."

Elia also took note of the example of Marlboro High, which has football but not soccer because of the size of its student body. He added Rhinebeck High, which does not have football, and said both schools were doing their students an "injustice" by not offering the other sport.

"Not every boy is a football player and not every boy is a soccer player," he said.

Asked why he thought participation in football at Saugerties was down Elia said he could not comment. "I haven't made football my concern."

Stabler Proves Point

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Oakland Raider Ken Stabler says being a quarterback is an easy job when your receivers are working against a couple of rookie defensive backs.

Stabler proved his point Monday night. He hit 22 of 28 passes, including one interception, for 224 yards and three touchdowns as the Raiders beat the Kansas City Chiefs 24-21 in a nationally televised game that was more lopsided than the score indicated.

"You are supposed to do things like that when you have all the advantages I have," said Stabler, who left the game with 12:51 to play when his right knee was hurt after being tackled by Chief defensive end Wilbur Young. "Any time you have rookie backs covering guys the caliber of our receivers you have to take advantage of it."

Stabler hit his first nine passes of the game. He also hit Dave Casper with a 15-yard first quarter touchdown pass, Cliff Branch with a 10-yard scoring toss and Mike Siani with a 24-yard touchdown pass — the play on which he was hurt — to give the Raiders a 24-7 lead.

The Chiefs, held to 10 yards rushing and 37 yards total offense in the first half, scored on a one-yard MacArthur Lane run in the third quarter and then came up with a one-yard Mike Livingston scoring run with 4:36 to play. Less than two minutes later Livingston hit a 25-yard scoring pass to Billy Masters, set up when Raider Pete Banaszak fumbled the ball away on his own 25.

But the Chiefs had to use their final timeout of the game in setting up Livingston's run so they had to watch and hope as Oakland, directed by reserve quarterback Mike Rae, ran off the final 2:53.

Stabler used seven different receivers — including veteran Fred Biletnikoff, who caught four passes to give him 501 in his career — in taking advantage of Chief rookie safety Gary Barbaro and first-year cornerback Tim Collier.

"I have confidence I can throw against anybody we play and I know there is no way a rookie is going to cover someone like Casper or (Cliff) Branch or Fred (Biletnikoff) or Mike (Siani)," said

Ken Stabler scrambles

Stabler, who said he could have come back into the game after being hurt if the Raiders had needed him.

The second time the Raiders had the ball, Stabler hit six of seven passes for 49 yards and drove Oakland 67 yards in an effort which ended with Casper's touchdown.

After Oakland held Kansas City on three plays, Stabler directed the Raiders on a 72-yard scoring march, hitting three of four passes for 31 yards including the pass to Branch. And when Oakland got the ball on its own 14 with just minutes left in the half, he took the Raiders to the Kansas City 20 to set up a 37-yard Fred Steinfort field goal.

Chiefs Coach Paul Wiggins said he was glad to see his young team — 16 first-year players — come back in the final half.

"They have a great quarterback, great receivers, a great line and great plan," Wiggins said. "It is going to be very difficult for any team to really hold them down unless they have a real downer day, but I was just glad we fought back. I think we grew a lot."

Yanks' Gene Locklear dives back to first ahead of throw to George Scott.

Reds, Yanks on Brink of Clinching

By UPI

The summer-long quest for pennants can end for the Cincinnati Reds tonight and be all but over for the New York Yankees, Kansas City Royals and Philadelphia Phillies.

The Reds, whose magic number is down to one, will clinch the National League's Western Division title if they beat the San Diego Padres or the Los Angeles Dodgers lose to the San Francisco Giants.

The Yankees will clinch a tie for the American League's Eastern title by beating the Baltimore Orioles while the Royals and Phillies could take virtually unmountable leads in the AL West and NL East, respectively.

The Royals face the second-place Oakland A's and a victory will give them a seven game lead. The Phillies play a single game against the St. Louis Cardinals and could lead by six games if they win and the Pirates drop an afternoon doubleheader to the Chicago Cubs.

The Reds, idle Monday after clinching a tie for the NL Eastern title Sunday, are sending Pat Zachry (13-5) against San Diego's Brent Strom (11-15) at Cincinnati. They're planning to be drinking champagne even before the Dodgers take the field against the Giants in a San Francisco night game that starts at 10:15 PM, EDT.

The Yankees, who missed a chance to reduce their magic number to two by losing to the Milwaukee Brewers 4-2 Monday night, face the second-place Orioles with Doyle Alexander (12-9) on the mound against Ross Grimsley (8-6). A New York victory will clinch the tie and reduce the magic number to one.

The Royals, who have won five of their last six games, open a three-game series with the second-place A's. The two teams have a total of six games remaining against each other but a victory tonight would give the Royals a seven-game lead and a stranglehold on the AL Western title.

Doug Bird (11-9) is slated to pitch for the Royals while Stan Bahnsen (8-6) is scheduled to go for the A's.

The Phillies, who picked up a half-game Monday when the New York Mets defeated the Pirates 5-4, will send Tom Underwood (9-5) against the Cardinals' John Denny (10-7). The Pirates, having lost three out of four to the Mets, will be attempting to reverse their downward momentum in their afternoon doubleheader in Chicago.

The Boston Red Sox defeated the Detroit Tigers 12-6 and the California Angels beat the Texas Rangers 1-0 in Monday's only other scheduled games.

Dan Thomas' fourth-inning homer stood up as the winning run for the Brewers as Gary Beare won his second game with the ninth-inning relief help of Ray Sadecki and Bill Castro. Ken Holtzman was tagged for four runs and seven hits in eight innings and saw his record drop to 13-10. Graig Nettles hit his 29th homer for the Yankees.

The Pirates had a one-run lead with two out and none on in the last of the ninth inning when pinch-hitter John Milner singled and rookie Lee Mazzilli homered to give the Mets their victory. The Pirates had battled back from a 3-0 deficit to lead 4-3 in the eighth on Willie Stargell's 19th homer of the season.

Mazzilli's homer, his second since being recalled from Jackson, Tex., of the Texas League, came off reliever Kent Tekulve. The youngster shrugged off the impact his homer had on the Pirates' chances with the comment, "It doesn't bother me ... it's just one of those things."

Jim Rice hit two homers and Cecil Cooper and Dwight Evans one each to lead a 13-hit Boston attack which brought Rick Jones his fifth win of the season. Rusty Staub hit his 13th homer for the Tigers.

Nolan Ryan pitched a threehitter for his fifth consecutive victory for the Angels, raising his record to 15-17. Battery-mate Terry Humphrey doubled in the only run of the game off Bert Blyleven. It was the fifth shutout of the year for Ryan, who struck out four batters, raising his major league leading total to 289 and leaving him 11 short of a record fourth 300-strikeout season.

Brewers Sidetrack New York

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The Milwaukee Brewers had just beaten the New York Yankees 4-2 Monday night for only their second win in the last 14 games. So it wasn't very hard to figure out the mood of Manager Alex Grammas — happy.

"We won a game," Grammas said almost in wonderment. "It always feels good to win for a change. I just hope this is the start of a little streak so we can get presentable again."

For the Brewers, who are 64-85 on the season and mired deep in last place in the Eastern Division, that would take some doing. In fact, even playing a small spoiler role in keeping the Yankees from clinching the divisional pennant for at least another game wasn't much satisfaction.

"Whether we postpone their champagne a while is the last thing I'm worried about," Grammas said of the Yankees, who should take the flag over Baltimore.

For the Brewers the win was doubly satisfying because of two rookies who could help make their future brighter.

Outfielder Dan Thomas hit a fourth-inning home to win the game and pitcher Gary Beare had a fine eight innings before giving way in the ninth to Ray Sadecki and Bill Castro after giving up a leadoff double.

The Brewers jumped on loser and starter Ken Holtzman for two quick runs in the first inning on a single by third baseman Don Money. But New York's Graig Nettles increased his American League-leading home run total to 29 in the second inning to cut the Brewer lead to 2-1 and drove in another run in the fourth inning to tie the game at 2-2.

Then Thomas hit his solo shot in the Brewer fourth to win the game and Milwaukee scored another run in the eighth inning.

The loss dropped Holtzman to a 13-10 record and was only his second in 12 lifetime decisions against Milwaukee.

The Yankees return home to face Baltimore as they try to end the pennant race and Milwaukee today goes to Boston for a double-header with Jim Colborn and rookie Moose Haas on the mound for Milwaukee.

Beare, now 2-1, has been impressive and Grammas likes what he sees.

"The way he's pitched the three games he's started there's no doubt he's confident," Grammas said. "He's shown he's going to be a winning pitcher."

Beare was 10-10 at Pittsfield in the Eastern League and 1-4 with Spokane in the Pacific Coast circuit before joining the club last month.

Thomas, though, may turn out to be the bigger jewel. He was the player of the year in the Eastern League at Pittsfield, where he led the league with 28 homers, 80 RBIs and a .330 average. In 20 games with the Brewers he has three homers, 10 RBIs and is batting about .290.

"He swings the bat well," Grammas said of Thomas. "He's not being embarrassed at all at the plate — he's really got a swing."

Lee May Have Dealt KO Punch

NEW YORK (UPI) — Lee Mazzilli called it "one of those things," but to the Pittsburgh Pirates it may have been a death blow.

What "it" was was Mazzilli's two-out, two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth inning Monday which lifted the New York Mets to a 5-4 victory over Pittsburgh and dropped the Pirates 4-½ games behind the idle Philadelphia Phillies in the National League East pennant race with only 13 games left to play.

Mazzilli, a major leaguer all of two weeks wasn't concerned about destroying the Pirates' chances of catching the Phillies.

"It doesn't bother me," the 21-year-old switch-hitting outfielder said. "It's just one of those things."

The Pirates had rallied in dramatic fashion from a 3-0 deficit to take a 4-3 lead in the eighth inning on Willie Stargell's 19th homer.

When Pittsburgh's ace reliever Kent Tekulve retired the first two batters of the ninth inning, it appeared the Pirates were going to gain a split of their four-game series with the pitching-rich Mets.

But John Milner, batting for winning pitcher Bob Apodaca, slapped a pinch-single to set the stage for Mazzilli, who knew what pitch to anticipate in that situation.

"When I went up there, I wasn't going to go after anything but a fastball," Mazzilli said. "It (the pitch) was a belt-high fastball, the home run, and I just

Unfortunately, it didn't feel too good to Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh, who still managed to find some consolation in the fact that his club no longer has to play the Mets while the Phillies must.

"I'm no more upset than about any other loss, but obviously it gets tougher with each loss," he said. "The Mets performed well wherever they've played and I just hope they can do to the Phillies what they've done against us."

What the Mets have done against Pittsburgh is win four games in the last week and 10-of-18 during the season. Murtaugh can only hope that his club is still in the race when the Mets play the Phillies in the last three games of the regular season.

KHS, SHS Harriers Look Good

By BRUCE COLDBERG

Freeman Staff

KINGSTON—Coaches are usually the last people on earth to give too favorable prospects to the fortunes of their team as their particular season approaches. After all, why give the opposition a motivating clipping that goes up on the locker room bulletin board?

But two county high school cross country coaches are feeling rather good about their teams and aren't shy about it.

"I really can't expect to finish lower than third in the Dutchess County Scholastic League," said Kingston High coach Dean Short about his Tiger harriers.

"We should have the best club of my three years here," said Saugerties coach Ron Buzon.

Both teams were to have begun their varsity seasons today with Poughkeepsie at Kingston and Beacon at Saugerties in DCSL meets.

Short, whose Tigers finished third in the DCSL meet last season, has three senior letter winners who finished in the top 25 of that meet, including Charlie Bevier (snth), Bill Wilson and Vic Nipper Jr. Other experienced runners include junior Brian Wootan and senior Morey Katz.

The Tigers also boast the Section One girls meet champion, junior Eileen Casey. She not only beat out a field of 90 female runners in last year's Section One meet, she will also "probably be in the top five on the boys' team," said Short.

Previewing DCSL Cross Country

Short's hot prospects to join in the top seven include Coleman High transfer junior Bob Beyersdorfer, junior Eric Pearson and sophomore William Salzman. The remainder of the team includes Robert Hutton, Fred Levine, freshman Regina Kaufman, soph Kevin Sickles, junior Harry Mahoud and seniors

Geoff Megargee, Herb Petersen, Guy Smalt and Phil Brown.

"I expect us to be in the top three again," said Short. "We've got our top three back. We should do a lot better. I figure Arlington has the edge in the league, and much depends on the morale of the Ketcham and John Jay runners due to the budget problems."

Buzon can call upon seven veterans among his 12 runners, including junior Tommy Miller, who finished in the top 25. With only one loss to graduation, Buzon looks for a better year with the return of seniors Ron Sickler, John Vander Poel, Steve Schaeffer and Kevin Curl, junior Alan Gardecki, and last year's No. 5 man, soph Bob Lachman.

Sopha Chris Gilmartin, Gary Kain and Brian Terpening and freshmen Kevin Sweeney and Maurice Cormier round out the squad.

Sports Briefs

Rams Scoff at Namath Rumor

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A Los Angeles Rams spokesman said today it was "an impossibility" in denying a newspaper report that his team was about to engineer a trade with the New York Jets for superstar quarterback Joe Namath.

"I've never heard of such a thing," said Rams public relations director Jerry Wilcox early Tuesday morning, in a state of high good humor upon learning of the story published by the Washington Post. "There's no such deal in the works that I know of. Everything else aside, it's against the rules, an impossibility. Good night."

The Post quoted sources as saying the Rams have been discussing the trade since quarterback Ron Jaworski was sidelined by a broken throwing shoulder in the Rams' opening game victory over Atlanta. The Post also said the Jets are ready to deal, but it would be a difficult transaction since the interconference trading deadline has passed.

Namath, who is earning $450,000 in the second season of a two-year contract and has previously expressed an interest in joining the Rams, would have to clear waivers in the American Football Conference and through those clubs in the National Conference with 1975 records worse than the Rams' 12-2 mark.

The Post said Namath's notrade contract might help in deterring other teams from putting in a claim for him. But the paper quoted a source close to those who would be involved in the negotiations as saying the chances for a trade are "well below 50 per cent" because of the difficulties involved.

The Jets could put Namath on the waiver list and withdraw him only once more this season. If he was put on the list a second time, the most eligible team to claim him would be assigned his contract.

Namath had said last winter he was tired of playing for a losing team and it has been widely speculated this will be his last season with the Jets. The Post said the trade also would mean closer access for Namath to a film career he aspires to.

Dr. J., Nets At Odds

UNIONDALE (UPI) — New York Nets' owner Roy Boe issued a terse "no comment" Tuesday morning when questioned about published reports that three-time ABA most valuable player Julius Erving would not be present at the opening of training camp Friday because of "broken promises" by management.

Erving, who has four years remaining on a seven-year, $1.9 million contract, said that he had been promised several bonuses but had not received them.

In a letter to Boe, notifying the Nets of his decision not to come to training camp, Erving indicated he had several unresolved business matters to deal with and that his frame of mind could not be programmed 100 percent on the game as long as those matters were not settled.

Reportedly, Erving wants the final four years of his contract to be renegotiated. The Nets are reported to have offered him a new seven-year contract in order to make sure he concludes his career in New York.

Erving's attorney, Irwin Weiner, said Erving agreed to negotiate a new seven-year contract, but that Boe then reneged on his promise.

The Nets, who have had financial difficulties, recently acquired Nate Archibald in a trade with Kansas City. Archibald's contract, the highest in the game, earns him $450,000 a year.

Nets Acquire Larry McNeil

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Larry McNeil, who began the 1975-76 NBA season as a starter for the Kansas City Kings but wound up sitting on the bench, was traded to the New York Nets Monday for a 1977 third round draft choice and an undisclosed amount of cash.

McNeil, from Marquette, the Kings' second round draft choice in 1973, enjoyed his best season during the Kings' 1974-75 playoff effort when he averaged 9.8 points and ranked third on the team in rebounds. During his three years at Kansas City he averaged 8.7 points and 5.3 rebounds.

The Nets won the ABA championship last year and, along with three other ABA teams, will join the NBA this season. It was the second trade this month between the two teams. Last week, the Kings sent guard Nate Archibald to the Nets for guard Brian Taylor, backup center Jim Eakins and first round draft choices the next two years.

Jets Waive Two More

HEMPSTEAD (UPI) — The New York Jets, their pass defense decimated by Denver in a 46-3 rout Sunday, waived cornerback Roscoe Word and safety Clifford Brooks and signed John Roman, a free agent tackle.

Word, a third-year man from Jackson State, was called for three penalties and was beaten consistently by Bronco receivers Sunday. He started in 1974 and was named to the NFL's All Rookie team but lost his job last season after several poor performances.

Brooks, a high draft choice by Cleveland three years ago, was picked up just last Saturday after being dropped by Philadelphia.

Roman, 6-4 and 230 pounds, was impressive in a one-day tryout last Wednesday. He played with Philadelphia of the World Football league last season and was dropped by Baltimore on the final cut two weeks ago.

Tommy Davis to Royals

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — Tommy Davis, a well-traveled major league veteran of 17 seasons who twice won the National League batting title with the Los Angeles Dodgers, was sold by the California Angels Monday to the Kansas City Royals.

Entering this season with a .295 lifetime batting average, the 37-year-old Davis was used by the Angels as a designated hitter and batted .265 in 72 games with three home runs and 26 RBIs.

The Royals will be Davis' 10th major league club.

Report Rigney Will Resign

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — San Francisco Giants manager Bill Rigney will announce his resignation today, according to the San Francisco Chronicle.

A 5 p.m. (PDT) news conference was scheduled at Candlestick Park prior to the Giants-Los Angeles Dodgers game. Rigney will disclose his plans at that time, the Chronicle said.

Surgery for Wilbur Wood

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chicago White Sox pitcher Wilbur Wood underwent exploratory surgery on his ailing left knee Monday at suburban Skokie Valley Community Hospital.

A White Sox spokesman said Wood was running at his home in Lexington, Mass., Sunday as part of his rehabilitation program when he hit a soft spot and fell, re-injuring the same knee that was damaged earlier this year. A shot off the bat of Detroit's Ron LeFlore broke Wood's kneecap last May 9.

Ali Is Bearing Down

KIAMESHA LAKE (UPI) — Under the watchful eye of Angelo Dundee, Muhammad Ali returned to the gym Monday after a one-day rest and opened the final week of his pre-fight preparations for Ken Norton with a 15-round workout.

The title bout is set for Sept. 28 at Yankee Stadium and the champion knows that better than anyone in camp.

"He's starting to feel his oats," Dundee said. "Muhammad will be all concentration from here on in," Dundee continued. "He's got but one thing in mind now, to destroy Norton. That's the battle cry from now to next Tuesday when the opening bell sounds. Destroy Norton."

The champion skipped his usual ring-side public press conference with the capacity crowd of more than 500. After his final round on the speed bag, he donned his robe and headed straight for his room.

When pressed for a quote later by newsmen, Ali said, "Tell all the people to remember one thing. I have never been defeated as heavyweight champion of the world. Norton is no different from all those other suckers that tried to take my title. He will fall, and early."

GROSSINGER (UPI) — Ken Norton goes to the movies every day. In fact he sits through the feature three or four times. And it's all in a day's work.

Norton is hard at work in his last week of training for the heavyweight championship fight with Muhammad Ali Sept. 28 in New York.

"There's only one week to go so there's no time to relax," the 31-year-old ex-marine said Monday. "When I'm not running, training, or sleeping, I'm in front of the projector going over the films."

The film is the second Norton-Ali fight in September 1973. Norton lost that fight on a controversial decision, but that doesn't keep him from playing it over and over.

"In my mind I won both fights with Ali, so it doesn't bother me when they announce him as the winner. One way or another, it was a very close fight and Ali was in great shape. He was at his best for me in that fight and it was close. I'm a much improved boxer now, and I'm in the best condition of my career, so it should be no contest," he said.

"Every time I look at the film, I get more and more confident about what I can do. I watch him when I'm studying the films. I watch his moves before he throws a punch and how he follows his punches up."

"I'll fight him predominantly the same way this time without variation. I've learned a lot in three years about counting and I certainly think a great deal more in the ring."

"Right now, the only thing I think about is

Baseball Faces Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and the presidents of the American and National Leagues stepped up against some high and hard pitching from members of Congress today over the unique antitrust exemption professional baseball has enjoyed for more than half a century.

"The burden of proof is on them," Rep. Gillis Long, D-La., a member of a special House Committee on Professional Sports, said in advance of a hearing at which Kuhn, American League President Lee MacPhail and his National League counterpart Charles S. Feeney were to appear.

Also in the line-up were two team executives, W. Donald Grant of the New York Mets and Edmund B. Fitzgerald of the Milwaukee Brewers.

Long and three colleagues on the 13-member House panel, Reps. Fred Rooney, D-Pa., Edward Derwinski, R-Ill., and Gilbert Gude, R-Md., have suggested the possibility of a bill which would strip baseball of its immunity from federal antitrust laws.

The special committee has no authority to write legislation but it will submit a report to the next Congress in which such a step could be recommended.

Kuhn on two previous appearances on the witness stand has fervently urged retention of the special antitrust status for baseball on grounds the sport needs the protection to maintain competitive balance and a way of developing young players through the minors.

The Supreme Court ruled in 1923 that baseball was a sport rather than a business and conferred legal antitrust protection.

POWNAL, Vt. (UPI) — Vermont's first greyhound racing season is expected to open at Green Mountain Park Friday despite an ongoing dispute between the track's management and the dog owners association. A similar dispute last year halted the dog racing season even before it started.

Track owners have refused to recognize the New England Greyhound Association and plan to run the races using independent dog owners. The association has charged the track itself owns most of the 750 greyhounds which will take part in the meet.

Association officials said they have appealed in vain for intercession from the state Racing Commission and the governor's office. They said they do not plan to try to block the meet again this year.

The owners of the state's only pari-mutuel race track, meanwhile, are hoping the three months of dog racing can help them recoup from a poor season.

They said attendance has been off about 16 per cent this year.

fection in an opinion by the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes.

In two subsequent cases, the high court turned down challenges of the exemption but in the most recent, dealing with former St. Louis Cardinal star Curt Flood, it rejected the "sport rather than business" argument.

The justices said that if it was the responsibility of Congress to take steps in the antitrust field concerning baseball rather than the courts.

The special House committee was created under the leadership of Rep. B.F. Sisk, D-Ill., earlier this year when the baseball owners refused to allow a return of a franchise to Washington, D.C.

Sisk and Long, who is interested in seeing a major league team in New Orleans, have been in conference with organized baseball for putting teams in Canada while U.S. owners are unable to obtain them.

Junior Football Opners

Titans, Mercurys, Apollos Win

KINGSTON — The Exchange Club Junior Football League's 1976 season is off to a scraggy, but auspicious start, with the three debut games producing tight grid encounters.

The opening weekend, delayed by a Friday night postponement, was completed Monday evening at Dietz Stadium when the defending champion Titans slipped past the Saturns, 7-6.

In Sunday's openers, the Mercurys downed Atlas, 13-6, and the Apollos blanked the Agenas, 6-0.

A two-yard run by Brian McCullough enabled the Titans to tie the Saturns. They won it on a successful conversion pass from Mick King to Webster Henderson.

Earlier, Paul Laughlin's 20-yard run had put the Saturns ahead in the third period.

The Mercurys, down 6-0 at halftime, rallied for 13 second half points to beat Atlas. Brian Timbrouck's two yard run put the winners on the board. Timbrouck then hit Kevin Reynolds for the extra point. The clincher was an 11-yard pass from Timbrouck to Reynolds.

Pete Wright galloped 60 yards for the Atlas TD.

Jeff DeLusio's five yard run in the fourth quarter was enough to lift the Apollos over the Agenas.

The summaries:

Saturns 0 0 6 0-6
Titans 0 0 0 7-7
S — Laughlin 20 run (conversion failed)
T — McCullough 2 run (Henderson pass from King)

Atlas 0 0 0 0-6
Mercury 0 0 7 6-13
A — Wright 60 run (conversion failed)
M — Timbrouck 2 run (Reynolds pass from Timbrouck)
M — Reynolds 11 pass from Timbrouck (conversion failed)

Apollon 0 0 0 6-6
A — DeLusio 5 run (conversion failed)

Noreika Hits 665

Brandt Unloads 278

KINGSTON — Ron Brandt and Bill Noreika were the headliners in recent area bowling action.

Brandt fired a career-high 278 to move into the No. 1 singles position on the area top ten enroute to a 647 in the Friday Nite Mixers League. Brandt opened the game with nine straight strikes and is off to a sizzling start this season with a 215 average.

Noreika was Mr. Consistent in Mid-City Four-Man Classic bowling as he put together

games of 206-234-225 for a 665 triple, No. 2 high of the season behind Paul Saulpaugh's 709. Also in the Four-Man Classic, Ernie Cozza decked a 632 set with a 236 single the big game.

In other area bowling, Betty Shalighner turned in the No. 4 women's triple of the season as she hit a 575 in the Hoe Bowl Women's Major.

FREEMAN FLASHBACK

25 Years Ago Today

September 21, 1951...Ford Frick was named commissioner of baseball... Coach Bill Burke will launch Kingston High School's varsity football season in Schenectady when the Maroons play against Mont Pleasant. Only three veterans are with the team—center Bruce (Red) Hinkley, fullback Al Carpino and end Charlie Tiano... Proceeds from the Old Timers baseball game between Kingston and Saugerties will be donated to the Kingston Little League treasury.

10 Years Ago Today

September 21, 1966...Rondout Valley Central High School's football coach John (Chick) Meehan opens the season against Warwick with only 23 men on his roster. Meehan's son John is a newcomer on the Rondout varsity. After six straight DUSO titles, five consecutive Section Nine championships and a pair of fourth place finishes in the state meet, Kingston High School's cross country team returns only No. 4 runner Al Drake from last season.

KHS JV Ties Jay

WICOPEE — The Kingston High School junior varsity football team unveiled a strong rushing attack in its 1976 opener against John Jay Saturday, but a tenacious Patriot defense staved off repeated Tiger efforts to force a 6-6 deadlock.

Kingston's lone score came on a 20 yard return with a pass interception by Dan Langton in the second period. On five occasions the Tigers penetrated to within ten yards of another TD, but each time the John Jay defense stopped KHS short of a score.

The locals suffered just one major defensive breakdown, but that cost the victory when the Patriot quarterback swept the end for 12 yards and the tying TD. The two-point conversion attempts by both clubs failed.

Wrestling Here Monday

KINGSTON — Professional wrestling returns to the Municipal Auditorium Monday night with a tag team match highlighting the card.

Johns Out

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Freeman Johns, the Los Angeles Rams' rookie wide receiver injured in Sunday's game against the Minnesota Vikings, underwent knee surgery Monday to repair torn ligaments and will be lost to the club for the remainder of the season, the club announced.

Johns, a 6-foot-1, 175-pounder from Southern Methodist, suffered the injury to his right knee after he was tackled trying to return a punt in the 10-10 overtime standoff between the two clubs. A Rams' spokesman said no decision has been made on who will be added to the roster to fill the vacancy.

municipal Auditorium Monday night with a tag team match highlighting the card. In the feature, Gorilla Monsoon will join with Victor Rivera to battle the Executioners. The last time the pro grapplers were in town, Chief Jay Strongbow and Billy White Wolf lost by default to the Executioners when Monsoon tried to come to the aid of the Indian duo. Monday's co-feature will have Bobo Brazil facing Rocky Tamayo. Three other bouts will fill out the program which begins at 8:30 p.m.

Michigan On Top In UPI Grid Poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — Michigan's convincing victory over Stanford Saturday coupled with Ohio State's narrow win over stubborn Penn State has earned the Wolverines the distinction of being the No. 1 ranked major college football team in UPI's Board of Coaches poll.

Michigan's 51-0 victory over Stanford earned the Wolverines 31 first place votes as they steamrolled past the Buckeyes with 405 points by virtue of their impressive performance. Ohio State, ranked No. 1 last week, narrowly defeated Penn State, 12-7, and registered only five first place votes and a total of 335 overall in Monday's balloting.

Michigan was second to Ohio State in last week's voting, trailing the Buckeyes by a mere six points.

Pittsburgh moved up a notch to third place on the strength of a 42-14 triumph over Georgia Tech. The Panthers drew four first place votes and a 304 point total.

UCLA, with a single first place vote, dropped one rung to fourth place with 235 votes, while Oklahoma remained fifth with 262 Nebraska, with the only other first place vote from the 42 coaches, moved up two spaces to sixth place based on 151 votes, Georgia advanced two steps to seventh on 129 points, Maryland returned to the top 10 with a No. 8 rating on 95 points, Texas A&M moved from the 10th to ninth position with 86 and Penn State dropped three notches from seventh to 10th, with 58 points.

Arkansas headed the second 10, up one spot from last week to 11th, followed in order by Kansas, Alabama and Illinois. Southern California and Louisiana State shared 15th place with Boston College 17th and North Carolina 18th Florida and Texas Tech were tied for 19th place.

Missouri, upset by Illinois 31-6, dropped out of the top 20 after being named to sixth place last week. Oklahoma State also failed to make the elite group.

Last week, Ohio State grabbed 16 first place votes and collected 349 points. Michigan had 17 first place ballots with 343 points.

Nip of Autumn Is in the Air

(By UPI)

Widely scattered rains dotted the nation and an autumnal nip was in the air in many areas today — the last full day of summer.

Showers and thunderstorms stretched from the Eastern Seaboard to Texas.

Heavy rains soaked the central Gulf Coast states and a flash flood watch was posted for portions of southeastern Texas.

Other rains soaked the upper Mississippi Valley and the Great Lakes areas and lingering showers dampened portions of the Appalachians and the Ohio Valley.

Rain also swept over the West and thundershowers were reported in Oregon, Nevada, California and New Mexico.

Rainfall accumulations generally were less than an inch.

Cool weather settled over the nation's midlands early today, with temperatures in the 40s and 50s from the middle Mississippi Valley through the Central Plains and the Northern Rockies.

Florida Sea Cruises Still Pack Them Aboard

MIAMI (UPI) — Tourism may be sagging in Florida, but the cruise ship business is booming. In Miami and this year's one-millionth passenger has set sail for a Caribbean cruise.

Dade County officials joined the Port of Miami Monday in celebrating Miami's continued dominance of the market. Miami has been the leading cruise port in the world since 1973, when there were 851,000 boardings, but has never before broken the one million mark.

"I think there is a big market of people who haven't been on

Island for Sale

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By Jeanne Dixon

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 22
Your Birthday Today: The Sun changes from Virgo to Libra at 5:48 p.m. EDT. For your main effort this year, pick a course of action you really want and don't just settle for circumstances. Material success isn't the chief factor in success at this stage. Today's Virgo natives often amaze items sustaining scientific research. Librans center on themselves, are natural politicians.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Take nothing for granted, as sure anything is possible and ask questions. Make up your mind you're going to get there okay, then get to work.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): At this turning point, it's natural if you don't know what factors are at work. Use common sense. If you're at all near the right track, unexpected help comes in.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Wait until you can be heard then state plainly what you hope to get. Correspondence and official petitions bring benefits if properly pursued.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Routine travel becomes a voyage of discovery if you accept new ideas. Invite friends to join an experiment based on childhood impressions.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): There's little point in explanations. Hang onto your cash and promises. If you're a target for a practical joke, be big about it.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Go outside your regular round of contacts to share details of current news or hobbies with somebody of similar interests. An old worry quietly lapses.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Curiosity leads to odd, intriguing truths. Secret maneuvering defeats itself. Speak up for what you are sure you deserve.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Discount most things you hear as wishful thinking, work on what you have faith in. Picking up the tab for friends is okay on occasion.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Optimism distorts your viewpoint. Later you wonder how you got involved in today's schemes. Your ability to sell is high, so take the initiative.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Decisions made on a wobbly out well, but must be based on deeper intuition rather than ordinary logic or available information. Take a trip to break an old habit.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Don't fall for a solo act, as there's certain to be a crowd you won't hear. Cheering out yourself takes time and travel.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): You have everything at hand. Suit yourself. Some ideas come by with a slight shift of plan. You have to see ideas all over again.

TEEN FORUM

By JEAN ADAMS, Ph.D.

ARGUMENTS (Q) Walt and I have been going together for almost two years. I love him very much, but I'm scared that I'm going to lose him. He wants to start running around more with his friends, and I don't want him to. Sometimes we argue about it. We have talked some about getting married. I want to, but I am not sure of him anymore. How can I make him care for me and love me the way I love him? — Worried in Texas

(A) You can't make Walt love you. But you can make him NOT love you by hanging onto him too tightly or by arguing with him all the time.

You're not being sure about him is a correct response, because he is giving you signs that he is unsure and restless. If you loosen your hold on him, you MAY lose him. But if you don't, you almost certainly WILL.

Let him have the freedom he asks. Stop thinking or talking about marriage until or unless his attitude changes. And while he is out with boy friends (or maybe girl friends), look around for

BOTCHED (Q) I am a girl and my problem is my face. I have pimples.

I am not ugly, but I do have a lot of blotches. I am self-conscious about them and stay in my room and cry and don't do anything. Can you please give me some advice? — Disfigured in New York

(A) Don't stay in your room and don't cry! Get out, go see your doctor, and get a cure for your pimples. They can be whipped, and when they are your confidence will return. Problems must be dealt with — not ignored.

(Have a problem? Write Dr. Jean Adams, care of the newspaper, P.O. Box 240, Houston, Texas 77001. Your letter is read, but the great number of letters Adams cannot send replies.)

SHEINWOLD ON BRIDGE

KEEP CONCENTRATION BY COUNTING TRICKS

© 1976 Los Angeles Times

by Alfred Sheinwold

Most bridge players are wrong when they blame loss of concentration for their disasters. They don't really lose their concentration; they just don't know what to concentrate on.

East that he can expect no tricks in the red suits. He must concentrate on winning four tricks in the black suits.

The first trump trick indicates that South's trumps are headed by J 10 since South would hardly take a first round finesse if he held K J 10. If West has a trump trick the defenders need two clubs. East should lead the king of clubs and continue with a low club to concentrate on getting those two tricks.

If South has the ace of clubs he cannot be beaten, and East has merely made matters slightly easier for declarer. If West had the ace of clubs East has made matters much easier for the defense.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart and the next player passes. You hold ♠Q3 ♥865 ♣K42. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four hearts, promising strong trump support not more than 9 points in high cards, and a singleton or void suit.

Church Sued For Hymn Hijack

CHICAGO(UPI) — A composer-publisher filed a federal court suit against Archbishop Cardinal John Cody of Chicago and five Chicago area Roman Catholic churches, charging them with using pirated songs in their hymnals.

Dennis J. Fitzpatrick, president of F.E.L. Publications Ltd., a Los Angeles-based firm that publishes interfaith folk worship music, said Catholic churches are cheating music publishers out of millions of dollars a year by "pirating" copyrighted hymns.

"Over the last 10 years, we've lost $29.4 million due to unauthorized copying of our materials," Fitzpatrick said after filing the $180,000 damage suit in U.S. District Court.

Fitzpatrick said the parishes have been making mimeograph copies of his company's hymnals rather than buying additional copies or paying a license fee.

"The loss in royalties to our 65 composer-authors for just last year is estimated to be $507,000 or an average of $7,800 per composer-author," he said.

Fitzpatrick, 37, who wrote the first Roman Catholic mass entirely in English in 1963, said his company last summer made a nationwide survey and found more than half of the 10,000 Catholic parishes were using hymnals that were mimeographed.

In the Chicago area, evidence of such pirating allegedly was found in 103 parishes, he said. All of the parishes were mailed certified letters asking for a $500 payment to cover all past copyright infringements. None of the churches responded, Fitzpatrick said.

Named in the suit as "representative" church defendants were Holy Name Cathedral, Chicago; Queen of All Saints Basilica, Chicago; St. Ferdinand's Church, Chicago; St. Paul of the Cross Church, Park Ridge; and St. Athanasius Church, Evanston.

The suit also seeks an injunction barring the churches from making illegal copies of the firm's copyrighted music in the future.

Responding to the charges, Msgr. Francis Brackin of the Chicago Archdiocese's chancery office said, "If there is any infringement on his copyright, we'll do whatever is necessary to correct it."

Gene Calls Ballot Blitz Below Belt

ALBANY(UPI) — An attempt by the state Democratic party to knock Eugene McCarthy off the presidential ballot in November has brought charges from the McCarthy organization that Jimmy Carter is now willing to use a political "machine" he once charged was corrupt.

McCarthy, the nominee of the Independence party, is seen as a possible spoiler in the November general election contest between Carter and President Ford.

McCarthy has filed petitions in 32 states and is on the ballot in two others by court order as part of what he described as an effort to break the hold of a two-party system on American politics. His supporters are collecting petitions in five other states and involved in court challenges in two others.

Notice of the challenge to McCarthy's Independence party petitions was filed Monday with the State Board of Elections by Gordon Contessa of Brooklyn and Irving Schlein of Queens, both registered and enrolled Democrats.

The petitions carried 28,236 signatures, 8,236 more than the minimum needed to get on the ballot.

"They are really concerned about this," an informed Democratic party source said. "It could hurt Carter if he stays on the ballot."

A McCarthy spokesman said, "In the spring, Jimmy Carter referred to 'the corrupt New York machine' that was trying to keep him off the ballot. Now, Mr. Carter turns to the same people in an attempt to keep Mr. McCarthy off the ballot."

Detroit Trolley Returns

San Francisco has the cable car, New York has the double-deck bus and Detroit now has its trolley. As the conductor pulled the cord, "clang, clang went the bell" and Detroit went back into the trolley business after an absence of 20 years. It is also exactly 81 years ago that the Motor City started the first electric trolley service. The route is only nine blocks long from Grand Circus Park to Cobo Hall.

*DEBATE

positive about the debate" but objected to planted questions from people in the audience. (Hinchey's campaign manager had grilled him on a number of points, apparently unrecognized by the majority of onlookers).

Hinchey commented that he was grateful to have the opportunity to clear up some of the "misinformation" about himself he felt Rosenstock had been presenting.

The two will meet again at a candidates night in Kingston October 19 and at several other such forums before the November election.

Apparel prices rose 1.1 per cent as new fall and winter fashions showed up in the stores. The biggest increases were on clothing for women and girls.

Used car prices continued to climb, rising 1.4 per cent in August. New car prices also rose slightly and the cost of driving a car jumped by a full 1 per cent.

Klein, who has practiced law for several months short of forty years currently has a law practice in Kingston and serves as Corporation Counsel for the city. He doesn't think that court calendar backlogs will be an issue during the six-week campaign.

"The Third Judicial District is holding its own and most cases can be reached with alacrity and our calendars are not delayed."

The local Democrat also expressed his opinion that political winds have been shifting in recent years and, despite the heavy concentration of registered Republicans in the seven county district, he felt that voters would not be "slate-ish in their election preferences."

"I love this community and I think this county very badly needs a sitting judge... and it doesn't necessarily have to be myself," commented Klein, adding that, "Yes, I think I have a chance in this pressure-cooker campaign — If I didn't think I had something special to offer, I wouldn't be a candidate."

careful about judging people's morality," Powell said.

"Carter was dealing with a larger issue of public morality in private life. He was saying 'Judge not lest you be judged,'" Powell said. "Jimmy recognizes everyone has faults and strengths."

Powell charged that the Republicans will "probably take the quote out of context" and use it against Carter in the campaign.

"Some (GOP) committeewoman somewhere will probably say anyone who says 'screw' should not be president," Powell said.

Crown Jewels Go Begging

LOS ANGELES(UPI) — The jewels that adorned a queen of Egypt flashed and sparkled in a federal courtroom and drew curious stares — but could not be auctioned for enough money to pay the debts of the once-royal commoners who put them on the block.

Fathia Ghali, former princess of Egypt and sister of the late King Farouk, looked on impassively Monday as a Bankruptcy Court judge tried to auction off the jewels of her mother — former Queen Nazli Fouad — to pay $310,000 in debts.

Although the family had valued them at $500,000, jewel dealers would not bid more than $180,000.

Judge James Moriarty and the attorney for businessmen holding the jewels as collateral rejected the offers as too low. The lenders can retain the jewels, or search for a purchaser who will pay more.

Mrs. Ghali, 45, wearing costume jewelry and rings, leaned forward tight-lipped when, aided by a woman television reporter who displayed them, the judge offered for sale a set of diamond and ruby necklace, pendant and earrings.

It drew a high bid of $140,000.

"Those are pigeon-blood rubies," she whispered. "My father chose them one by one for my mother. They are beautiful pieces and worth much more than that."

Her father was King Fouad I, who ruled Egypt from 1922 until he died in 1936.

A necklace of emeralds as big as pullet eggs set in platinum drew a bid of $50,000. By stages, bidding for the whole collection rose to $180,000 and went no higher.

"The rubies and diamonds were purchased by my father more than 40 years ago. They were never part of the crown jewels. They were just in the family."

The Egyptian crown jewels remained in Egypt when King Farouk was deposed by an Army officers revolt in 1952.

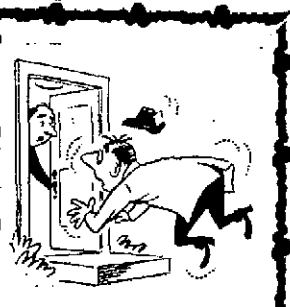

Farouk stripped the former princess and the queen mother of their titles and royal allowances in 1950 because the princess, then 19, insisted on marrying a Christian commoner, an Egyptian diplomat, and the queen gave her approval.

For awhile, they lived lavishly, in a 28-room Beverly Hills Mansion and a Hawaiian villa.

Following her separation from Ghali, it was discovered the family had borrowed heavily, owing $100,000 a year in interest alone on its debts, and had no income.

In 1973, they filed for bankruptcy. For awhile, the former princess worked as a servant ("it was the only thing I could do, having no college background"). Now, with financial help from wealthy friends, she and the former queen mother, now 81 and troubled by arthritis, live in a middle class home on the west side of Los Angeles.

Coal Now, Solar Later

DENVER(UPI) — Federal Energy Administrator Frank Zarb said Monday the nation must use low sulphur Western coal while alternative energy sources are being developed.

Speaking to the Public and Forum, Zarb said the United States has more coal energy than the oil energy in all the Arab states.

He said coal can be mined without adverse environmental effects, and without the "boom and bust" cycles that created the Western ghost towns of gold and silver mining days.

"Coal can be mined and burned without undue harm to the environment," he said. "No one is advocating unrestrained development, and just because it has been wrong in the past does not mean it will be done wrong in the future."

Zarb told government officials and members of the public the Clean Air Act's tough reclamation standards would protect the environment from effects of coal development.

Would Up GI Benefits

WASHINGTON(UPI) — Two bills to improve veterans benefits neared final passage today.

The Senate Monday passed by voice vote and sent to the White House a bill increasing veterans pension benefits 25 per cent beginning Jan. 1.

The measure includes a special 25 per cent increase in pension benefits for veterans 73 or older. The cost for the coming year is estimated at $432 million.

It also approved a bill providing an 8 per cent cost-of-living increase in certain disability compensation. That bill, also approved by voice vote, was returned to the House for acceptance of minor changes in the House version.

The increase would add about 2.6 million disabled veterans and 370,000 surviving spouses of veterans killed on or after 1945. The estimated cost is $100 million.
